Eichmann Blamed Eyes, Teeth

BONN (Reuters)—Adolf Eichmann, executed Nazi organizer of the murder of millions of Jews, blamed his capture by Israeli kidnapers on his weak eyesight and his false teeth, it was disclosed here.

A personal account of his kidnapping in Argentina in 1960, made available by his defence lawyers, will be published today in the German weekly magazine Quick.

The former S. S. (Elite Guard) colonel, sentenced to death by an Israeli court in 1961, said he was attacked and overpowered by four men outside his home.

"I fell to the ground and lost my spectacles. Without them, I cannot see so well. My false teeth slipped down my throat."

"If I had not had this business with my teeth, now different I would have been. Perhaps I would not be here (in an Israeli prison) at all."

Eichmann described how he was drugged and taken aboard a plane that flew him to Israel. He was executed in 1962.

peared before Magistrate W. Chester S. MacDonald in County Court here yesterday and was charged with break entry and theft at Costain's general store, Cape Wolfe, on Dec. 23.

Some $2,000 in cash was stolen from a safe which was removed from the store and found the next day by children at the old Summerside town dump.

Accused elected trial by judge and jury and did not enter a plea. Bail of $5,000 in two sureties of $2,500 each was granted. Defence council is J. Melville Campbell.

Richard Wayne Anderson, Borden, was fined $50 plus costs or 30 days for parking within 30 feet of either side of the entrance to the Borden Rink. Magistrate MacDonald warned the accused that he would face a jail term if he appeared before the court again under similar circumstances.

Arthur Andrews, Freetown, charged with capital murder, was remanded to Jan. 11 for a date to be set for preliminary hearing.

Gerald Winston Mann, Kensington, charged with failing to change registration of a motor vehicle, was given an opportunity to consult the registrar of motor vehicles.

An impaired driving charge against George Hilton Bryanston, Hamilton, was dismissed.

