

THE DAILY EXAMINER. JANUARY 14, 1889.

Lord Stanley on the Benefit of Co-operation.

SPEAKING at the Board of Trade dinner given in Toronto, the Governor-General said:—

"In this nineteenth century, if there is one principle which, it appears to me, has come to the front more than another, at least in social life, it is that underlying the habit of association. Men are no longer content to live singly, whether it be in matters of trade or in other enterprises, and, indeed, men are now forced to combine in the interests of trade and commerce. All the great enterprises of the age, whether in connection with our great ocean steamships or other wonders of our age, have been promoted by association, and the tendency of the day is for men to associate to a greater extent than formerly. Of the associations of men there are of the most various kinds, and I have the honor of addressing at this moment this board is, I believe, almost unexampled in the number of its active members, and on the principle that imitation is the sincerest form of flattery, its example has been followed by the creation of similar bodies in other parts of the country. We know what services can be rendered, and have been rendered, by such associations. They have assisted the government in the most important way in one way or another for some time, and I speak from personal knowledge when I assure you that as late president of the official Board of Trade of England, I can testify to the advantage which has accrued to those in public service from the free interchange and ready information afforded by such bodies—in the collection of statistics and the giving of information, whether to their own body or any Government department. Perhaps not the least important duty of such bodies, and I say this with respect, is the putting of pressure upon ministers of the Government, and in England the Chamber of Commerce have found ample scope for their capacity. I think that associations such as that I am addressing must command admiration, because it is wonderful to find men, actively engaged in business or in the public service, cheerfully surrender, for the common good, no inconsiderable portion of their time, and make sacrifices for the promotion of associations on which they believe so much of the welfare of their country depends. Cheers."

We commend these observations to the consideration of the merchants of Charlottetown.

The Feelings of Canadians.

In the course of his speech at the Board of Trade Dinner in Toronto, Sir John Macdonald said:—

"One thing I can say on behalf of both Chambers of the Parliament of Canada as now constituted that they fully represent the feelings of the people, and they fully represent the feelings of the people in this room, whom I have the honor of addressing—(hear, hear and cheers)—and I say that they are a loyal body of men—(hear, hear)—representing the loyal people of Canada. They will speak, and have spoken, and will speak again—and in pursuance of their speech—they will make their own sound; they will prove by act, by word, by administration, by legislation, that they love the constitution under which they now live; that they love the sovereign who now rules over them; that they appreciate the great advances, moral, commercial, political and material, which they enjoy by connection with the grand old country—the mother country of most of us. (Hear, hear, and cheers.) Aye, let me say in Canada go to a constituency in Canada and make one of the grounds of claiming the confidence that he was anxious to sever the silken tie that has so long connected us with the mother country. I think, gentlemen, that under our rigid constitution it would be likely to forfeit his deposit. (Laughter.) Gentlemen, we are doing very well. We are very comfortable. We are very happy; and the people outside are quite as happy as we are, and perhaps a little happier, as they have not the trouble of listening to your humble servant. (Laughter.) We are happy, and we are resolved to remain so. (Hear, hear.) And the best way that we can do so is to go on as we are doing for the present constitution. You know the Italian epitaph which was put upon the tombstone by the sorrowing survivors of the person under the sod:—

I was well, I would be better, And here I am.

(Loud laughter.) We are well, and if you try to be better in the way that some few advise us, to try the quack medicine, I think that we will be in the position of the Italian, and have somebody else to write that epitaph for us. (Laughter.)"

A Hostile Nation.

The Premier of Ontario is outspoken against Annexation. At the Board of Trade dinner in Toronto he said:—

"I am not an Annexationist, and I am glad to know that you are not. (Applause.) You and I look to our country as being better than any other country, and we prefer to be British subjects rather than citizens of any other country in the world. (Applause.) I myself would rather be premier of Ontario than governor of New York, and if I had any ambition for still higher public honors, which I have not, I would rather be premier of Canada than president of the United States. (Applause.) I say that with all respect to that nation. It is impossible not to respect their energy, but it is one thing to respect them and another to join them. (Applause.) One great obstruction to union, and one which I regard as a vital consideration on the subject is that unfortunately we cannot but regard that nation as a hostile nation. (Hear, hear.) Probably everyone of us here have friends in that nation whom we esteem as much as any British subjects, but we have proof lately that as a nation they are hostile to us. There is no such thing there as getting up anti-French feeling or an anti-Russian feeling, but it is very easy to excite there an anti-British feeling. There ought to be amity between the two great nations. If they occupy that position, as I hope some day they may, then we may have this question of annexation under new conditions and in a new aspect. (Oh, oh.) As the matter stands now I am prepared to say for the people of Canada they will never give away, or sell this great territory to a hostile nation. The people would rather suffer the loss of all things that give or sell their country."

