HAPPENINGS

The Institute News, published by the Women's Institutes of P. E. I. has just come off the press for the months of September and October, 1958. This magazine, the editor of which is Mrs. Fred Gates West Royalty, is always of a very high standard.

Of great interest this month is the article "A Brief History of Fernwood and Lower Bedeque" from the South Bedeque Women's Institute. To all who enjoy reading the early history of Prince Edward Island this will indeed be at the top of the reading list.

Miss Lumena Poirer, R.N. was guest of honor on Tuesday evening when Mrs. Edward Gillis and Miss Isabel MacDonald joined Mrs. Donald A. MacDonald in entertaining at the latter's home on the Mount Edward Road. Little Miss Margo Gillis and Donald MacDonald presided at a cleverly arranged miscellaneous shower to the bride to be, while thirty-one guests combined their talents in fashioning a "going away hat" with ribbons and bows from the attractive parcels.

Mrs. Rita Ross and Mrs. T.S. Edgett assisted the three hostesses in serving a dainty buffet supper, the tea table centered with yellow and white mums and a glow of yellow candles was presided over by Mrs. (Senator) J. J. MacDonald.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis Moffatt and Evelyn Jean Moffatt of Mayfield, Mr. and Mrs. Benson Graham of Bayview, and Mr. and Mrs. J.H. Andrews, Jr., of Hunter River, attended the Moffatt-Murray wedding on Saturday, September 27th in St. Andrew's United Church, Halifax.

ELLEN'S DIARY

Cow With Crumpled Horn Gives Us Our Good Milk

"This pleasant autumn weather—the warm sun-filled days, the balmy moonlit nights, is ideal for the fieldwork. How well we enjoy it and hope it may continue. This morning on rising James "never saw a better day" and soon went happily to his care; to the choring, helping tend the new families come of late to the piggery, pleased to find that the young matrons now reconciled to their roles "never lost one" of the new-born; to the stable too to see that the calves breakfasted fairly, and to milk the cows—she "with the crumpled horn", and call from pasture the team to have them in readiness for work at the harvest ahead.

"Two weather marks were shattered yesterday in Halifax, when the mercury rose to 85, "a fore-caster said. "This reading was the warmest this year and the highest for the date since the records began in 1874."

At the sink we washed the dishes, the servicable colored plates and cups and saucers, the quaint double egg-cup of glass which apparently makes James' breakfast eggs more tasteful, the garlanded bread-plate, now almost the sole relic of our bridal set of dishes, and recalled how mellow and pleasant the Island—day had been.

A tiny sparrow with interesting bright markings on head and breast settled a moment on the rosebush without, just above the summer-nest of the goldfinch. Black cat stopping on a yard-path close by looked up, eyeing him languidly.

At the outset the threshing was at the barn, but shortly a silence indicated that a last loft held its complement of straw and the scene was being shifted to a far field of stooks.

"Looks like a western scene—the threshing in the field" one of the family commented. "Not these days" another offered. They combine now, some swathing it first."

"Coo's in de cawn-patc" Mack moonlight at his back grins by the open door. "Must be," he nods or why are the dogs barking so, with no cars moving about? Let's come and see."

Until tomorrow — — — Diary, Good-night.

Low-Calorie Artichokes Please Weight-Watcher

By IDA BAILEY ALLEN
"Artichokes are an appetizing and gourmet food," remarked the Chef.

"The great artichoke fields we saw in California were most impressive. Many of these artichokes are canned or pickled ready-to-eat, others are frozen ready-to-cook. But there are still plenty of fresh artichokes in the markets to buy and cook at home.

CALORIC VALUE
"What is the caloric value of the artichoke, Madame?"
"About fifty — one calories, Chef," I replied. "This includes a large base, and the soft ends of the leaves. When plain-boiled in water and flavored with a little vinegar or bouillon cubes, artichokes are a real addition to a reducing diet, for they are good filler-uppers and add that luxury taste that keeps a reducer from feeling sorry for himself."

