In Memoriam

In loving memory of our darling baby Ethel Alberta, infant daughter of Harry and Marion Horton, Mt. Albion, who passed away January 8th, 1945.

A token of love and remembrance
To a darling we shall never forget.
Her memory to us is a treasure Her going a lifetime regret.

Lovingly Remembered by Mother and Dad.

In loving memory of
HARRY BEVAN
who departed this life
January 9th, 1954.

Gone is the face we loved so dear, Silent the voice we loved to hear.
'Tis sad, but true, we wonder why,
The best is always the first to die.

Lovingly Remembered by Janet Davis.

In loving memory of my dear Brother,
HARRY BEVAN
who passed away January 9th, 1954.

Treasured memories are all I have left
Of a brother I loved and will never forget.

Lovingly Remembered by Sister Emily.

In loving memory of
MR. HARRY BEVAN
who departed this life
January 9th, 1954.

A way in the beautiful hills of God In the valley of rest so fair, Some day, some time, we know not when,
We shall meet our loved one there.
Wife and Family.

BUCHANAN — In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, Maud S.
Buchanan, who passed away January 9th, 1954.

The dearest person the world could hold.
A cheery smile, a heart of gold.
To those who knew her, all will know How much we lost one year ago.
Ever in our hearts, Husband and Family.

Thoughts For Our Time

By His Eminence Cardinal McGuigan (Copyright)

SEASON STRESSES GOD'S LOVE FOR MAN

The irreversible movement of time has once again left Christmas behind us, and we are at the threshold of 1955. No one of us knows what this New Year will mean to him personally, nor is the world at large in possession of any certain foreknowledge of the course of events which awaits it during the next twelve months.

Perhaps at this moment of anticipation it might not be out of place to consider, in the relative peace of its aftermath, the message and hope which the celebration of Christmas should have underlined for us—a message at once old and familiar, and yet each year possessing a quality of newness and freshness which fills the thoughtful mind with a renewed sense of awe and wonder.

The primary source of this revelation of the Christian world is the realization once again of God's love for men. Accommodating Himself most graciously to our human condition, the living God manifests Himself and His love for us in a Child—at once human and Divine.
Here, after all, is the central point of Christianity—the entering into human flesh of the very Son of God—God of God, light of light, true God of true God.

The sign of love is the desire and willingness to give oneself to and to share the life of the beloved. Christmas is nothing if it be not the celebration of God's love for you and me—concretely proven in the birth of Christ. Here we have the Creator of man sharing man's nature, that He might teach him how to live, and finally that He might enter into suffering in order to restore man to his rightful heritage as belonging to the family of God.

ETERNAL NEWNESS
Perhaps the eternal newness of the Christmas story is a fact because each time we think of God's love in these terms, it comes as something startling. The impact of the truth never loses its force, because it is never completely comprehensible to us. The Incarnation of the Son of God is not something that we can ever get completely used to. It is after all, the result of a Divine ingenuity, and hence never loses its power to delight the finite mind of man. "Love will find a way," they say; and the way of God's love is the Christ of Bethlehem Who proclaimed Himself as "the Way".

In mankind, in its sin and suffering, is comforted by the knowledge that the Son of God has become the Son of Man, it is no less strengthened and vivified by the knowledge that it has been called to membership in the family of God through sharing by grace in the Divine Sonship and Life of the Christ Who was born in Bethleh-hem. For this, after all, the other side of the coin of Christmas, it is in order that He might give to man a share in His own Divine life and so be led to union with the Father.

"O wonderful exchange," sings the Church, "the Creator of the human race, taking unto Himself a living body, deigns to be born of a Virgin; and becoming man from no human generation, hath bestowed upon us His divinity." God has shared our life in order that we might share His.

I have noted the uncertainty of each of us as we enter into a new year. Yet these truths which I have enumerated will still be as true in 1955 as they are in 1954.
Equipped with the knowledge and love of them, we should be able to enter into that year, if not with foreknowledge, at least with a certain humble joy and confidence born of Christ's love for us and our own realization of the great things which His love has done for us.

Whatever God in His Providence may allow to happen to us this year, it cannot destroy the reality and joy of the Christmas message, if we remain faithful to it in its entirety. Who, after all, shall separate us from the love of God?

AFTERSHOCK JOLTS TOWN

EUREKA, Calif. (AP) — The heaviest aftershock since the violent earthquake here Dec. 21 jolted this lumber town early Thursday.
Buildings shuddered, but there was no discernible damage. The after-shock, which lasted about half a minute, was not nearly as severe as the Dec. 21 tremor which caused damage estimated at $2, 000,000, took one life and injured some 50 people.

Strange But True

By F. H. MacArthur

In this day and age most of us rely on official weather reports and the government of the U. S. has some 200 weather stations all over the country in all the largest cities. Canada, too, has its share of weather stations where you will find machines to indicate the direction and the force of the wind, to measure the amount of precipitation, to measure the heat of the sun, and to tell the weight of the air. Twice every 24 hours the weatherman chalks up the various instruments and records them on a weather map.

If a bad storm is in the offing the people will be warned of it beforehand. These reports are not 100 per cent correct but taking them by and large they are pretty accurate.

The weather is one of the most important things in the world and as Mark Twain observed — everybody is talking about it, and never satisfied with it.

"As a rule a man's a fool, When its hot, he wants it cool.
When its cool, he wants it hot.
Always wanting what is not."

Big game hunters tell some amusing and amazing stories of their life. The most astonishing of these is the clever trick elephants often play on hunters when they are being pursued (and believe me this is no tall tale.) They will walk into a stream in time of danger and disappear from sight, the little ones standing in the shallow water, and the adults standing in the deeper parts, with nothing showing above water but the tips of their trunks.

Believe it or not, but the Nile River swells into a mighty flood of water in a single night, a stream 500 yards wide and 15 to 20 feet deep.

When the great roll of advancing water draws near it sounds very much like thunder. Indeed one might fittingly say that the river arrives "like a thief in the night."

The average flood rise at Assuan is 40 feet; at Cairo 25 feet.

The regularity of the Nile flood suggested to the early Egyptians some relation to the seasons and these observations led to the study of astronomy. To put it another way one might say the Nile was the father of astronomy.

IN THE HOME WORKSHOP

The reason why this number is one of the most popular we have ever offered is probably the fact that it is so adaptable. The center section may be used with two end units as shown, or with one or none at all. A corner section (pattern 271) and a drop-leaf desk (No. 272) may be combined with the above piece for a continuous assembly on two sides of a room.