There is comfort for the man with a prematurely gray beard in Buckingham Dye, because it never fails to color an even brown or black as may be desired.

An Important Point Left Out.

The reasoning of the Halifax Chronicle is sometimes a little peculiar. For instance, the Chronicle declares that there has been "a general decrease in the number of business failures in the United States during the last three years, while in Canada there has been a general increase," and proceeds to attribute the "increase" to the protective policy. But the United States, in which, according to the Chronicle's showing, there has been a "decrease," has a higher and more thoroughgoing "protective policy" than Canada; and if "the protective policy" were the cause of the alleged increase of bankruptcies, there would necessarily be a larger increase in the States than in Canada.

By the way, how does the Chronicle account for the fact that nearly double as much was lost by bankruptcies in Canada in the days of Free Trade, and when the population and trade of the country were far smaller than they are now, as there was last year? In 1878, the liabilities of bankrupts in Canada amounted to $23,908,677,—last year they amounted to $13,974,787. Will the Chronicle admit that the Protective Policy caused this gratifying decrease? If it be charged with the increase of the last three years, it ought certainly to be credited with the decrease shown between the amounts involved in bankruptcies in 1878 and 1888.

Three Rivers Dairymen's Association.

THE annual meeting of the above Association was held in New Perth School-house on Thursday, the 10th January, inst., when the following were elected officers for the current year:—

President—Robert Dewar, New Perth. Vice-President—James D. Dewar, Brudenell. Secretary—John Hamilton, New Perth. Treasurer—Wm Kaneen, New Perth. Executive Committee—Stewart McLean, chairman; Alex. Hamilton, Wm Macdonald, New Perth; Thomas Mellish, Union Road; Daniel McQuarrie, Rosneath.

The following members were appointed delegates to attend the meeting of the Western Agricultural Convention to be held at Freetown on Jan. 18th:—Cyrus Shaw, Jas. D. Dewar, John Hamilton, Geo. F. Owen and Wm. Kaneen.

The Secretary submitted his annual report,—an exhaustive review of agricultural transactions for the year 1888,—which we hope to see published.

Owing to the absence of F. G. Boyer, Esq., who was to introduce the discussion respecting the establishment of a Cheese Factory, nothing definite was done. Mr. McQuarrie reported from Rosneath meeting, Mr. McLean from Summerside, and Mr. Mellish from Union Road; but the general opinion was averse to any steps being taken at the present time.

Mr. W. A. Brennan, of the Summerside Journal, being present, addressed the meeting, and an animated discussion on horse-breeding took place, in which Mr. Brennan, Jas. D. Dewar, Cyrus Shaw and others took part.

The wretched condition of the roads prevented many of those interested from being present at this meeting.

Wedding Bells.

An interesting ceremony was performed at Crawley Cottage, the residence of William Minto, Esq., Cardigan Bridge, on Wednesday evening, the 9th inst., Miss Laura Minto being united in marriage with Mr. Alex. Drake, of Vernon River, Lot 50. The Rev. Mr. Goldsmith, of Montague, forged the golden chains. Besides the bride's father and mother, the ceremony was witnessed by a number of relatives and friends, among whom we noticed Samue Drake, Esq., the father of the groom, Mr. Wood and the Messrs. Ings, of Lot 48, Donald Stewart, Esq., J. P., Cardigan, H. L. McDonald, M. P., Mr. William Wilson, of Cardigan River, Mr. Bruce Leitch, of Covehead, and others. Miss Lily Minto acted as bride's maid, and Mr. Forbes, of Lot 43, as groomsman. After the ceremony the guests sat down to a supper, and the evening was pleasantly spent with song and dance. We wish the young couple long life and happiness.

What's in a Name?

Much every way. The old adage says, "give a dog a bad name and it will stick to him;" and one of the greatest of preachers says, "a good name is better than riches." The management of the Grubby Rubber Company having realized this, and having confidence in the superiority of their manufacture, brand every pair of their Boots and Shoes, which is a protection alike to trader and consumer. In purchasing Arctic, Snow-Excluders, and Heavy-Overs, see that they have the "Snow Shoe" brand; and in buying rubbers for general wear, be sure you get the "Reverse Square" brand. In ladies', misses' and children's don't fail to get the "Shield" brand, as they are just the thing for the fair sex and little ones.

Piles! Piles! Itching Piles!

