

MR. AND MRS. DOUGLAS G. SHEIDOW

Young Couple Plight Troth In Ceremony At Belfast Manse

A pretty wedding was solemnized recently at Belfast Presbyterian Church Manse, by Rev. Donald Nicholson, when Mary Sandra, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald MacKenzie, of Flat River, P.E.I., became the bride of Douglas Gordon Sheidow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Sheidow, Mt. Mellick, P.E.I.

The bride was gowned in a floor-length white satin fallis dress with a portrait neckline and long pointed sleeves, featuring a bustle bow at back and a short train. Her finger-tip veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a headdress of lace and sequins. She carried a cascade of American Beauty roses.

Miss Glenda MacKenzie was bridesmaid for her sister's wedding. She was gowned in a red velvet dress with round neckline and full skirt. Her headpiece was a red velvet bow covered with veiling and she carried a nosegay of red and white 'mums'.

Mr. Walter Smith, cousin of the groom, was best man.

Mrs. MacKenzie chose for her daughter's wedding a dress of deep pink with white accessories. Her corsage was white carnations. The groom's mother was attired in a navy dress with white accessories. Her corsage was also of white carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception for 50 guests was held at the Queen Hotel. The bride's table was centered with a three-tier wedding cake flanked with vases of cut flowers and long white tapers in silver candleabra. The toast to the bride was proposed by Rev. Donald Nicholson.

Congratulatory telegrams were received from the groom's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Johnny White, the groom's brother, Mr. Norman Sheidow, and Miss Donna MacRae.

Miss Eleanor Ross was in charge of the guest book.

The bride and groom left on a honeymoon trip to New Brunswick. For travelling the bride chose a print dress with rose coat and black and white accessories. Her corsage was white carnations.

Upon their return they took residence in Mt. Mellick.

MARY HAWORTH

She Doesn't Miss Steady, Wonders About Marriage

Dear Mary Haworth: I am a 20-year-old Irish girl, in this country four years. I have gone steadily for about eight months with an Irish boy who is 26.

Several times he has asked me to marry him but I haven't given an answer yet. He says he loves me very much and I like him a lot when I am with him and we get along very well together.

But I don't think I love him because I don't miss him when I am not with him. He is very responsible and has a good job. I don't know what to do and I would very much appreciate your advice.

S.G. How would you feel if, all of a sudden, your boy friend lost his heart to another girl? Would you miss him then?

The fact that you don't miss him now, when he is out of sight, doesn't necessarily mean that you wouldn't be happy as his wife. Rather, it may mean simply that he is so dependable, so devoted, so dependent on you, that you feel deeply at peace about everything, enveloped in a sense of love security, as you attend to your personal routine.

Evidently you identify true love with romantic love. But there is a difference. True love is the desire to give fullness of life to the beloved. Romantic love is "strictly from hunger," as we say in the vernacular. It has to do with a sense of deprivation; or with chronic anxiety, self-distrust or fear of loss.

What makes for romance is the actuality of the threat of unfulfillment. It has to do with tragic or wistful frustration that drives the sweethearts to dreaming (day and night) about imagined delights and consolations.

In the present situation, these makings of romantic love don't exist on your side of the fence. The lad is yours if you will accept him, which eliminates elements of suspense and balked heart hunger from your feelings. Your suitor, however, may be fired with "romantic" uncertainties of this type.

I can't decide for you what to do. You must formulate the answer that fits the facts. As a help in making up your mind, you might have a self-searching talk with your pastor or a psychological counsellor. If you continue uncertain, remember the proverb: "When in doubt, don't."

M.H. Dear Mary Haworth: I am 11 years old and have a problem of being unpopular at school. I try always to look nice and be nice but nobody likes me.

The girls girls whisper about me and the boys don't even look at me. My mother is very understanding. She talks to the principal and to my teachers, who say it's not true. But it is very true. What should I do?

E.B. Dear E.B.: Don't worry about unpopularity. Few persons are popular. Most individuals work hard at getting accepted and belonging to a group. Some few are loners by nature. In the sense that they won't sell their integrity short, just to be one of the gang.

Your problem is that you haven't yet annexed a bosom friend, a real buddy, to be your sidekick at school. When and if you have such an ally, you won't feel slighted by the crowd any more.

