IN MEMORIAM

EGAR—In loving memory of F. Stanley Bigger of Stanley Bridge who passed away Mar 12, 1955.

s only a grave but it still needs care or the brother we love is sleeping there.
one can fill his vacant place.
on this day our hearts go out,
the dearest and best of brothers, ho never had time to think of himself but always thought of others.

Always remembered by his sister Bertie.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to express my sincere thanks to Dr. Houston, Dr. Coady, nurses, sisters, and staff of the Charlottetown Hospital. Also sincere thanks to those who sent flowers, treats, cards and visited me during my illness.
Frances Hammill. Albany R. R. 1.

I wish to thank Drs. Zelenksi and Beer, the nurses and staff of Prince County hospital, the clergy and all who visited me and brought treats and those who sent cards and letters and a special thanks to the ones who helped at home during my stay in the hospital and since I came home.
Thank you all.
Mrs. Stanford Glover, Bradalbane.

IN MEMORIAM

J.F. GARD

On Sunday, February 2nd, Charlottetown and surrounding community learned with deep regret of the passing in the Prince Edward Island Hospital of Mr. J. F. Gard of 113 Upper Queen St, following a lengthly illness.

A son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Albert Gard, he was born at Mill River on October 9th, 1886. He engaged in farming at Mill River for a time before moving to the Southport area where he assumed charge of a large fox ranch; later becoming superintendant of a number of ranches for the late T.K. Rogers until ill health forced his retirement about thirty years ago.

Mr. Gard was a member of Trinity United Church and a good neighbor always lending a helping hand to those in need.

He is survived by his wife the former Sadie Dignan of Woodstock; one son Kenneth, Kitchener, Ont.; one brother William T. Woodstock, Ont.; both of whom arrived by plane to attend the funeral. Also surviving are four grandsons and two great grandchildren. A daughter Marion predeceased him in 1931.

The funeral which was largely attended was held from Trinity United Church on Tuesday, February 4th at 2 p.m. Rev. A. Frank MacLean, B.A. assisted by Rev. Dr. A.S. Weir conducted the service at the church and graveside. Hymns sung were "The Sands of Time are Sinking" and "Abide With Me".

Pallbearers were M.W. Wood, William Smallwood, H. J. Kenedy, Robert Dalziel, Allison Tait, Bd. Haywood. Interment was in The People's Cemetery.

There is no parting from those we love
No distance can divide
For today in memory's garden
We still walk side by side.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to sincerely thank our neighbors, friends and relatives for their many acts of kindness shown us, in our recent bereavement, also Dr. Harold Stewart, Matron and staff of the P.E.I. Hospital, Rev. Frank MacLean, Rev. Dr. Weir, Mr. N.D. MacLean and staff and all those who sent flowers, letters and cards of sympathy.
Mrs. Sadie Gard, Ken Gard and family.

Guinness Has A Rare Modesty For An Actor

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP) — You might say Alec Guinness, the movie's man of a thousand faces, has no face at all.

He has a nose, two eyes, a couple of ears, a mouth, cheeks and a chin like everyone else.

But there is no ready phrase to describe the features of the man who may be one of the world's greatest screen actors.

His pinkish unlined face is merely a subtle foundation for a bewildering succession of masks. He has an almost uncanny facelessness.

"Man of a thousand faces," he said. "How completely wrong. Do you know I hardly ever even use makeup?"

That's just it. Here is no trick artist whose success depends upon grotesque achievements of the makeup department.

NOT A MUGGER

Guinness' masterful characterizations are reached by intellectual routes and a deft sensitivity to just what juance he can transmit to an unseen audience.

This doesn't mean Guinness is a mugger.

To put over a point he will shift his pale eyes or lower slightly his puffy under lip. But he never mugs.

At the age of 44, he is almost embarrassingly aware that he has a real chance of winning Hollywood's Oscar for the best performance of 1957.

The picture in which he gave one of the movie's most compelling and intelligent characterizations was The Bridge on the River Kawai.

His performance as a stiff-necked British colonel in a Japanese prison camp put him on top of the list of actors' contenders when Oscar nominations were announced last month in Hollywood.