SYMPTOMS.—Moisture; intense itching and stinging; moist at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulcerations, and in most cases remove the tumors. All druggists, or by mail, for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia.

Dr. Freyer, of Moradabad, India, recently cured the Nawab of Bambores of a long and dangerous illness. For this service he received $500,000 from the grateful Nawab. The British Government has intimated that the doctor must return the money, but this he refuses to do. He claims that he holds it in fee simple.

Weak eyes and inflamed lids indicate an impure condition of the blood. The best remedy is Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It vitalizes the blood, regulates the secretions, and expels all scrofulous humors from the system. Try it. Price $1. Worth $5 a bottle.

The King of Netherlands is in a moribund condition. His chronic malady is worse. He takes nourishment with difficulty.

SPECIAL DESPATCHES TO THE EXAMINER.

News from Ottawa.

It is not contemplated to relieve those Appraisers of their present local duties, or that the promotion shall entitle them to additional remuneration.

The successful candidates at the recent civil service examinations include the following: J. F. Cullen and John O'Brien, Charlottetown; A. W. Archibald, J. E. Bigney and J. D. Rolston, Halifax; J. B. Mr. Chapleau's Condition.

MONTREAL, JAN. 13.

A cable to the Gazette from London says: "Hon. Mr. Chapleau has made gratifying progress in Paris since the operation, on Monday, by Dr. Guyon. No complication is feared. The hon. gentleman is not expected to remain in bed over a week, though he will be under treatment for four or five weeks, not sailing for Canada before February 15th. Mr. Chapleau says he intends to take an active part in the Dominion session. He was much questioned by Frenchmen before his sickness, regarding the annexation movement, and declared that Canada had no more intention of joining the States than Normandy of joining Germany."

The Sackville Affair.

LONDON, JAN. 13.

Referring to the blue book on the Sackville affair, the Daily News says: "Salisbury has vindicated the technical propriety of the course he pursued, and made a distinct point at the expense of President Cleveland. We cannot, however, think his practical wisdom equal to his controversial skill. The vacancy at Washington serves no useful purpose. Sackville's despatches simply confirm his unfitness for the post he occupied."

The Militia Called Out.

WICHITA, Kan., JAN. 13.

Militia have been ordered to Gray Co., to quiet an outbreak between the citizens of Ingalls and Cimarrons, both of which towns claim the county seat. A mob of 300 Cimarrons fired upon a band of Deputy Sheriffs yesterday. Two leading citizens of Cimarron were killed and many wounded. The mob is bombarding a brick house in which the deputies took refuge.

Imperial Federation.

TO BE AN ACTOR.—A Chicago despatch says that John L. Sullivan has been engaged to play "Gusty Bob" in the Rag Baby company next season with Frank Daniels. Sullivan is to receive $500 per week. Samuel P. Cox, the manager of the Baby company, says he believes Sullivan will prove as successful as Gusty Bob as he will in whipping Jake Kilrain, and offers to wager $5,000 to $3,000 on Sullivan in his fight with Kilrain.

The great popularity of Ayer's Pills as a cathartic is due no less to their promptness and efficacy than to their coating of sugar and freedom from any injurious effects. Children take them readily. See Ayer's Almanac for this year, just out.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

An Elector's View.

Sir,—In Saturday's issue of THE EXAMINER Mr. Thomas Z. Taylor has taken a very convenient way of shirking the rather terse questions put to him by "Ward Three" in his letter of the 10th inst. But Mr. Taylor need not think that he can pull the wool over the eyes of the electors or wriggle out of the responsibility of answering public questions simply because they are not put as he would like to have them. Every candidate for civic honors owes the duty to the electors he seeks to represent of making public his views on all civic questions, whether asked to do so or not, and if Mr. Taylor is afraid to publish his platform when asked to do so electors should refuse to vote for him at the coming civic election.

Yours &c., ELECTOR.

14th January, 1889.

Mr. Carlton's Eagle.

Sir,—Mr. Carlton, of Souris, as I see by a recent issue of your journal, is in possession of a very fine golden eagle which he deposes on, as the emblem of the "Great Republic" to the south of us. It may be cruel to destroy an innocent delusion of this nature, but it is, nevertheless, true that the white or bald-headed eagle, not the golden, was the bird chosen by the fathers of Independence for the heraldic emblem of the young Republic. Benjamin Franklin, indeed, protested strongly against the bald eagle, on the ground that "he," (the bald eagle) "was a bird of bad moral character, and did not get his living honestly." What is further remarkable about this bird, his dishonesty is utterly manifested in stealing fish. I am no fatalist, else, I would say, that fate surely had something to do in constituting such a bird, the emblem of such a nation.
