Que. Students Have Praise For Queen

QUEBEC (CP)—Students at a downtown French-language high school have congratulated the Queen on her courage and said her 'call for unity and understanding has certainly touched the hearts of all Canadians animated by true patriotism."

The Students' Association of l'Ecole Secondaire Francois-Joseph Perreault, one of the largest boys' high schools in the city, said in a statement the group sent a letter to this effect to the Queen.

The statement also congratulated Premier Lesage for his remarks in welcoming the Queen to Quebec last Saturday.

However, the students said in the statement they sent a letter to Quebec Solicitor - General Claude Wagner urging an inquiry into police action during the visit and saying municipal police methods gave the world "the impression that Quebec is protected by a group of neurotics."

Discussion On Minerals Is Sought

OTTAWA (CP)—A number of provinces have asked that the federal - provincial conference which starts Wednesday discuss the question of ownership of offshore mineral rights, Resources Minister Laing said Tuesday.

However, he indicated to Arvin Hamilton (PC — Qu'Appelle) that federal policy still may involve a reference to the Supreme Court of Canada to determine the question.

He said that in earlier discussions with British Columbia it had been agreed that the B.C. mines minister and he would recommend a reference to the Supreme Court of Canada to their respective governments.

He denied a statement quoted by Mr. Hamilton from a press report to the effect that such a step could be taken only if the provinces and the federal government could not reach agreement on ownership.

"I did not say 'if we can't come to agreement," Mr. Laing said.

JFK Advisers Were Divided In Cuban Crisis

HUNTINGTON, N.Y. (AP)—Democratic senatorial candidate Robert Kennedy said advisers to his brother, the late president, were almost evenly split on whether to attack Cuba during the missile crisis in 1962.

How close the country came to a "Pearl Harbor in reverse," with a possible cost of 25,000 lives, was described by Kennedy in a speech before a Long Island teachers' convention.

The former attorney general, who is running against Senator Kenneth Keating (Rep. N.Y.) departed from a prepared text on educational problems to give the behind - the - scenes look at the Cuban crisis.

After aerial photographs had revealed the Russian missile buildup in Cuba, he said, "there were 12 men gathered around a table for five days consulting with each other."

Two choices were proposed, said Kennedy: "To attack Cuba and destroy all missile bases and air bases and other retaliatory power," or to order an embargo.

"It was split almost evenly," he added, "perhaps seven considering one course and five the other course."

Kennedy said the advisers found the attack plan tempting because "it offered absolute control."

He said the decision in favor of the embargo came after President Kennedy asked "how many people will be killed?"

Tshombe Hailed On Return Home

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—Premier Moise Tshombe came back to Leopoldville Tuesday like a conquering hero.

Congolese angered by his three days of house arrest in Cairo turned out by the thousands. They lined the streets and cheered him wildly.

In a 30-mile drive from Leopoldville's airport through the city, Tshombe stood in the back of a jeep, his fists raised high like a boxer who has landed a knockout blow. He was smiling.

Ten days ago, Tshombe flew out of Leopoldville on a somber note. A telegram from the Cairo conference of non-aligned states asked him to stay home.

The conference barred Tshombe from its sessions and the Egyptian authorities, after first refusing to permit his plane to land, placed him under house arrest in a palace outside Cairo. Some conference leaders called him a stooge for the West.

The snub has rallied the Congolese behind Tshombe, once scorned as a secessionist leader of Katanga province.