RARE MODESTY

Even with this, Guinness isn't bubbling over with conversation about himself—a rare characteristic in an actor.

But he was easy to see. A written request drew a neat letter full of dashes and parentheses, but no commas. And for a man who lives by the camera he expressed a surprising objection to photographers.

At the snowbound Shepperton Studios where he is making The Horse's Mouth, Alec Guinness appeared anything but happy.

He showed up in a black and white checked suit. His tie was blue with a small white figure and, while the knot was no arty tangle, it was too large and not quite English. His shoes lacked shine. He had a silvery fuzz of thin beard.

"I have to wear it like this for the picture," he explained in a quiet, modulated voice. "No shorter and no longer than it is right now. It's a nuisance."

Faint freckles powdered his lofty forehead and the crown of his head topped by sparse hair. A cross between white and blonde. His nose was—well, just another nose.

He looked up with the stare of a brave but suspicious fawn who believes in staying downwind from anything faintly resembling a hound.

Guinness talks more easily about the past than the present. He confirmed that he left school at 18—not at 14 as some of his biographers insist—and that his first year and a half after the classroom was in an advertising agency in London.

"I was totally inadequate," he said.

THE TURNING POINT

From copywriting he became a scholarship pupil at a dramatic school. The turning point in his life came one afternoon when he was sitting in Regent's Park with a girl.

"If you are as hard up as you say you are," said the girl, "Perhaps we'd better get off these tuppeny chairs and sit on the grass."

"I made a quick calculation as to the relative value of hurt pride and the seven shillings I had left in the world, and decided that four pence was a minor fortune and the grass was pleasanter anyway," Guinness said.

After a long silence on the grass the girl spoke.

"I don't think you should be sitting on the grass. You should be doing something. Why not go and see if John Gielgud can help?"

TALKS WAY TO JOB

Gielgud, the great Shakespearean actor, remembered Guinness from a dramatic competition that Alec had won. Gielgud had been one of the judges.

The actor tried to find the young man a job, but with no success. By this time Guinness' money was so low that his daily diet consisted of a green apple, a glass of milk and a bun.

Walking through London's theatrical district he suddenly asked for work at the boxoffice at the Piccadilly Theatre. The stage manager, who happened ,to be in the boxoffice, asked:

"You say you are an actor. Are you a good actor?"

"Very good," replied the inexperienced young man.

He was hired, playing a Chinese coolie in Act I, a French pirate in Act II and a British sailor in Act III.

"In my enthusiasm for appearing as a Chinese," said Guinness, "I shaved the top of my head. My hair never really recovered from the shock and now it is lost forever."

Three months later, when he was producing Gielgud gave Guinness a job and he was launched. His rise was spectacular, interrupted only by the war.

SUCCESSES AND BOOBS

His first starring role in films was in Great Expectations. Soon he won international fame in the comedy Kind Hearts and Coronets, in which he played eight roles, including an old woman.

His successes have been sensational, but he's also laid a couple of dramatic eggs.

One critic called his stage Hamlet the worst performance of the classic he'd ever seen in London. He was a veteran critic.

Guinness is happily married to former actress Merula Salaman. They have one son, Matthew.

The Turks and Caicos islands, a dependency of Jamaica in the West Indies, have been a source of salt for centuries.

Back Stretch

On April 1, Roosevelt Raceway opens its schedule, which runs for 105 days; it shares the record number of night's racing with Yonkers Raceway, New York, which opens August 1 and continues to November 29.

They certainly put a lot of money through the mutuels at the Bay Meadows meeting which closed last Saturday at San Mateo, Cal. In 26 days, $6,973,186 passed through the windows for a daily average of $268,199.

9-YEAR-OLDS

Wayne Groves, reporting to "The Harness Horse" from Pinehurst, North Carolina, states that William Rowe, who, with his father, W. Earl Rowe, M. P., does much of the race driving for the Rowelands Stable, from Newton Robinson, Ontario, was present the last of the week and assisted the stable's trainers, Douglas and Eric Smith, in schooling their nine-horse stable.

