MARY HAWORTH

Years Later Wife Learns To Handle Stubborn Mate

Dear Mary Haworth: I am seizing the moment to write you in the hope of helping other women, by sharing what I have learned about how to cope with a man of meager social background.

I don't mean in terms of being uncouth or uneducated, but of not knowing how to live graciously, as to entertaining, the social amenities, exchanging visits with relatives and friends and so on. My husband is a stubborn man who feels that women have no sense about important things. Therefore he by-passed my wishes in important matters though honoring my preference in minor things. As to big decisions, he respects only the judgment of men he admires, though he never, never would admit this.

It has taken me 20 years of marriage to catch on. Now I see values that I believe in. Meanwhile I take care neither to criticize nor to make direct suggestions, as he tends to go opposite to my expressed views. To illustrate: for years I have begged my husband and he has refused, to buy us a house big enough for our large and growing family.

Last night we went to a party given by his boss. My husband was so charmed by the spacious house and country estate, complete with barn and stable and swimming pool, that today he is talking of looking for one like it!

Also, years ago I wanted us to buy an apartment house as an investment. And though I got all the facts and figures to persuade my husband, he furiously refused to consider it. Yet, not so long ago, when one of his bosses bought an apartment house, as an investment, my husband remarked innocently that maybe we should, too.

I could cite other instances: As when he decided to lend a hand, driving the children to evening dancing class, only after another father, one of his co-workers, set the pace. And when he opened his mind to letting the children have a dog only after a visiting brother-in-law voiced surprise, tinged with disapproval, on seeing we had no pets.

In teaching, it is said that a picture is worth a thousand words. Evidently "seeing is believing" for men like my husband. Otherwise, lacking experience, they don't know what you are talking about. But seeing people they admire, living comfortably in a pattern they can afford, stirs them to do likewise, it seems. F. R.

Dear F.R.: As a matter of fact, you are reporting, with dazzled surprise, your personal discovery of a natural law for helping mulish males hit a thoroughbred pace that was immortalized long ago in Barrie's play titled "What Every Woman Knows."

Olive Moose, Provincial winner of the Young Canada Bake off competition, has returned from the National Bake Off at Toronto. Although not a prize winner, Olive who was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Elmer Moose, New Annan, found the trip well worth while. From the time they boarded the plane at Summerside on Thursday until they were set down again on Sunday, the hours were filled with thrills and adventure for the 15-year-old Kensington High School girl.

This year the prizes went to Saskatchewan, Newfoundland and Quebec, but that failed to dampen the spirits of the girls from the other provinces who felt that they were treated royally. The girls and their mothers enjoyed an all day tour of Toronto on Saturday which included the famed Casa Loma, and lunch at the new shopping centre, Yorkdale.

As gifts, the girls received engraved sterling silver bracelets, and bill fold and key ring sets.

Mrs. Bessie Rogerson of Tryon attended the graduation of her grandson, Wayne Rogerson, as Pharmacist, from Dalhousie University last week.

Mary MacKenzie, Charlottetown, decesses - at large, for the Presbytery of Prince Edward Island is spending a few days with the congregations at Alberton and West Point.

Jacqueline Brown returned to her home in P.L.ville after spending the winter months with relatives in Toronto, Ont.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Royal Canadian Legion made plans to hold a card party in the Legion home at Tignish on Friday evening, May 21st, at their May meeting. The president, Mrs. E. C. Perry presided, and minutes of the previous meeting and correspondence were read by the secretary treasurer, Mrs. Roy MacLeod, who also gave the canteen report.

Donations of money were voted to the Flowers of Hope Campaign, and school prizes. Mrs. Frank Gaudet reported for the visitation committee. Voting delegates chosen to attend the Provincial convention at Summerside on May 19th were Mrs. R. MacLeod and Mrs. Alma Buote.

The monthly meeting of the Northumberland Chapter IOOE was held at the home of Mrs. E. Mayhew, with vice-regent, Mrs. Robert Romack, presiding. Safety seat belt leaflets were handed out to all members for public distribution.

What is one man's meat is another man's poison, on the score of inspiration. To borrow from a proverb, successful improvisation on the theme of what every woman knows depends upon "cutting your goods according to your cloth."

Which means respecting the natural limitations as well as the soaring potentials of your man and working with his native bias, his idiosyncrasies, not going against the grain, when trying to promote a fortunate balance between his horizons and his capacity, so that he finds joy in making best use of his growth - opportunities. ELLEN'S DIARY

Morning Come Early As Workdays Last Into Dusk

"If the sun would shine out warmly" one of the children commented today, "the red tulips would bloom."

Red tulips soon... and the gold of first daffodils! Today however the sun was overcast at times, the wind cool that swept down on us at Alderlea, from the upland fields. Born of the North, it was - Come over ice - flows from the Gulf. But the farming picked up a faster pace. The sounds and sights of the cropping is now general. Tractors make haste with the haulings, and take up the various spreads. You see the spreaders at work, where manure or lime or fertilizer is being applied. You hear of acreages of potatoes planted, moon or no moon, or in the process. Some farmers also have fields already seeded.

Today in a spirited forgothor - "I suppose they were" he agreed. "But couldn't they have waited? Oh well" he conceded rising. "If I have to, I have. But I'm saying" he nodded, "the next time, he'll have to do it all by himself!"

Busy on farms now the days are. Young'uns come voluntarily or are pressed into service at the choring while the work in the fields is being continued. There is little time to linger about the table, come meal-times. Mornings come early. The workday often extends on into the dusk. There is also sign of much industry about. Robins gather up the makings. Swallows ply between barnyard and stream. Our one pigeon on her nest, and Mama Starling, conspicuous by her absence about, serve their households as they now sit and wait.

"The young cattle will soon be on pasture. There won't be so many chores then. In another week?" we inquired of James today, noting the deepening greens on the farmlands. "Perhaps. They should be, at any rate - some of them, at least" he replied.

"We searched high and low for Tabby's kittens, and listened, but we didn't find them" Alex reported this evening. "Could it be that they came to die?" The day dies now. One of varied brightness, it was, and a May wind that was cool. Yet all in all it was a good day for the farmers who would get on with the affairs of their cropping. Until tomorrow - Diary - Good - night....

We guarantee it.

Killex

Used as directed, Green Cross Killex guarantees results - or we will refund the full purchase price. We can make this guarantee because Killex contains a triple combination of components which kill more hard-to-kill lawn weeds than any other lawn treatment. Even when famous 2-4-D has failed, Killex has provided outstanding control over such problem lawn weeds as: Chickweed, Clover, Bedstraw, Black Medick, Heal-all, Ground Ivy, Knotweed, Shepherd's Purse, and of course Dandelions and Plantains. Killex is economical, too. One ounce of Killex to one gallon of water weed-treats 250 sq. ft. of lawn. Yet for all its effectiveness, Killex is safe for all lawn grasses. Even the best weed killers can fail sometimes. Killex is an exception.
