The thousands of friends who visited the home, attended the funeral, sent spiritual offerings, floral tributes and messages of sympathy bore silent testimony as to the popularity this youth had attained during his short life.

One of the largest funerals in this area was held from the home of his parents Tuesday, January 16, to Sacred Heart Church, Alberton for Solemn Requiem High Mass celebrated by his pastor Rev. Phelan McKenna, with Rev. J.N. Gallant as deacon and Rev. Thomas McKenna, SSJ, as sub-deacon. Rev. Arthur Pendergast was master of ceremonies. Seated in the sanctuary were Rev. Patrick Walsh, Rev. Clarence Pitre, Rev. M. J. Rooney, Rev. David McTague, Rev. Em. Richard, Rev. Claude Shea and Rev. Floyd McGaugh Mass was sung by the Tignish children's choir with Miss Jean Perry as organist.

Always so true, unselfish and kind,

Summerside and Prince County

Dewar Has Comment On College Proposal

P.E.I. minister of education Dr. George Dewar yesterday gave support to the proposed junior college for the Summerside area. He said that the area appeared to have enough student potential for the college. The proposal came from Dr. Hubert McNeill, minister of health, in the legislature earlier this week.

Dr. McNeill suggested that Summerside should have a junior college to provide the first two years of university as Prince of Wales College now does.

It was estimated by Dr. Dewar that by the end of next year, high schools in the Summerside area would be serving about 1,000 students. "This would certainly seem to warrant providing grade 13 in the curriculum," he said.

Turning to teacher training, Dr. Dewar said "there is no doubt that soon we will have grade 13 as a requirement for entrance to teacher training." He also suggested that two-year courses in teacher training are being considered by his department.

SEAL HUNT

gan to take shape. The hunters are hoping that a storm will drive the seals closer to either the Magdalenes or Prince Edward Island.

Dr. Arsenault grounded all his helicopters after landing about 300 pelts. The Matthews team kept up flights all afternoon, landing about 130 pelts. The planes made their last flight a little late and two men were left on the ice. The men, Lowell Matthews of Alberton and fisheries officer Elmore MacKay of Charlottetown made their way on foot to the sealing ship East Star operating about two miles away.

Dr. Arsenault is prepared to move into high gear when the storm lets up, whether the seals are off the P.E.I. north coast or the Magdalenes.

MORE 'COPTERS ARRIVE

One of his four additional helicopters arrived yesterday afternoon. The other three are expected shortly. If the seals are within one hours flying time of either possible base station then all eight helicopters and all available hunters will be put to work.

If Dr. Arsenault moves his group to the Magdalenes he will leave behind more than 3,000 seal pelts. The pelts have been stacked near the base station house at North Rustico. The house is owned by Cornelius Sampson.

PELTS STORED

The pelts have been placed on a mat of hay and covered with a polyethelene sheet. This has been covered with a depth of snow and insulated from the sun with seaweed. They will remain there until the ice leaves and ships can enter Rustico harbor to take the pelts to the Magdalens.

Glen Matthews is trucking his pelts to Halifax where the market is already good. Over the week-end Mr. Matthews delivered the first pelts to arrive in Halifax this season.

Eight Halifax-based sealing ships are fast approaching the giant seal herd. One ship, the East Star is within two miles of the herd. A shift of the ice toward the Magdalens could greatly hinder the ships, if was said however.

Member Queries Tape Recordings

OTTAWA (CP) — Harold Winch (CCF—Vancouver East) maintained Wednesday in the Commons that everything said in the House is being tape-recorded in a basement room of the Parliament Buildings without the knowledge of most MPs.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said he hasn't any such information.

Speaker Roland Michener said the matter involves the chair and that it is Commons practice not to involve the Speaker in any controversy.

Mr. Winch pursued the subject. He said that approximately a year ago the Commons had given consent for an experiment with a tape recorder. The experiment had failed and he had no knowledge of a new experiment at this session.

Mr. Michener said Mr. Winch could put a motion so that the matter could be debated.

Mr. Winch did not make any immediate motion to this effect.