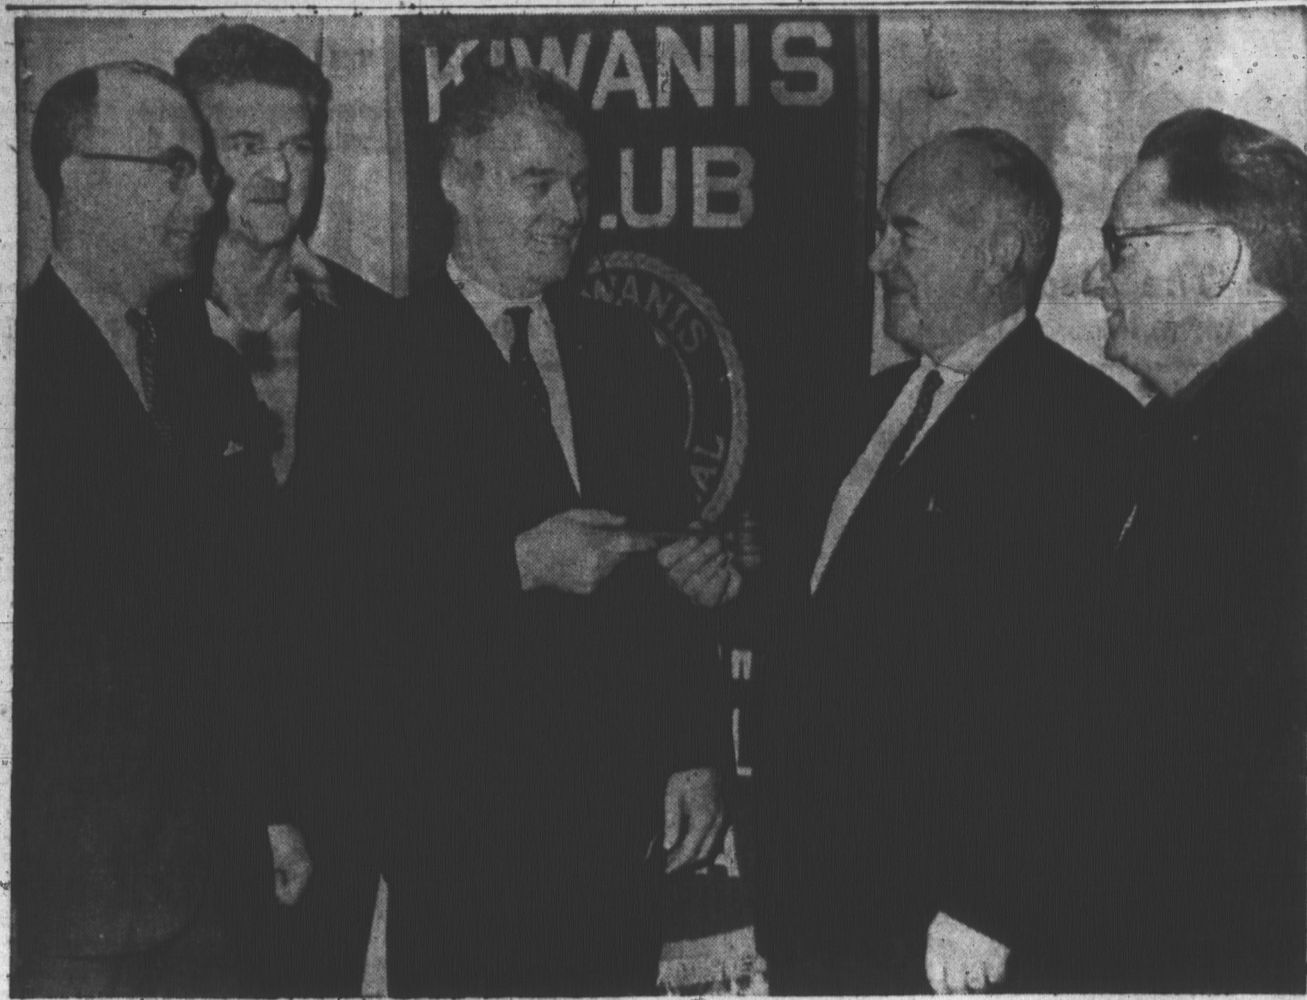

COLD WEATHER SPLASH

Bob Semple of Kensington started 1966 off in a unique way — he went for a swim at Cabot Park. In these latitudes, where swimming is normally a summer sport, the half hour spent by Bob in the icy waters is most likely this province's first swim of the year. An accomplished skin diver, Bob takes year-round dips and made his dive New Year's Day on a wager with friends.

NEW OFFICERS INSTALLED

RIGHT, Walter Reddin, treasurer; Lou Howard, secretary; Cliff Orford, past president, handing the gavel over to the new president, Frank MacMillan, and Freeman Miles, vice-president. The officers are elected in November but take office at the first meeting the following year.

Plate Demand Running High

The motor vehicle branch of the provincial government was a busy spot yesterday as car owners kept things humming by turning up for their 1966 license plates.

At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, registrar J.A. Gallant said 160 sets of plates had been issued on the first working day of 1966.

Mr. Gallant also pointed out that drivers' licenses henceforth will expire on the last day of the month in which the driver's birthday occurs. Although all drivers' licenses issued in 1965 are marked to expire on Mar. 31, 1966, this has been changed by an amendment to The Highway Traffic Act. An example is given to clarify the situation. A person whose birthday occurs on Sept. 2 will have his license expire on Sept. 30, 1966. Each year thereafter the license will terminate on Sept. 30.

Application for renewals of drivers' licenses will be sent out approximately one month before the expiration date. Motorists have up until March 31 to get their 1966 license plates.

CART ROUNDUP IS FULL JOB

TORONTO (CP) — William Bilow of suburbs Scarborough has found a way of getting rid of shopping carts that others keep leaving on his front lawn.

He has formed a company—Metro Shopping Cart Control Service—and rounds up about 3,000 carts a week. Not all are found on his property.

So successful has the company been that Mr. Bilow quit a job with a transport company to supervise four trucks and six full-time employees. The carts are returned to stores for a fee of 25 to 50 cents a cart.

