

PLAY FINE PARTS IN IRISH PLAY

Mariene MacLeod, left, and Jacqueline MacIntyre, right, do a great job of portraying Annie Rooney, the Irish maid, and Dolores Dawn, the young prima donna, in this year's St. Patrick's play "Laughing Irish Eyes" which is being staged March 16 and 17 at Birchwood High School auditorium.

Both lend a realism to their roles which assures patrons of a fine performance.

Make sure you see them and the other talented members of this cast either March 16 or 17.

Tickets are now on sale at Foster's Drugstore, Cantwell's Pharmacy, Star Grocery, Giggy's Pharmacy, K. and R. Store, Stead's Pharmacy, Reddin Bros., and Medical Pharmacy.

Don't be disappointed. Get yours while there are still some available. The show last St. Patrick's was a complete sellout.

Dominion Stores Found Not Guilty

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—Dominion Stores Limited was found not guilty in police court Thursday on charges of unlawfully discharging two employees because of trade union activities.

Harrison Lockhart, manager of a large downtown branch, was also found not guilty on two similar charges and a third alleging intimidation of employees.

The charges were laid against the company and store manager by Oscar Anderson and Kenneth L. McEwan—who were fired Jan. 15.

Company lawyer John P. Palmer told the court the union was fully organized Jan. 15 and dismissal of the two men could not have affected it in any way. It had been organized with permission of the employer.