Czech Leads Don Jackson

PRAGUE (AP)—Karol Divin, Czechoslovakia's Olympic silver medalist, took a strong lead over the favored Don Jackson of Canada Wednesday for the men's singles title in the World Figure Skating championships.

After the first four of six compulsory figures, the Czech had the first place support of six of the nine judges and had 765.7 points compared with 730.1 for Jackson.

American champion Monty Hoyt of Denver made a fine recovery after a faulty opening figure and moved into sixth place in the field of 18.

The final two figures will be skated today and Jackson cannot afford to lose further ground if he is to succeed to the throne vacated by Alain Giletti of France, now a pro.

The Canadian is a brilliant free skater and stands to outscore Divin in this final phase of the competition. However, compulsory figures count 60 per cent and free skating only 40 per cent in the judging.

Alain Calmat, the European champion from France, slumped on his third and fourth figures but held third place with 710.7 points. Then came Donald McPherson of Canada, 699.7, and Manfred Schnelldorfer of West Germany, 678.7

In January the gap was £78,600,000 ($212,080,000).

The board said British exports in December, January and February were one per cent down on the September - November period.

Tignish Fisheries Co-op Reports Successful Year

TIGNISH— The annual meeting of the Tignish Fisheries Co-operative Association was held yesterday in the local high school auditorium with a large attendance.

President Kenneth MacRae welcomed the shareholders to the 36th annual meeting of the association and in his opening remarks reviewed the progress of the group since its formation in 1925 when 30 interested fishermen under C. P. McCarthy formed the first organization of fishermen's groups in P.E.I.

NEW SHAREHOLDERS

Mr. MacRae reported a very successful year. Eleven shareholders were received into the association—four from Alberton. This brings the total membership to 146.

A tribute of one-minute's silence was paid to the late Albert Gillis, a shareholder since 1943, who passed away during the year.

The president urged participation in discussion of reports to be presented in the meeting. Secretary Joseph Doucette read the minutes of the last annual meeting and Roy MacLeod, assistant manager, read the financial statement which showed that great progress was being made.

INCREASE SHOWN

The annual report of the board of directors was given by the manager of the Tignish Fisheries, Wilson Shea. The report showed an increase of $23,000 over 1960, with a scarcity of ground fish (herring and mackerel). The increase was in lobster sales, with a very marked increase in the spring operation. 133,000 lbs. of lobsters were landed during the spring and fall season. One shipment on the Boston market brought an all-time high of $1.10 per pound (live).

EXCELLENT QUALITY

During the year not a single report of a can of bad or poor quality lobsters was received. 900 cases chicken haddie, 600 cases lobster paste, 200 cases blueberries were also processed at the Tignish Co-operative plant. A total of 356,000 lbs. codfish and 118,000 lbs. hake were salted during the year. Some emphasis was put on gillnets and the use of a cod trap to bring in more fish and provide more income to fishermen.

The manager stressed "if we are to continue in the fishing business and if the economy of these fishing communities is to grow and be maintained, even if the present level we must get more fish".

The board of directors are giving study to a shore crew to assess fish to allow fishermen more time at sea. An ice-making machine is to be made available so fish-holding will not be a problem.

WILLS SUGGESTED

The importance of fishermen making out their wills was emphasized. A sample will was sent to each shareholder with his annual bonus. The matter arose out of the loss of lives in storms or by other means last year when in at least one case no will was left.

In concluding his report, Mr. Shea thanked all fishermen and members of the shore crew. He also expressed thanks to the Department of Fisheries, the federal dept. of public works, the provincial dept. of highways, the provincial dept. of fisheries, and the extension department at St. Dunstan's University for their contribution to educational needs.

NEW BOARD

The new board of directors are Ferdinand Gaudet, Milton Keough, Hubert Gallant. Other directors are Wilfred Doucette, Frederick Richard, Edward McAlduff, Algre Handrahan, Alfred McInnis. A new president will be selected from the board of directors at a special meeting later. Visiting officials, guests and shareholders were tendered a banquet at the close of the business meeting.

