Sport Echoes From Prince County

Arguments concerning the interpretation of rules will, we presume, go on as long as baseball is played. In the game played in Summerside between the R.C.A.F. and Holman's Wednesday evening, a plate umpire allowed a batter to remain safe at first after he had struck out, and the catcher dropping the ball, had thrown his bat in such a way as to interfere with the catcher's fielding the ball. The umpire ruled the runner was safe as he had not intended to interfere with the catcher. We claim intention has nothing to do with it. Rule 7.09 (a) says simply: "It is interference if a batter or by a runner when, after a third strike he hinders the catcher in his attempt to field the ball." The word "intentionally" is not used.

The word is used, however, in the (b) part of the rule which deals with a batter striking or bumping the ball. In this case, if the batter drops his bat, and the ball rolls against the bat, and in the umpire's judgment there was no intention to interfere, the ball is alive and in play. That was the rule, if you remember, that our good friend, George Francis of Charlottetown, commented on last year after the situation had come up in a game played at Summerside.

The situations are vastly different, we think, and the rules covering them based on plain common sense. How can anyone short of a psycho-analyst determine that a batter who throws his bat in the direction of a ball did not intend to hinder the catcher? A clever player could pull this stunt and make it look accidental. But he would have to be extremely clever to drop his bat after bumping the ball, and arrange to have the ball roll and hit the bat. Willie Hoppe, the billiard king, might be able to do this successfully, but not too many others.

The matter of throwing your bat in the direction of the ball is treated much the same as the trip in hockey. If a player is tripped and the referee thinks the trip had an important bearing on the play, the tripper is penalized whether he meant to trip his opponent or not.

Woodside-Smallman Wedding

—One of the loveliest of the spring weddings was solemnized on Wednesday evening, June 18th at 7 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Smallman of Knutsford, when their daughter, Miss Freda Alberta Smallman became the winsome bride of Mr. John Heath Woodside, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Woodside of Knutsford. The double ring wedding ceremony was performed under a lovely arch on the spacious lawn. The arch was decorated with white lilies and bleeding hearts. The officiating Minister was Rev. C. O. Howlett who was assisted by Rev. W. G. Dickson. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attended by her sister, Miss Anita Smallman as bridesmaid and by Mrs. Orville Phillips, sister of the groom, as matron of honour. The best man was Dr. Orville Phillips of Alberton. The Wedding March was played by Mrs. Lester Gay and during the signing of the Register Miss Lorraine MacNeill sang very feelingly "O Perfect Love."

The lovely young bride was radiant in a wedding dress of white slipper satin, with pointed sleeves, trimmed with lace and beaded rhinestones. Her finger-tip length veil was caught up with a satin halo trimmed with orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses.

The bridesmaid, Miss Anita Smallman, was gowned in yellow tulle and head-dress to match and wore a bouquet of yellow roses.

Mrs. Smallman chose for her daughter's wedding, a gown of flowered nylon with black accessories and wore a corsage of pink roses. The groom's mother was attired in navy sheer with white accessories and wore a corsage of American Beauty roses.

Following the ceremony a reception for about one hundred guests was held at the home of the bride, where the bride's table with its floral arrangement of tulips and its beautiful decorations of pink and white streamers and wedding bells and lighted candles, was centered with a three tier wedding cake.

Presiding over the tea-cups were Mrs. John Wedlock and Miss Hazel Smallman, aunts of the bride. Replenishing the tea was