TOMORROW'S DINNER:
Artichokes Spanish, Ragout of Lamb, Tasty Baked Potatoes, Avocado - Lettuce Salad Bowl, Fresh Plum Cake, Hot or Iced Coffee or Tea, Milk.
Measurements are level; recipes for 4 to 6.
Artichokes Spanish: For each person, prepare 1 medium-size artichoke. Cut off any stub ends. Cut ½ in. from leaves and remove outer layer. Wash thoroughly and drain.
In a saucepan, measure ¼ c. each water and Spanish olive

The bride was Mary Ruth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Keir Murray, Halifax. The groom was Howard Laughlin, son of Mrs. John Moffatt and the late Mr. Moffatt of Sydney. The Island Gleaners returned on Sunday after attending the First United Church in Truro where Stanley MacQueen is minister.

Mrs. Joseph Bolger has sold her property at Highfield and has moved to Charlottetown. Before leaving she was graciously entertained at the home of Mrs. Stanley Vessey, where many neighbours and friends gathered to bid her farewell and wish her success and happiness in her new home. A delicious lunch was served and she was presented with a lovely gift. Mrs. Bolger thanked them kindly and invited them all to visit her in her new home.

Mr. James O'Brien, St. Louis, Prince Edward Island, aged ninety-two years, has undergone a successful operation for cataracts at the Charlottetown Hospital. Mr. O'Brien mentally is still very keen and recalls epochal events vividly of seventy years ago.

Mr. Harvey Gallant, who has recently joined the Canadian Army left by plane for Halifax on Tuesday, from where he will leave for London, Ontario. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard A. Gallant, Rusticville.

Mr. Fred Coffin, accompanied by his brother Reg and two sisters, Miss Ina Coffin and Mrs. Lloyd Davidson, Fortuue, spent the past week in Toronto. While there they attended their brother's (Bill) wedding to Miss Verna Earle on September 27th.

MR. & MRS. MILTON W. MacKAY

Couple Pledge Vows At Lovely Wedding Ceremony

The Murray River United Baptist Church was the scene of a very lovely wedding on Tuesday, Sept. 23rd at 3 p.m. when Joan Lois, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Sharam of Charlottetown became the bride of Milton Wallace MacKay, son of Mr. and Mrs. Silas MacKay of Beach Point. Rev. Harold Mitton performed the double ring ceremony assisted by Rev. A.G.J. Steeves.

The church was tastefully decorated with lovely fall flowers. Mrs. Louis Herring was in charge of the wedding music and Jeanie MacKinnon, cousin of the bride, sang sweetly "O Perfect Love", and "I'll Walk Beside You".

The bride, given in marriage by her father, looked lovely in her floor length dress of white broadcloth taffeta with shoulder length veil. She wore a single strand of pearls, the gift of the groom, and carried a cascade bouquet of red roses.

The attendants were the two sisters of the bride, Miss Clara, as maid of honor, wore a gown of turquoise blue taffeta and Miss Emma as bridesmaid, wore rose taffeta. Both wore picture hats to match their gowns and carried nosegays of carnations and roses.

Little Joanne Scantlebury, as flower girl, was winsome in a gown of rose and turquoise taffeta.

Mr. Henry Sharam, brother of the bride, was the groomsmen and Messrs Gordon Giddings and Roland Penny ushered the guests to their seats.

Mrs. Sharam chose for her daughter's wedding a dress of teal blue silk with pale pink accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

The groom's mother wore a turquoise blue dress with white accessories and a corsage of red carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Ms. Malcolm MacKinnon, aunt and uncle of the bride.

Begonias in lovely assorted colors from the garden of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. T.L. Cook, were beautifully arranged throughout the house.

The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and groom.

Mrs. W.E. Scantlebury and Mrs. D.M. MacKinnon, aunts of the bride presided over the tea-cups, while friends and classmates of the bride, a recent graduate of the P.E.I. Hospital School of Nursing, assisted in serving. Miss Betty MacLean was in charge of the guest book.

During the reception a number of congratulatory telegrams were received from distant friends and relatives. The toast to the bride was proposed by Mr. Thomas Scantlebury and was fittingly responded to by the groom.

For a honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls, New York, the bride wore a sapphire blue knitted suit with matching hat and gloves. Her coat and other accessories were beige and her corsage pink carnations.

