Bird's Eye View Of East End Industrial Area

Air Force Demonstrates Canadian Bombers "Bite"

By Rod Currie GREENWOOD, N. S., Nov. 3 (CP) — A flight of big R. C. A. F. Lancaster bombers today demonstrated sure marksmanship on mock U-boat attacks in nearby Bay of Fundy waters. The 4-engine war planes were of Canada's only operational reconnaissance squadron, designed mostly for anti-sub and convoy escort duty. The crews, post-war recruits and a smattering of veterans, took a group of newspapermen along to show the business end of Canada's bomber program — which is primarily to seek out and destroy enemy undersea raiders. This station, backbone of Canada's east coast search and rescue operations, is embarking on an expansion program which, when completed in a year's time, will make a potent fighting force against enemy subs in case of aggression. Newly-promoted Group Capt. S. A. Anderson, commanding officer of the base said a planned change into two much larger squadrons will enable them to do a "real job" in protecting the Atlantic coast. Newspaper men got a first hand look at what makes up the "bite" of the east coast's sub defences as they accompanied air crews in a complete operation, from the briefing room to the touchdown after "mission completed."

Rationing Of Scarce Materials Is Forecast

By Harold Morrison OTTAWA, Nov. 3 (CP) — The possibility was seen in Government quarters today that voluntary rationing of scarce materials may in time be replaced by compulsory control. The Government, through the Trade Department, is trying desperately to avoid such formal measures, but it now appears questionable whether voluntary measures are sufficient in view of Canada's commitments under the Canada-United States Industrial Mobilization Pact.

One informant said that if compulsory controls on materials such as steel, nickel and aluminum, are instituted, it will be because "we are driven into it." He did not elaborate. Under the terms of the pact signed last week, Canada agreed with the United States on the general principle of "equality of sacrifice." This, in effect, meant that if one country underwent certain civilian restrictions on production to speed defence programs, the same or similar restrictions should apply in the other country. To conserve scarce items, the United States has banned amusement construction and probably will order, on Dec. 1, a percentage cut-back in civilian allocation of such materials as steel, nickel and copper. Canada so far has made no similar commitments except to order the steel and nickel industries to institute voluntary rationing so that defence orders get top priority.

But now Canada finds herself so short of steel that the industry cannot fill all commitments. Belief in Government quarters is that a ban on amusement construction would not relieve scarcities, because of its relatively small scale compared to this business in the U. S. Now the Government is in the process of asking the United States to increase the flow of steel to Canada. Normally Canada obtains about 1,000,000 tons of steel from the U. S. annually. This year, because of the shortage, imports may not total more than 800,000.

Annual Meeting Of Officers Club

Lieutenant F. G. Kennedy was elected President of the United Services Officers' Club of Charlottetown, at the annual meeting held last evening. Lieut. Kennedy will succeed Dr. W. H. Soper who presided at the meeting which was attended by more than 50 per cent of the club's membership. Other officers elected included vice president, Flight Officer G. R. Henry; Secretary, Major C. M. Williams; and Treasurer, Captain H. B. Chandler. In his presidential report for the past year, Dr. Soper reviewed activities which included the expenditure of over $20,000 on club alterations and furnishings, and on the construction of a dam and club house at Thompson's Pond, Suffolk. This pond has been stocked with 12,500 trout, and boats have been provided for the use of club members. During the season fishing the pond proved to be a popular sport and 435 pounds of trout were taken out by fly. Gunners of the club have also had a good season to date with black duck and teal. During the year, club activities have included addresses by guest speakers from this Province, as well as from Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. It is expected that the new year will see outstanding military officers from Upper Canada as guest speakers. It was reported that the organization now permits members to bring their wives to the club on Saturday evenings, and it was hoped that this social aspect of club activities would be extended. An interesting feature of last night's meeting was the showing of a film entitled "Dated by Age". This film was sponsored by the Department of Labour, and introduced and shown by Mr. J. B. Murley, manager of the local National Employment Office.