The evening session was addressed by Rev. W. Simpson, a former director of extension at St. Dunstan's University. He spoke on "the changing trend in the farming and fishing industry". He stated that the world's population is soon going to look to the sea for more of its foods.

He urged fishermen to keep pace with the changing times through adult education. "We need leadership today more than ever we did before to live the co-operative way of life", he said. He challenged the fishermen to remove poaching from the area by banding together and co-operating within the law.

Other speakers were Hector Richard, Wilson Shea, Dr. Wilfred Leon, Rev. Floyd McGaugh, Rev. M. J. Rooney, Urban LeBlanc, George LaBelle.

Hubert Gaudet, MLA chaired the evening session and thanked the ladies of the CWL for catering to the banquet and thanked all for their co-operation.

Metal Chaff Use Said Dangerous

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy said Wednesday Soviet dropping of metal chaff in the air corridors to Berlin is "a particularly dangerous kind of action."

Kennedy, at a press conference, said Soviet harassment of Western planes in the airlanes represents the kind of move that can lead to counter-actions that could only "intensify" the dangers.

Kennedy said that if the Soviet Union really desires a peaceful settlement of issues between the East and the West, it would seem to him that it would bend every effort to avoid incidents.

On another East-West issue—nuclear testing—Kennedy said the U.S. position in the world would be strengthened if it did not have to resume nuclear testing in the atmosphere. He remarked that is why he especially hopes for agreement on a test-ban treaty with effective safeguards.

NEED GOOD DETECTION

At the same time, he said the United States would submit at the Geneva disarmament conference proposals designed to permit a check on preparations for nuclear testing. However, the most significant objective is to establish a system to detect an actual test, he said.

Kennedy also discussed these other matters:

Foreign aid: Kennedy called for congressional approval of his foreign aid request totalling nearly $4,900,000,000 and said "I would think it would be the most unwise act possible to diminish our assistance program." He rated foreign aid as "just as important as our national defence."

Summit: Kennedy added another condition under which he would attend a summit conference: "I would go if I thought it was in our national interest." He repeated that he would attend a meeting of East-West heads of government to ratify an agreement or if the world were on the brink of war, but also asserted that "I do not intend to go unless there is a situation developed which I believe would make such a trip fruitful and rewarding."

Combat troops: Kennedy said that if there is a basic change in the situation in South Viet Nam calling for a constitutional decision on whether or not to commit U.S. combat troops to action, he would go to Congress for approval.

Cuba: The United States is attempting to develop with other nations of the hemisphere measures to block the expansion of communism, he said. The U.S. has embargoed most trade with Cuba, he added, and is considering what else can be done to halt the spread of communism.

Glenn Cursed, Threatened In Run-In With Teen-Agers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Astronaut John H Glenn Jr. was cursed and an attempt was made to slug him in an encounter with rowdy teen-agers at the church he attends in Arlington, Va., last Saturday night, police reported Wednesday.

Police Sgt. Warren Siske said this is what happened:

Glenn, during a brief stay at home after the flight that followed his successful orbit flight, went to a home in Arlington to pick up his daughter from a teen-age party.

Upon arrival he found a rowdy group of youths who apparently had been refused admittance to the party.

One of the gang threw a beer can into the yard and Glenn ordered him to pick it up, giving him 10 seconds to do so. Words were exchanged, but the youth obeyed.

ASKED TO LEAVE

When Glenn emerged from the house he heard some of the boys say they were going to the teen centre at the Little Falls United Presbyterian Church.

Thinking that they might cause trouble there, Glenn drove to the church to assist his pastor, Rev. Frank Erwin. At the church, Erwin had asked the boys, who were misbehaving, to leave the centre. One of them had started cursing.

Glenn ordered the youths to leave and, after they retorted with derisive remarks, he said he would record the license number of their car and call police.

A boy jumped in front of the licence plate to obscure it. As Glenn pushed him aside, one of the teen-agers swung at the astronaut, who promptly pinned the boy's arms against the car until other persons came from the church to help.

Glenn then went into the church and called police, but the gang fled before they arrived.
