

Snow Expected To Become Rain

The meteorologist at the Charlottetown radio range, last night reported that by 8 p.m. yesterday the snowfall amount was one inch and from 11 a.m. to one inch more was expected. At 11 p.m. the winds were blowing at 25 m.p.h. and gusting to 35. By this morning they were forecast to swing to the east at 30 gusting to 50 m.p.h.

Despite the high winds little drifting was anticipated, due to the rapidly rising temperature, which early this morning was forecast to change the snow to heavy rain. Later today a steady rain is expected to change to intermittent showers. At 11:30 last night the temperature was reported at 14 and a half hour later the mercury registered 15 degrees and indications were that it would continue to rise steadily for an hour or so and then drop slightly. But with the onset of the rains the mercury was forecast to again start climbing and the high forecast for today is 45 degrees, which is around 20 degrees above normal for this time of year.

Island Now Has Plumbing Code

A plumbing code for the province was recently approved by the provincial government. The code is a lengthy one, containing 46 pages of regulations made under the authority of the Public Health Act. The regulations are designed to provide for safe and sanitary plumbing installations.

Under the code, a permit from a plumbing inspector is necessary before work on plumbing installations is begun. There are a few exceptions in this regulation; such as, repairing faucets or valves, clearance of stoppage, repairing of leaks and replacement of faucets and valves provided no changes are made in the piping or the fixtures.

Applications for permits must be accompanied by specifications of the proposed work and, where more than five fixtures are installed, the application must be accompanied by a plan showing the location and size of the building's plumbing.

The code sets out minimum requirements of plumbing fixtures for certain buildings, covers types of materials and fixtures, proper drainage, disposal of wastes, water supply, and distribution and inspection and tests.

Liberals Plan To Have Key Speakers

Nineteen pages of tables, showing minimum requirements of fixtures and pipes, are included in the code.

The province's Liberals "hope to have some outstanding speakers" here for the coming federal election campaign, including the party leader, Hon. L.B. Pearson, Hon. Paul Martin and others. W.R. Jenkins, president of the P.E.I. Liberal Federation, said yesterday.

Mr. Martin was minister of national health and welfare for 11 years prior to the defeat of the St. Laurent Liberal administration in 1957. He has been in several times.

There has been no announcement yet on the speakers the Progressive Conservatives now to bring here for the campaign.

Home, School To Sponsor Workshops

Workshops to acquaint parents with developments in vocational training in the province will be held in three Island centres next month.

The workshops, planned for Charlottetown, Summerside and Montserrat, will be sponsored by the provincial home and school association.

Association president, Dr. K. A. Parker, said yesterday "the workshops will be designed to acquaint parents with the program of vocational and technical training."

"The association feels that