To secure such a friend, broaden your scope. Take dancing, swimming and riding lessons, get to know girls who enjoy these sports, and make your home a center of hospitality—so that school isn't the be-all and end-all of your social prospects.

M.H. Mary Haworth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write her in care of The Guardian.

Clyde River WI Has Meeting

Mrs. Patsy Matheson was hostess to the Clyde River Women's Institute for their April meeting. Mrs. John Beer presided at the meeting which opened in the usual manner.

Roll call as answered by 13 members and several visitors. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and reports were given by various committees. Proceeds from the recent concert amounted to $28.95. Correspondence was read and discussed and plans were made for the festival concert. It was decided to ask Mr. Christopher Gleedhill, provincial director of music, to be the guest speaker.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Eric MacPhail. Members of the lunch committee for this meeting are Sandwichee, Mrs. Lorne MacLean and Mrs. Mel MacQuarrie; sweets, Mrs. Watson Livingston and Mrs. Bill Livingston.

The presentation of the wool blanket was made to Mrs. Wendell MacDonald.

Following adjournment of the meeting lunch was served by Mrs. Matheson and other members of the lunch committee.

CLAIMS ASSASSINATION CAIRO (Reuters) — The Cairo newspaper Al Akhbar claimed Monday that Youssef Yassin, 76-year-old adviser to King Saud of Saudi Arabia, was assassinated. Mecca radio, reporting Yassin's death last week, said he had died of a heart attack. But Al Akhbar, in a report from Riyadh in Saudi Arabia, said a group of young men opened fire on Yassin and his guards.

The Evening Circle WMS and the Guild of the Summerdale Presbyterian Church held its regular meeting on Monday evening in the church parlor with Mrs. Keith Johnston conducting the worship period. The Scripture lesson was from Hebrews 9 and the meditation was entitled "Once For All Time". The president, Mrs. Henry Bishop, was in charge of the business when plans were finalized for the Annual Thankoffering Service to be held on Sunday evening, May 6. It was decided to hold a rummage sale on May 25 with Mrs. Eldred Simmons as convener. Mrs. Donald Nicholson submitted a report for the Purchasing Committee, after which it was announced that a special collection for Keir Camp would be taken at the next meeting. Mrs. Mark Gaudet and Mrs. William Conkey were the lunch hostesses.

At I am just going by signs" he said grinning a bit shyly. "Now, this sow — you should see the way she's arranging her bed!" She was content with it as it was all day. But now she's busy moving the bedding, snuggling it up cozily, preparing for a cold night ahead.

"It would be dangerous driving tonight!" James observes to the younger farmer, just come by from an excursion from the farm. "It is foggy, but it's lifting now. The wind is rising — from the north. Yes, it's coming down over the fields. I guess I'd better close the stable doors. It will be cold towards the morning."

James nods. "I thought so" he smiles.

And so Monday goes from us, blown by a cool wind of the north as it faces out and over the hill.

Until tomorrow — Diary — Good-night.

Maritime Women's Club Has Annual Meeting In Montreal

Mrs. W. P. McVie (the former Edna Yeo of Charlottetown) was most enthusiastic in her remarks regarding the year's progress as she reported to the recent annual meeting of the Maritime Women's Club Inc. of Montreal.

Mrs. G. W. Walker was installed as president for the forthcoming term.

Several trips were arranged and thoroughly enjoyed. Two outstanding ones were the "Maple Sugar Trip" to St. Albans, Vermont, and the boat-trip to Sorel on the S.S. Tadoussac.

The year's activities opened with a tea in the La Loire Room, Windsor Hotel, when Mrs. T. C. Corry entertained with a group of songs, accompanied by Doris Killam, noted pianist.

Prince Edward Island was a high-light of the programme. Mr. George Fraser, director of tourism in the Island and Mr. Reid Sangster, marketing director both gave inspiring addresses. The picture of the Confederation was shown. Greetings were brought from both Senators F. Elsie Inman and Mrs. M. E. MacDonald, M.P. Each member was presented with 10 lbs. of P.E.I. potatoes, which were much appreciated.

