ELLEN'S DIARY

Night Calls Young Home Past The Golden Willows

And now came a baying — day straight from the bush of dawn — of a dog and fair wind, to blast the farmers' work of the field. But at Austeria, because the swaths had not "made", there could be no saving today to the barns.

"There'll be plenty of it to save shortly," Jamie chuckled to his grandfather, who was sitting in "I hope so" James said "But I'm thinking it's the mucky having wind to be having throughout!"

"Well, it took me a long time to come to the end of that," the Porter of Vineland Station, Mr. Schuler unheeded.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Halsey was getting in navy and white silk crepe, with two accessories and a corsage of pink rosebuds. Mrs. Stevenson, mother of the groom, wore a gown of aqua organza over taffeta with white accessories and a corsage of pink rosebuds.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the ladies parlour of the church hall, where Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson left for eastern Canada and the United States.

For travelling Mrs. Stevenson chose a double knit suit of cherry red wool with white accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson will reside at Henley Drive in St. Catharines.

carpenter nodded this afternoon, as he surveyed his finished work from the yards: the roof of this house with its several gables and verandas shining new in the sun. "The weather was against it. However," he smiled "it's done at last."

He gathered up his tools, and then after supper, with Mack and Alex riding happily beside him to "go a drive in the road" in the wagon drawn smartly by his sleek black mare, he was off to his home some distance away.

"We'll miss him" James said, looking sight of them down a tip of road. "This is the carpenter who some years back built the snug house across the lane. One of a happy company of brothers and sisters, now with two passed away, and the others scattered hither and yon from this neighbourhood, he was reared at their home close by. These lads were often James' willing and dependable helpers in his earlier years at the farming, so that, having more or less grown up together, they have many a pleasant memory in common — many a former scene and chuch-
