

We all dream, and these dreams usually represent events in your life. If you would like to know what your dreams mean, write us at the X-Press and we will analyze them for you. This week, we have taken dreams from several X-Pressers and their friends. Please leave your letters at the office, addressed to Delphic Dreams.

I had a dream the other night about interviewing an actor. The interview went awesome and the actor in question got me a seat in the audience so I could watch the play again. Then he invited me backstage to party with the cast, soon we got bored and decided to go out for drinks, just the two of us. We talked about ourselves then he walked me home and kissed me. He agreed to be a guest director for my play if I would have dinner with him. Then I woke up. What could this mean?
Hopelessly romantic dreamer

Dear Dreamer:
 Dreaming about a love affair with an actor shows that your talent and ambition will involve more pleasure than hard work. The play you are attending fortells courtship by a wonderful man who you now know, and a marriage for money.

Last night I had a very strange dream. My boyfriend and my roommate had an affair, which resulted in her carrying his baby. The strange part is that they had my blessing! I know my roommate and my boyfriend are only friends in real life, so what could this dream be telling me?

Just Wondering
Dear Wondering:
 A pregnant woman in a dream symbolizes the beginning of a new idea or project. Perhaps the three of you should embark on a business venture. Either that or you have secret fantasies about a threesome.

I am a frosh here at UPEI, and I hope to be an English major but my parents want me to go into the sciences. I have been having a reaccuring dream where I find myself running naked (occasionally I will be wearing my p.j.'s) through the halls of Main Building. I am invariably discovered by my freshman advisor. He stands in front of me, pointing and howling in laughter. Does this mean I am harbouring secret fantasies of voyeurism?

"Fashion Conscious"
Dear Fashion Conscious:
 By running naked, you are expressing your desire to disobey the rules of your parents and that you want to be true to your self and become an English major. As for your freshman advisor...

Every night I dream about becoming a vigilante and bombing the National offices of CUP.(The Candian University Press, especially the advertising department.) Normally I am a peaceful person-- well, except for those few months this summer, but that is another story. Can you help me?

Trigger happy
Dear Trigger Happy:
 You are obviously harbouring much hidden resentment and sexual frustration. Get therapy and a sex life.