Other speakers included The Very Rev. J. Ritchie Bell, and Mr. Claude S. Richardson, Q.C. Lady Bantling, born in Quebec, but who spent her youth in New Brunswick and graduated from Mount Allison University, was the guest of honor at the Charter Day Luncheon at the Windsor Hotel, and who gave the address on that occasion.

The annual Musicales was a high-light. Robert Peters, tenor, sang groups of Elizabethan, Irish and Scottish songs - while Malcolm Smith, concert pianist, rendered several selections on the piano.

The new members were entertained at a supper meeting in February. Several novelty numbers, including a "Strolling Minstrel" with a guitar kept the ladies amused during dinner. The evening closed with the "Jet Viking Air-Robe" show, courtesy Scandinavian Airlines System.

A Scholarship Bridge provides funds for needy Maritime students at McGill. Miss Sonia C. Griffen, Charlottetown, P.E.I. was awarded the scholarship at the school for graduate nurses. The one for social service work has not yet been awarded for this year.

For the past 18 years a visiting committee, under the convenance of Mrs. A. J. Moore has made regular trips fortnightly to the St. Anne's Military Hospital, bearing gifts and friendship in these men, whose appreciation is sincere for this service.

Donations to various charities were voted. To Care, The Rehabilitation Centre, Montreal Girl's Association, Cancer Society, The Sailor's Institute, The Children's Library, The Beaverbrook Library, Air-Hearing for Handicapped Children, the McGill Bursary, and the New Brunswick Flood Disaster.

'Splendor' Stars Wood, Beatty

Portraying of teen-agers caught up in the overwhelming power of their love for each other, Natalie Wood and Warren Beatty head the cast of Ella Kazan's provocative production of "Splendor in the Grass," opening Monday at the Capitol Theatre. The Warner Bros. Technicolor presentation of William Inge's first original screenplay stars Miss Wood, Pat Hingle, Audrey Christie, Barbara Loden and Zohra Lampert and introduces Beatty, making one of the year's most eagerly anticipated screen debuts.

ELLEN'S DIARY

Mother Nature's Smokey Veil Lingers After Shower

Monday! And in prospect for farm-folks, an increasingly busy spring-week lay ahead. Even to tidy the winter's discards of twig and branch out a bout would mean work... It seemed this afternoon, when, in the wake of a shower, a soft haze lingered above the farmlands, Mother Nature herself was at her tidying, and this smokey veil, pretty as a pussy willow's fur, was from the cleaning-firns she had kindled.

No tidying of doors, nor washday, this Monday allowed the housewives, but instead gave April showers. Warm and gentle they played on the rooftops, and searfed mistily the hills.

"This will take the last of the snow" we said, pleased now to have it so.

"This" Alex, visiting, offered "would be as good a day as any to bake some cookies. My cookie tin is empty, did you know?"

Perched on an end of the old cupboard in the pantry, succeeding in his turn others of the grandchildren before him, he helped presently mix the cookies he favors. At his request "Just to see how they'll work" we used the pocketful of bantam's eggs he had before this bought in, in gifts. At times he was allowed to stir the mixture and it was most satisfying when toward the last he folded in, after sampling pieces of them, the cherries and raisins to the velvety depths.

"You'll test one before you bake a panful!" he questioned. "Yes, that will be 'The Cook's cake,' but which cook?" we chuckled. Little fellows — what interesting lads they are, cheering, brightening even the grayest of days!

Friend of the family.

Bring some cars home and they'll take you to the cleaners.

Not a Volkswagen.

A VW takes care of your gas. If you're careful you might even get 45 miles out of a gallon. But day in, day out you can expect to get 38.

It's even stingier with oil. Never needs a drop between changes.

Another thing. Our car is very easy on its tires. You won't be setting any records if yours last 40,000 miles.

When the time comes for maintenance, you'll find that repairs which cost a conventional car owner an arm and a leg hardly disturb your budget.

You can trust a Volkswagen with your money. But how about your wife?

When she discovers the charm of driving a VW, and how easy it is to park, they are likely to run away together.

In spite of appearances to the contrary, there's a lot of room in a Volkswagen.

Mum, dad, three growing kids, the dog and the luggage all fit in comfortably.

If you've got a car that's eating you out of house and home, it's time you met a Volkswagen. (Nothing formal. Just drop in and get acquainted.)

Who knows? Your family might decide to give one of our cars a good home.