Last summer Mr. Bilow, who lives near a supermarket, became annoyed by the carts left on his lawn.

"I kept getting madder and madder and finally, when I was really hot, I went to see the manager of the supermarket and told him to keep his carts off my property."

"He said he wished he knew how he could do it. When he said hundreds of other supermarket managers had the same problem, I got the idea." Now Mr. Bilow likes people to leave carts on his lawn.

Wrong Step Would Spark Racial Conflict In Africa

By LYNN HEINZERLING SALESBURY (AP) — Africa's leaders will be tested in 1966 as never before. One wrong step could set the lower third of the continent aflame.

The tinder for a race war of almost incalculable consequences to the world is accumulating along the Zambezi River. An economic war between black-ruled Zambia and white-ruled Rhodesia, two natural trading partners, already is in progress. There is every indication that it will be intensified as pressures mount on the two neighbor nations.

It started Nov. 11 when Prime Minister Ian Smith of Rhodesia declared Britain's old colony in Central Africa a free and independent nation.

Britain, intent on obtaining eventual majority rule in Rhodesia, reacted immediately. It announced the exclusion of Rhodesia from the sterling bloc, trade sanctions, an oil embargo, the blocking of Rhodesian funds in London and a ban on imports of Rhodesian's rich tobacco crop. Other countries followed suit. RHODESIA RETALIATES Rhodesia, where 225,000 whites now rule 4,000,000 Africans, met every blow with a counter-thrust. Smith cut off oil from Zambia, raised the price of coal to Zambia $14 a ton through increased royalties and threatened to raise the freight rates for hauling Zambia's copper exports to the port.

Smith has not played out his hand. The power station of the immense Kariba hydroelectric power complex on the Zambezi is on Smith's side of the river. Zambia needs the power for her copper mines and Britain needs the copper.

Rhodesia is cradled among South Africa and the Portuguese territories of Angola and Mozambique, all areas where white leaders reject Black African nationalism. African nationalist guerrillas operate in the northern reaches of Angola and Mozambique. The 36 African nations in the Organization of African Unity have committed themselves to use force if necessary to crush the Smith government.

Nine African countries, including two members of the British Commonwealth, have broken relations with Britain for rejecting the use of force. They are Algeria, Congo (Brazzaville), Ghana, Guinea, Mali, Mauritania, Sudan, Tanzania and Egypt.

NO WAR NOW

An armed conflict seems remote at present, due to logistics, but Tanzania, Ghana, Algeria and Egypt have collected large quantities of Communist Chinese weapons.

All African attention seemed to be focused on Rhodesia as the New Year opened. But the Congo (Leopoldville), an old trouble spot, remained uneasy under a military dictatorship established by Gen. Joseph A. Mo-

Driving Charge Nets Jail Term

Roy Walter Fall, city, charged with drunken driving, received a seven day sentence when he appeared in City Police Court yesterday. Magistrate A. J. Haylam, QC, presided.

Nelson Delbourne Petrie, city, charged with drunken driving, was further remanded to Jan. 11.

A city resident was remanded to Jan. 8 for disorderly conduct.

There was one case of drunk and incapable and one case of illegal possession of liquor. Both men received fines.

should be able to achieve relative stability, but tribal and regional tensions persist there. The economic outlook has improved.

Ghana goes into the new year belligerent but nearly insolvent. The Ivory Coast and Gabon are relatively prosperous but Gabon faces political instability. Liberia is prospering with rich iron ore deposits. Much of the rest of West Africa has dismal economic prospects.

Tribute Paid Civil Servant

SUMMERSIDE — At a special sitting of the Supreme Court presided over by Chief Justice Thane A. Campbell yesterday, tribute was paid to William A. Gaudet, who died recently, for his long period of public service in the customs branch of the civil service and later as deputy prothonotary of the Supreme Court in Summerside.

Chief Justice Campbell, Magistrate W. Chester S. MacDonald and Morley M. Bell, the senior member of the Prince County Bar, each spoke briefly in praise of the late Mr. Gaudet, stating he would be missed by all his associates, and extended their sympathies to the widow and family.