Fans Conveyed Messages What About Your Gloves?

The new shape of fashion is the topic of the hour, and bulletins from Paris, New York and Rome are unanimous with the decree that an entirely new concept of shape and form has been evolved.

In keeping with fashion's glamorous new modes, Max Factor has created the first new shape in lipstick, in over forty years. By the way this is a mirror, lipstick and case all in one.

The mirror is oval shaped and the oval has been proven by depth-psychology researchers to be a shape most pleasing to women!

For those not quite so interested in the new shape of fashion or lipstick as yet, there is a fad of the moment. This is from the teenagers and it is the wearing of white gloves to school this fall. Quite a number have given this idea the nod of approval.

This fad is not chosen necessarily to be ladylike. But it gives the young misses the opportunity to stich amusing designs, flip greetings and other decorations on the backs and palms of gloves and are a source of conversation pieces. What about a few history dates or some French idioms.

Fans used to convey messages youthful boy and girl cod. Anyteenagers will work out their own youthful boy and girl code. Anyway washable, colorful embroidery thread is used on the gloves because they must be clean. This is a commendable requirement in the quest for fashion and fads!

Dear Mary Haworth — In my estimation, yours is by far the best column of its kind. It shows great insight — spiritual insight. You come back with some very good advice, designating prudent housing arrangements as the first line of defense; but then conclude your sentence by saying: "If you are sincere about wanting real help with your problem (of wolves)." Why should there be any doubt in two career girls chide you for failing to give explicit safety rules, in dealing with wolves. You come back with some very good advice, designating prudent housing arrangements as the first line of defense; but then conclude your sentence by saying: "If you are sincere about wanting real help with your problem (of wolves)." You come back with some very good advice, designating prudent housing arrangements as the first line of defense; but then conclude your sentence by saying: "If you are sincere about wanting real help with your problem (of wolves)." Why should there be any doubt of the girls' sincerity, when they have plainly asked for help? Only the natural ego of a man could strike that note of skepticism.

KNOW OWN MINDS
Further on, you tell the girls to know their own minds. You say if they are sure of their worth as persons and deeply at ease regarding the rightness-for-themselves of their moral decrees "the man will let it go at that. He won't wrestle or dispute, in an effort to undermine." Here you suddenly sound like a woman who has spent her life in a convent; or who, for some reason, isn't desirable. . . .

I know from experience that "no" isn't always accepted as "no" . . . As the mother of daughters now grown, I think girls have to be taught that there is a great natural difference in the psychological attitudes of men and women. And that dangers DO exist.

Therefore, when young women ask for guidance on the subject, the least one can do is to respect their seriousness in seeking knowledge and understanding.

C. K.
Dear C. K.—It isn't so much what we say, or even what we do, in terms of "putting on an act." Rather, it is what we are at heart, in our innermost feelings, desires and intentions, that influences others' responses to us. That is, when they are interested—when they are emotionally involved, even transiently.

And I think there is always room for healthy skepticism, or judicious inquiry, as to what a girl's real feelings, desires and theories are, in relation to men, if she customarily has difficulty defending her "honor" in two-some situations with bauxite.

PRETTY MIXEDUP
Probably the truth of the matter is that she is pretty mixed-up as regards the gist of her feelings; and uncertain, as regards the ultimate value (the reward-potential) of her moral code. Probably, also, she is largely cut off in her mind, from what she instinctively inclined to be like in her emotional nature.

No doubt she wants to be considered charming, agreeable and appealing to men. But she feels unconsciously that she lacks come-hither in being herself; i.e., simply behaving at par—without using affectations; or straining to be bright, amusing, etc., or otherwise trying too hard to please.

When she takes this tack, her centre of gravity, so to speak, is outside herself. In which case, she can't be comfortably poised and disarming in dealing protectively with the natural differences between male and female psychology (that you mention). Hence, from a selfish man's view, she is "problematic," and a challenge to him—someone to conquer, if he can.

To sum up, the girl whose "problem" is men is a problem to herself in the dating field. If and when she gets cleared up about herself in relation to life, she won't blame men any more than she blames herself and human nature, for the difficulties she encounters in trying to find happiness, M. H.
