IN MEMORIAM

JOSEPH R. GALLANT

The death occurred at his home in Oyster Bed Bridge on Tuesday, February 25th, 1958, of Joseph R. Gallant, after a lengthy illness. He was in his 78th year.

The late Mr. Gallant was born in 1880 in South Rustico. In 1927 he married Alvina Buote who survives him and moved to Oyster Bed Bridge where he was engaged in the fishing industry.

A kind and cheerful husband and father, who was ill for the last twelve years, carried his cross with a smile and never complained about his sufferings.

He was a devout member of St. Augustine's Church, Rustico and a member of the choir for over fifty years. He was given the last rites of the church by his pastor, Father LeClair.

The funeral was held on Thursday, February 27, the service was conducted by Father LeClair who also conducted the service at the grave. The funeral was largely attended.

He leaves to mourn his wife, daughter Louise, Mrs. Eugene Gallant, brother John and three grandchildren.

THOUGHTS FOR OUR TIME

BY HIS EMINENCE CARDINAL McGUIGAN

PREJUDICE REMAINS, FED BY FEAR

visitors returning recently from Africa, and the reports of our press, tell us of the sense of national pride which has been sweeping through the countries of that vast continent.

In the Egyptians and Arabs of the north, the Akan peoples of the west, the Kikuyu and other tribes of the east, the peoples of the Conga, the Bantu of the south, there has awakened in the last 15 years a desire for that political autonomy which will give them the right to rule themselves and a right to be heard in the councils of the sovereign nations of the world.

The question which we ponder as we watch this "sleeping giant" awaken is: What will be the form of that autonomy? will the political and social ideals which we hold — in theory at least — to be the most conducive to our happiness, because most respectful of the human personality, be the shaping forces of these new countries? Or will they turn elsewhere for their ideals, appalled at the disparity between the ideals and the practices of the "democracies?"

In general, we in Canada have been rather proud of our record in the area of "race-relations." Perhaps with a feeling of pride, we read of the military interference necessary to protect Negro children in the United States, or read the elections in South Africa where the basic voting qualification is the possession of a white skin.

But when most Canadians attack racial segregation or discrimination they are manfully destroying straw men; many of us have never seen a man of the black or brown races! And most of us have forgotten the pattern of Anglo-Saxon colonization which has resulted in the present cultural position of the Canadian and American Indian!

COULD HAPPEN HERE

Suppose — and it is not beyond the realm of possibility — that within the next few years a large group of members of another race, perhaps recent immigrant and so "poorly-educated" in our sense, and with a different standard of social manners, were to move into an area of "better homes" in Toronto, London or Vancouver.

Would the lofty principles written in our law be reflected in our own practice? Or would we put into effect, on a personal and neighborhood level, a discrimination or segregation just as complete and shameful as that practiced in parts of the United States and South Africa.

The visitor returning from Africa tells us of the effect of such personal and national failures of justice and charity in the democracies on these new nations of Africa. And be assured that the African, acutely race conscious as the result of centuries of subjection to an official or unofficial color bar, is made aware of these failures of ours, and each such failure is another pressure turning him from the achievement of those values which democracy can help him to attain.

SILLY, VICIOUS

The silly but vicious prejudice of racial superiority has been exploded by psychologists, educators, anthropologists and theologians. But the prejudice remains fed by the narrow racism and nationalism of a number of frightened peoples. And what a travesty of truth when science itself is warped to support the prejudice, when God's own word in Scripture is twisted to support — as in South Africa — the claims of one race to subject and exploit another!

It is not out of self-interest, the desire to have the peoples and the wealth of Africa "in our camp", that we must work and pray to eradicate this cancer of racism, discrimination and segregation. What we want for the African, as indeed for the peoples of all races, is a chance to live the ideals which have been given to us.

Those ideals which are an integration of the truths which God revealed to the Jews, of the teachings of Christ, of the natural truths given us by the intellectual and artistic giants of Greece and Rome. If we are not true to this heritage in our hearts, in our personal actions, and in social activities, who will blame the African for turning from these ideals, scornful of our hypocrisy?

Island Firm Is Awarded Dealership

Frank W. Curtis, president of County Construction Company Limited, Charlottetown, has announced the appointment of his firm as exclusive P. E. I. dealers for Butler Pre-Engineered Buildings.

The Butler firm recently completed an all-Canadian plant at Burlington, Ontario, and the appointment of County Construction completes a nationwide organization. W. G. Johnson and C. S. Trowbridge, vice president and general sales manager of the Butler firm, were accompanied to Charlottetown by T. J. Bates, Atlantic Provinces representative, to complete the arrangement with County Construction.

Mr. Curtis, president of the Island firm, said today that appointment as Butler distributor, was another forward step in the company's policy of supplying P. E. I. with the finest in building products and workmanship.

Fears Daughter Behind Curtain

OTTAWA (CP) — An Ottawa mother said Tuesday she believes Communists may have forced her 18-year-old daughter to return behind the Iron Curtain.

ARCHIVIST

Major T. Edgar MacNutt, OBE, was appointed Diocesan Church Archivist at the March meeting of the Diocesan Church Society. Mention of Major MacNutt's appointment was made in the Archdeacon's Report at the recent 85th Session of the Synod of the Diocese of Nova Scotia. Major MacNutt has contributed a great deal to research work on the history of the parishes and Churches on the Island.

