OLD ISLAND LANDMARKS THE PICKERING HOUSE As one goes from Kensington towards Clinton there is a side road on the left hand side after passing Clinton School which crosses the creek there is a stone cottage built by the Pickering family over a hundred years ago. It too has been covered with stucco at some time and is a very charming little place. —P.E.I. Historical Society.)

THOUGHTS FOR OUR TIME By His Eminence Cardinal McGuigan (Copyright)

NEVER MORE ROOM If we are not living in a fool's paradise, we must be aware that there is more room for pity in the world today than there ever has been before. Millions of souls are living in terror behind the Iron Curtain. Millions upon millions are living at the starvation level. Mental patients occupy more beds in hospitals than all other types of patients combined, and these latter are a not inconsiderable number.

WE EVEN FIND THIS ON A MUCH larger scale. Doubtless it was some form of generosity on the part of the people of the United States which caused them to pour so many billions into the relief of the victims of war. Yet all they seem to have gained by it in many, if not the majority of cases, is the contempt of those whom they tried to succor.

OF COURSE, PITY IS USUALLY THOUGHT of as something expended on our unfortunate. Yet why do these unfortunates resent pity? What do they want from others? Why will they not accept pity? It is simply because pity is not enough to give to a human being. If it is not accompanied by respect and love, it really amounts to contempt. It becomes something artificial and mechanical. It is this fact that unfortunates know as if by instinct.

WHERE WE IN THE WEST HAVE FAILED is that we have forgotten God and become unchristian. Our charity has become impersonal, done through social agencies. Munificence, liberality and generosity have gone the same way. This causes us to become far removed from the actual sufferings of others and almost immune to pity.

THE MODEL OF ALL PITY IS THE Divine Pity and in every instance it has emanated from Divine Love. The Christ of the Gospels was a Man of pity. There was no human ill for which He did not have compassion. There is no sin for which He did not offer pardon. He is the prototype of the prodigal's father. He was the one to lay down His life for His sheep. Who sought out the one who strayed. Who rejoiced upon the conversion of the black sheep.

WHERE WE IN THE WEST HAVE FAILED is that we have forgotten God and become unchristian. Our charity has become impersonal, done through social agencies. Munificence, liberality and generosity have gone the same way. This causes us to become far removed from the actual sufferings of others and almost immune to pity.

Cypriots Under Strict Curfew Law In Capital

By SHAHE GURENLIAN NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters) — It is 7 p.m. Another day has ended in the capital of Cyprus. The last-minute flurry of footsteps anxious to get home before the curfew has died down. The police loudspeaker van makes its rounds. "Attention! Attention!" The Turkish auxiliary policeman in the van shouts in Greek. Two Cypriot girls on a balcony laugh at his pronunciation. "STAY INDOORS!" "You now are under curfew and must stay indoors. Anyone who comes out may be shot." The Greeks haven't a word for "curfew"—and the nearest equivalent takes eight syllables. So they use the English.

There are other words, expressions and gestures that have become part of the sad, silent and sombre picture of Cyprus. Words like ambush, explosion, time-bomb, strike, riot and tear gas are in general use. Five- and six-year-old children have learned them, together with their grim meaning. The latest children's game these days is "wire-crawling." The aim is to find a hole in the formidable barricades which divide the old town, and to crawl through it to the other side without tearing their clothes.

There are many Britons living within Nicosia's walls. Officially, they have freedom of movement during curfew, but they prefer to stay indoors. They have heard it whispered that troops have instructions to "shoot at anything seen moving in the streets."

Loan Companies Present Brief To House Committee

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Consumer Loan Association Thursday night endorsed the extension of federal control over interest rates on loans of more than 500 but opposed new government-proposed rates on such loans because they would drive away investment capital. The association, made up of small loans companies and licensed money lenders conducting about 95 per cent of business regulated by the Small Loans Act, made the statement in a brief to the Commons banking committee. The committee is studying amendments to the Small Loans Act which would widen the scope of interest rate control on loans up to 1,500, and fix a sliding scale of flat maximum interest rates which may be charged.

Congress Passes Customs Simplification Legislation

Eisenhower's long-sought customs simplification bill was passed by the Senate Wednesday, almost a year after it had been approved by the House of Representatives. The Senate okayed the measure on a voice vote and sent it to a conference with the House. Differences between the two versions of the bill still must be ironed out. Under the Senate version, the treasury estimates that losses in customs revenue will not exceed $300,000 a year. The key provision of the Senate version would change the present law requiring that import duties be charged on the foreign value of the goods or the export value, whichever is higher. Foreign value is the going domestic price in the exporting country. Export value is the price put on the goods for sale in the United States. Eisenhower requested a simplification basing import duties on export value alone. The treasury said this would enable it to wipe out a huge backlog of customs investigations. Thousands of these, it said, result from difficulties in determining foreign value.
