New York Stocks

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market maintained an attitude of cautious defence last week as it advanced. It was the third straight week that the market has gone up. Right now the stock market is around the top of the narrow range in which it has swung "for six weeks" after tumbling down in the break that followed Red proposals for an exchange of Korean prisoners.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 40 cents on the week and closed at $110.20. That is exactly $3 above the low of the year and is about $6 under the high.

Pacific Western Oil up 1 3/4 at 41 5/8 with 93,000 shares traded, was the most active issue. Canadian issues closed the week higher. Canadian Pacific and Dis-trillers Seagram each gained 1-4, while the 50-year-old farmer-trapper-storekeeper struck it rich at booming Uranium City in North-ern Saskatchewan last summer.

Today, his four young wide-eyed children—more used to the rock and sparse trees of Northern Saskatchewan and Alberta than the soft Wiltshire countryside—are begging him to sell out his uranium interests and stay in Eng-land.

"I don't think Canada would like me to go," said Hawker, a quiet, philosophical man who persevered for 26 years against the adversities of the Canadian North. He said he's sold $210,000 worth of claims and holds nine other groups, one of which is to be ex-ploited by a New York company. He will try to interest British money in more developments while here.

He and the four children, June, 14, May 11, April, eight, and Ash-ley, three, born of an Indian wife now dead, will also see the Coro-nation. They have bookings for a return flight to Canada June 14.

Four Years, No Crop Hawker's story rivals anything Horatio Alger ever wrote. He homesteaded four years in the Peace River district near Whiteclaw, Alta., cleared 80 acres of timber, sowed four crops and took off not a cent.

"Frost, hail and other things looked me," said Hawker. "I sold the land for taxes." He went trapping in the Pagan Mountain area of Northern Al-bera, 120 miles up the Athabasca river from Athabasca. The bot-tom fell out of the market and he headed North by boat. The boat sank in the rapids and he walked on to McMurray where an Indian fed him.

He tried with the hard-up In-dians in stores at McMurray and at Goldfields, Sask. Then, when the uranium rush flared up 18 miles away at Uranium City, 500 miles north of Prince Albert, Sask., on Lake Athabasca, he set up a store there.

Started To Pay Off "I May 11, April, eight, and Ash-ley, three, born of an Indian wife now dead, will also see the Coro-nation. They have bookings for a return flight to Canada June 14.

"When I got paid $210,000 for the first sale of claims I stuck miner, said the government should investigate to see if Canadian oper-ators are allowing the Canadian coal industry to die because they can't make more money by import-ing United States coal.

OTTAWA, (CP)—Members of Par-liament from Canada's mining communities East and West pressed the government Wednesday for a national coal policy to pull that industry out of the doldrums.

Mines Minister Prudham replied that there is a national coal policy, one that has been operating since establishment of the Dominion coal board in 1947.

While admitting the coal indus-try is having difficulties, the min-ister did not see the situation as hopeless. He believed that with co-operation among the federal government, the provinces and the industry, the difficulties could be worked out.

He blamed most of the difficul-ties of the Western coal industry on development of oil and gas there. A special committee of in-terested parties now was working on new methods of treating Drum-beller coal so it would handle and store without breaking up—a nec-essity for increasing Western coal sales in Eastern Canada.

As for the historic Nova Scotia coal industry, the minister said it is going through a phase of mod-ernization and the question in oper-ation has some reduction in operat-ing efficiency during the transition period, but the program held prom-ise of "substantial improvement" as the program developed.

Charlie Gillis (CCF—Cape Breton South), C. E. Johnston (SC—Bow River), Rev. E. G. Hansell (SC—MacLeod) and Denis all called for a national coal policy.

Uranium Tycoon Visits Family In Great Britain

By ARCH MACKENZIE Canadian Press Staff Writer KEEVIL, Wiltshire, Eng. (CP)—Weather-beaten Augustus (Gus) Hawker—"folks call me Mr. Uranium because of that black gold"—is relaxing in the bosom of the awe-struck family he left 27 years ago for northern Canada.

The 50-year-old farmer-trapper-storekeeper struck it rich at booming Uranium City in North-ern Saskatchewan last summer. Today, his four young wide-eyed children—more used to the rock and sparse trees of Northern Saskatchewan and Alberta than the soft Wiltshire countryside—are begging him to sell out his uranium interests and stay in Eng-land.

OTTAWA, (CP)—Should cabinet ministers be allowed to serve as directors of private corporations? Let their conscience be their guide, says Prime Minister St. Laurent.

J. M. Macdonnell (PC—Toron-to) asked the Prime Minister where he got that rule, enun-ciated during a brief exchange at the House opening on government delay in replying to members' questions on the Commons order paper.

Mr. St. Laurent replied that he got it "from the prime minister of the day" when he first was ap-pointed to the cabinet back in 1941. The "prime minister of the day" was Rt. Hon. W. L. Macken-zie King who died in 1950.

The question on cabinet min-isters and corporations developed after George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, urged the prime minister to take some steps to provide replies to a batch of questions, some of which had been hanging fire for several weeks.

George Hees (PC—Toron-to-Broadview) referred to a question by C. W. Hodson (PC—Victoria, Ont.) asking whether any cabinet ministers were members of advisory boards of Canadian corporations.

"What's the difficulty of answer-ing that one?" he asked. Mr. St. Laurent paused, reflected and said there is none so far as he is concerned. He is not a director of any corporation—unless it was a public one.

"I find no difficulty in replying as it affects me," he said, but he

Much Interest In Cabinet Rumor

OTTAWA, (CP)—Reported In-tervention of Prime Minister St. Laurent to take John W. Pickers-gill, clerk, as likely to be made into the cabinet, went without of-ficial confirmation or denial Thursday, but prompted a great deal of discussion in parliamen-tary corridors. So far as could be learned the government will not deny the report and is greatly in-terested in the reaction.

There are a great many mem-bers, including a number of parli-amentary assistants to ministers, who would naturally be disap-pointed if a newcomer precedes them in the cabinet.

It was reported that this dis-appointment was exceedingly vocal and that reaction to the proposal may result in some change of plans.

Changes in the cabinet, almost certain before the dissolution of Parliament, are likely to be made immediately after Mr. St. Laurent returns from the Coronation about the middle of June.

He didn't know about the "private af-fairs" of his ministers. He had not been as "inquisitive" as others about the affairs of his colleagues.

ISTANBUL, Turkey (CP)—Black-boards in schools here will be re-painted green to test the theory that green improves the alertness of pupils. More than 1,000 new elementary schools have been built since June, 1950, and the primary curriculum is being modernized.

U. S. Steel Report

CLEVELAND, (AP)—Orders pouring into steel mills appear to have assured full production for the third quarter of this year, Steel Magazine says Sunday.

The mills quickly filled their order books "for as far ahead as they are willing to open them," the metal-working journal continues.

The three incentives to buyers, says the magazine, are: 1. "Expectations, or at least hope, of continued good business." 2. A desire for protection against shortages which would result from a steel strike.

3. A belief that the base prices of steel will increase after the union and the industry reach an agreement on wages.

Still puzzling forecasters, the journal says, is the automatic busi-ness. Car producers are the big- gest consumer of steel and fore-casters wonder if their business will hold up. Steel says the auto industry "is still projecting hefty production schedules."

Production increased half a point to 100.5 per cent of rated capacity last week. That is 2,266,000 net tons of ingots and castings.