Sailboat Turned Out Odoriferous

KENNEBUNKPORT, Me. (AP) —A capsized sailboat reported to the U.S. Coast Guard turned out to be something else again—the odoriferous carcass of a 40-foot whale.

It's the same one, chief Weston said, that had been troubling shorefront residents at Cape Elizabeth, some 20 miles east. Now it's hard aground off Kennebunk Beach, a popular summer resort.

Gamage, in command of the Fletcher's Neck Station, said his men would try to tow the whale out to sea on today's high tide —if the carcass doesn't come apart.

It will be the fifth time the coast guard tries to get rid of the 30-ton whale. It was originally carried into Portland harbor by the tide nine days ago.

The coast guard's first attempt to drag it out to sea ended when a line snapped and the carcass went aground at Trundy's Point, Cape Elizabeth. Since then it has been pulled to sea several times, only to return at the next high tide.

The girl, Inara Pulins, has been missing since May 20 when she sold some of her books for $30 and police have been asked to look for her.

The girl's father still lives in Latvia. The mother, Mrs. Elvira Bickis, said she fears Mr. Pulins may have been threatened if the girl did not return to Latvia.

Mrs. Bickis said her daughter received regular letters from her father until February when they stopped suddenly.

MR. GEORGE AULD

The death of Mr. George Auld on May 6th, 1958, brought to an end an unusual long life of 102 years.

He was born in Covehead, March 17th, 1856 and the earlier part of his life was spent there in farming and milling. In middle life he psent a few years in Western Canada but returned to Prince Edward Island where he purchased a farm in North Winsloe. He was an outstanding farmer, always anxious to learn newer methods and to put them into practice. Skilful with his hands, his workshop was a vital part of his life and many were the hours he spent there fashioning needed farm equipment either for himself or his neighbours. His love for horticulture bore testimony in the fruit of his labors and many viewed with admiration and wonder, the beauty of his garden, especially so, when he was able to continue this work to such an advanced age.

During the last few months he lived, even though he was able to be up and about he wished to be taken Home.

Confined to his room for less than three days, death came quietly and his spirit slipped away to be with His Maker.

He will long be remembered and revered by his many friends and neighbours. In his early life he attended the Covehead Methodist Church and after moving to Winsloe, the South Winsloe United Church.

His wife, Charlotte Hughes, predeceased him in 1953.

He leaves to mourn one daughter (Blanche) Mrs. Arthur Roberts, Winsloe Station, and two sons, Ira in Harrington and Archie, North Winsloe with whom he lived, also twelve grandchildren, fifteen great-grandchildren and one great-great grandchild. One son, Hebber of Winnipeg. predeceased him.

A brother, Dr. John Auld, a retired doctor in Vancouver, B. C., still survives.

The funeral service, which was very largely attended, was held on May 8th., from the South Winsloe United Church and was conducted by his pastor Dr. E. A. Betts.

The many beautiful floral tributes were a token of the regard in which he was held. Interment was in the church cemetery.

Quebec Banquet Menu May Become Valued Souvenir

OTTAWA (CP) — A banquet menu for the Canadian Library Association's annual conference in Quebec City June 15-18 may become a treasured souvenir.

A Banquet de la Champlain on June 18 is one special event slated for the conference and an expected 400 delegates.

The dinner, a salute to the 350th anniversary of Quebec's founding by Samuel de Champlain, features foods mentioned in the French voyager's own journals.

Special speaker for the Champlain dinner is Dr. Jean Bruchesi, Canadian historian and Quebec's undersecretary of state.

Two Canadian authors also will take part in the history - commemorating final evening of the convention.

AWARD-WINNING BOOKS

Frley Mowat of Palgrave, Ont., and Beatrice Clement of Montreal, will receive bronze medals for their award-winning children's books.

The awards, made by the Canadian Association of Children's Librarians—a section of the CLA —go to Mr. Mowat for Lost in the Barrens and to Miss Clement for Chevalier du Roi.

Mr. Mowat also will receive the diploma of merit of the Hans Christian Anderson international jury for Lost in the Barrens. He is the first Canadian to receive the Danish award.

Working sessions of the three-day conference will feature panel discussions and speakers on the modern media of communicating ideas and knowledge to both children and adults.

Among conference guest speakers and discussion leaders are Dr. E. A. Corbett of Toronto, Canadian educationist; author Roger Lemelin of Quebec City; magazine editor Pierre Berton of Toronto and theatre director Paul Buissonneau of Montreal.

Three American library experts also will attend. They are Dr. Andrew Osborn from the Harvard College Library at Boston, Katherine L. O'Brien of the New York Public Library and Mary V. Gaver of Rutgers University, New Brunswick, N.J.

Retiring president of the CLA and conference chairman is Alberta Letts of Halifax, N.S.

MOUSE SAVES BABY

NAIROBI, Kenya (Reuters) — Mrs. Vera Wilkinson heard a cry Wednesday night and turned to find her two - year - old baby Merelyn holding a writhing, deadly-poisonous Puff - adder at arm's length by the tail. But a mouse saved Merelyn's life. Minutes before attacking and biting the baby the snake swallowed the mouse, using up its reserves of venom.
