

Nautical Phraseology.

The following explanation of nautical terms may be of interest:— Starboard—The right side. To heel—Incline to one side. Turning to windward—Tacking. Stand on—To keep in the course. Halyards—Ropes to hoisten sails. To wear—To turn round from the wind.

Fore—The part of the ship nearest the head. Lee Tide—When wind and tide are the same way. Leeward—The point towards which the wind blows.

To tack—To turn a ship by the sails and rudder against the wind. Falling off—When a ship moves from the wind further than she ought. Luff—Put helm to leeward, which makes the vessel go to windward.

Fore and aft—The direction of the ship, or in the direction of the keel. To work to windward—To make progress against the wind by tacking. Off and on—Coming near the land on one tack and leaving it on the other. By the wind—When a ship is as near the wind as her head can lie, with sails filled.

By the head—When a ship is deeper in the water forward than aft. By the stern—Reverse.

Port—To the left side. This term is used to put the helm to left, instead of the word larboard, to make a distinction from the affinity of sound in the word starboard.

It Doesn't Work With Boys.

"She won't do, Marie, just won't do," said the man of the house, just in time to upset the negotiations between the mistress and a new nursery maid.

"Why, dear, don't you like her?" "She's not young enough."

"That's why I was engaging her. She's not young."

"That's why I object."

"Henry, what do you mean?" "I want a young, pretty, bright girl, with a white apron on, and a pretty nose."

"Oh, yes; I suppose you do."

"You are wrong, my dear, I don't mean that."

"What?" "Your tone was significant. No, I have a theory. I think that children grow up a good deal like the people who take care of them."

"Oh," and she began to cry. "I suppose you didn't like to have your children grow up like their mother."

"My dear don't be ridiculous. I mean that they got to speak and act like their nurses, and I wish my children to have no mannerisms that will be offensive."

"What kind of a nurse did you have, Henry?"

"Madam," he said rather confusedly, "I had a colored nurse, but it doesn't work with boys."

A Brave Girl.

Mrs. Felliciani, wife of an Italian moulder living in the fifth story of a tenement house on Wooster street, New York, killed bedbugs by candle light Saturday afternoon until she set a husk mattress on fire. After burning her hands trying to extinguish the blaze she rushed screaming from the house, forgetting her baby, which lay on a bed in the next room. Sarah Gill, daughter of the housekeeper in a tenement two doors off, crept from her house, along rickety fire escapes, to the building in which the fire was, plunged into the smoke and flame, and brought the unconscious, but still living baby, safely back by the way she had come. When she had dropped the baby on a bed in her room she promptly fainted. The fire was put out. Felliciani, coming home and learning of what had happened, made no further comment than: "Vella, dem bedbugs was gona any how."

The Value of Knowing How.

While Judge Tracy was on the circuit, going from court, his trace broke. The judge spent over a half hour trying to fix it but to no purpose. His patience was exhausted, and he expressed his vexation in words. A negro came along, and the judge told him of his difficulty. The negro let out the trace cut a hole in it, and the job was done.

Why, said the judge, could I not have thought of that!

Well marster, said the negro, don't you know some folks is just naturally smarter than some other folks?

That's so said the judge. What shall I pay you for fixing my trace!

Well marster, fifty cents will do, replied the negro.

Fifty cents, said the judge. You were not five minutes at it!

I do not charge you fifty cents for doing it, said the negro. I charge you twenty-five for doing it, and twenty-five for knowing how to do it.

How She Loved Him.

"Do I love George," mused Clara, softly, "or is it simply a sister's affection that I feel for—?" Just then Bobby rushed into the room and interrupted her sweet meditations. "Get out of here, you little brat!" she shouted, and seizing him by the arm she shot him through the door. "Ah, no," she sighed, as she resumed her interrupted train of thought, "my love for George is not a sister's love. It is something sweeter, purer, higher and holier."

TO SHIPPERS

Lobsters and Canned Goods.

FOR the convenience of Lobster Packers and shippers we will place that large, three-story building on No. 2 Wharf, at a cheap rate of storage and will grant warehouse receipts for goods stored therein. On goods so warehoused and shipped by any of our vessels no storage will be charged.

As this warehouse is well situated, there is scarcely any risk from fire, and being almost surrounded by water, insurance can be effected at a very moderate rate.

TRUE VALUE OF COOK'S FRIEND BAKING POWDER

As compared with two other brands the strength, only, of which have been published, carefully omitted cost.

1 tin "Royal" costs 20 cts., gives 2,033 cub. in. of Gas, or 34 inches for a cent.

1 tin "Princess" costs 50 cts., gives 2,408 cub. ins. of Gas, or 48 inches for a cent.

2 packets Cooks Friend cost 50 cts., give 2,064 cub. ins. of Gas, or 39 inches for a cent.

Cooks Friend is therefore 25 per cent better value than Princess, and 75 per cent better than Royal.

The purity and healthfulness of Cooks Friend are unquestionable. Cooks Friend may be had from store-keepers generally.