The only two-year-old in the stable, Riddleworthy, was trained in 2.50, and all the others were worked in 2.25. The only member of the stable that is not by Mr. Rowe's stallion, Van Riddle, 2.08, is the pacing mare Betty Hal S., 2.05. The fastest move of the week there was a 2.20 mile by Chief Cimarron, p, 2.05 1-5 that is being trained by Charles Fitzpatrick, and the fastest mile by a two-year-old was stepped byMa la Hanover, driven by Franklin Safford. Time-2.29.

Earl Avery has a large stable training at Pinehurst, and the fastest mile that any of them has stepped so far was 2.25.

For the first time we notice particulars of the Camp Farm foals that have arrived at the farm in Shafter, California. They are all by stallions owned by the farm, that have been raced and given their records by Joe O'Brien. These stallions are: Meadowpace, 3, 1.59 3-5; Butch Hanover, 2.02 3-5; Scotch Victor, 2.00; and Dabbleway, 2.07 3-5.

We had a conversation with Joe while attending the U. S. A. meeting in New York, and he said the two-year-old that they had purchased as a yearling last fall at Harrisburg for $40,000 had met with an injury and they had to let up on his training.

HONOURED

Allan J. Wilson, whose birthplace is Cardigan, P. E. I., and who left there as a young man like hundreds of other Islanders, for Boston, Mass., where he is now one of the most esteemed citizens and proprietor of the largest trucking business in New England, has been named honorary steward by the New Hampshire Trotting and Breeding Association, which is putting on a meeting at Salem, N. H., track commencing on April 11.

This track was managed sucessfully by Mr. Wilson in the 1930's, and the world's champion trotter, Greyhound, 1.55 1-4, was one of the great galaxy of speed stars that competed there. He was the first track manager to introduce "dash" racing, which is now in vogue at the larger night racing plants, and also, to some extent, at the smaller ones.

Mr. Wilson started his racing career in 1905, and he owned some of the best, including Jeanette Royal, 2.06 3 -4,that was one of the starters in the first $25.000.00 Pace that was promoted by Mr. Wilson at Windsor, Connecticut. It proved to be a great duel between Grattan Bars and his half-sister, Widow Grattan, with Grattan Bars proving to be the eventual winner. Grattan Bars continued a winner of three $25,000 stakes that year. In all his contests, he was driven by Vic Fleming.

The writer of these notes stopped off to have a look at this horse on returning from Chicago in 1925 where I had made a contract to supply a ranch there with 50 pairs of foxes for $50,000 (duty and expressage paid). I saw the four-year-old Grattan Bars working an easy mile in 2.12, with the last half in 1.03, and as I was on the lookout for a good horse, I interviewed the owner and asked for a price. He staggered me by saying "$25,000". The following year, Grattan Bars won the stakes mentioned above. The owner was Fred Thrower.

JERRY A. HANOVER

Our friend Rankine MacLaine has always had a great love for both trotters and pacers, and years ago drove in races, and is familiar with the performances of all the stars in the Maritimes. He is a friend of Jules Giguere, one of the top drivers in Quebec and follows the fortunes of his stable every year.

He was particularly interested in Jerry A. Hanover, 4, 2.06 1-5, and advised his friend, H. Roy Bevan, to buy him, which he did and all our race fans are familiar with his career in the Maritimes, where he met the best trotters in 1956 and 1957, and also started with fast pacers.

"Rankine" asked a mutual friend, Don Seaman, to look back over Jerry A. Hanover's career and find the number of races that he won each of those years. In 1947, as a three-year-old, he won 28 dashes- a remarkable showing. In 1948- he won 18; in 1949- he won 7; in 1950- he won 4; in 1951 -he won 12; in 1952- he won 16; in 1953-he won 10; in 1954- he won 7; in 1955- he won 9; in 1956- he won 10; and in 1957- he won 8. And of course he won large numbers of seconds, thirds and fourths placings, and his total winnings are $62,272.

THE MEN BEHIND

In his Quebec campaigning, he was driven by Jules Giguere, one of the top reinsmen in that province and a very reliable man, and of course, it was due to his good care and knowledge of shoeing and training that Jerry had such a remarkable career. And we must also give due credit to Archie Llewellyn, who drove him in 1956 and many times had to race against fast class pacers.

We also must give credit to Joseph Cauchon of Quebec City, who drove Jerry during his racing career in thit city, and who is very highly thought of everywhere. Some years ago, E. Roland Harriman, one of the wealthiest men in the United States, and a breeder and lover of trotters and pacers, which trait he inherited from his father, E. H. Harriman, decided that there should be a Hall of Fame where paintings and particulars of great trotters and pacers would be placed. This is being carried out, and of course, the requirements for admittance to this august place, are very selective. Our friend Rankine believes that Jerry A. Hanover, with his 129 firsts, qualifies for that honor.

Full credit for the compilation of Jerry Hanover's wins must be given to Don Seaman, who looked through all the record books, back to 1947, to obtain the information.

TCA Sabotaged By The PC Gov't., Coldwell Says

MAPLE CREEK, Sask. (CP) CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell Monday night accused the Progressive Conservative government of sabotaging publicly-owned Trans-Canada Air Lines.

He said "this is the meaning of the announcement by Transport Minister George Hees that the Conservative government is in favor of granting trans-continental franchises to private airlines."

"The private airlines and particularly Canadian Pacific Airlines are rubbing their hands with glee at the prospects of undermining and eventually acquiring Trans-Canada Air Lines."

The statements were included in extracts of a speech issued to the press before delivery.

Mr. Coldwell, speaking at a public meeting here, said:

"This is the old familiar story in Canada. The record in the past has told us that when the job is unprofitable or risky, it is left to public enterprise to do.

WAIT FOR SUCCESS

"The moment it becomes profitable private interests eager to make profits come pressing around.

"It won't happen all at once but unless the people elect a strong contingent of CCF members to protect the interests of the people in these important public utilities, this will happen as surely as night follows day.

"After all, what happened in the trans-Canada pipeline deal is very similar. There was too much risk for private enterprise so the Liberal government and then the Conservative government supported a deal by which the public took the risk and the pipeline promoters took the profit; by which the public builds the lnie and the private company uses it for its own profit, and eventually acquires it at a bargain price."

Mr. Coldwell described Mr. Hees' announcement as "the thin edge of the wedge."

Dressmdkers Almost Ready To Resume Work

NEW YORK (AP) — Renewed talks Monday night brought a nine-state strike of 105,000 union dressmakers to the brink of settlement. Only a few odds and ends remained up in the air.

Former U.S. Senator Herbert H. Lehman, one of two mediators in the five-day dispute, appeared hopeful of a settlement Monday night and an end to the walkout by today.

In recessing negotiations, Lehman said:

"We are meeting again at 9 p.m. with the intention of clearing up the differences which still exist in a small area of enforcement and organization. We believe we can clear them up."

Sputnik II Is Visible Today

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (CP) — Sputnik II, the second Russian satellite, will be visible in parts of Canada early Tuesday and Wednesday mornings, the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory reported Monday.

The Russian moon will be visible over most of the Maritimes on its first southward passage at 3:20 a.m. AST Tuesday.

Wednesday, Sputnik II's initial passage over Eastern Canada is at 3:20 a.m. AST.

Sees Slump But Not Depression

TORONTO (CP) — James A. Daly, president of Hugh C. MacLean Publications Ltd., said Monday night the present business slump is just a recesson and not the begnnng of a major depresson.

Mr. Daly who s also president of the Business Newspaper Association of Canada, said there are signs already that the downward trend will be arrested this spring.

Two Hungarian Children Join Their Parents

TORONTO (CP)—Two Hungarian children, believed the first to be allowed out of their homeland unaccompanied since the 1956 uprising, were reunited with their parents at Malton Airport Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Latorcai of nearby Cooksville were practically strangers to the children, Laszlo, 14, and Anna, 13.

Mr. Latorcai, a former Hungarian army officer, was captured by the Russians during the Second World War and fled Hungary in 1947.

The children met for the first time their nine-year-old sister Magdalena and a seven-year-old brother, Peter, born in France and Germany.

The children's release followed an 18-month campaign by British and Canadian authorities. They had lived with the grandparents in Hungary.

Mr. Latorcai, 39, superintendent of a brick factory, said he wrote a letter early this year to Communist party chief Janos Kadar of Hungary reminding him of a speech in which Kadar said he believed in the solidarity of families. Within a week the two children got their passports.
