PROVINCIAL LEGISLATURE.

(Conclusion of Asyluffi debate.)

Hon. J. K. McLean was the next speaker. He pointed out that for some time the people and the press were calling loudly for better accommodation for the insane and to remedy this the Peters Government decided to build an addition to the Hospital for the Insane. That Government invited tenders for plans and specifications, and those drawn up by Mr. C. B. Chappell were accepted and the contract was awarded to Mr. Walter Lowe. Mr. Lowe went to work and after excavating for some time by the levels given by the architect ascertained that he could not get a proper foundation. The government engineer was then sent to make a report of the levels, and he (the Commissioner) went to the spot and advised Mr. Lowe to dig to a proper foundation and raise the stone work foundation one foot. Mr. Lowe promised the Commissioner to go on with the work and Government Engineer McMillan was sent on three occasions to meet him by appointment to take levels and start the work, but he (Mr. L.) always made the excuse that he was not ready. For some time Lowe did not present himself at the Public Works office and the next time Mr. McLean saw him he asked for an arbitration. This request Mr. McLean positively refused, as such would vitiate the contract. The Commissioner was aware that the Government had a hard and fast contract with Mr. Lowe, that additions to or anything taken from the plans and specifications were to be taken at a fair valuation and Mr. Lowe was bound to hand over the building to the Government properly constructed. Therefore it was to his interest to see that he had a proper foundation to start with. There is no doubt, continued the Commissioner of Public Works, that the architect was altogether to blame in the first instance in not taking proper levels and ascertaining the depth required for excavation. But the Commissioner did blame Mr. Lowe for not going ahead with the work when instructed to do so by him. He was perfectly safe in proceeding with the building according to contract without any further instructions from the Commissioner. All the instructions necessary for Mr. Lowe were provided for by the conditions of the contract. The Commissioner had no desire to take one dollar out of Mr. Lowe or any other particular contractor, but being placed in the position of a custodian of the people's interests he had no right to allow the taxpayers of the Province to be fleeced to the tune of $5000 or $6000 for the benefit of one individual. The Commissioner further pointed out that the administration had taken proper precautions to guard against an injudicious expenditure of the people's money. Mr. Lowe's material already on the ground was carefully protected by the Government. Hard words had been spoken against the government for this delay, but it was occasioned only by a determination on the part of the government not to squander the people's money. The government did not try to take any advantage of Mr. Lowe. All they wanted to give or to receive was simple justice. He believed this asylum work would soon be pushed to a successful completion and he believed further that when finished the annex would be a credit to the province and a monument to a just and impartial business transaction.

Mr. Birch was the last speaker on the resolution. He was surprised that the Leader of the Government persisted in defending the late admin's ration and apologizing for them in respect to the matter of the Asylum annex. The leader made an onslaught on Mr. Chappell, who was merely a servant of the Government, and followed this up with an attack on Mr. Lowe, the contractor. If Mr. Lowe was not the proper man to give the contract why did they give it to him? Now the Government has to take $10,000 out of the people of this country or ruin Mr. Lowe. Nothing has yet been done towards the annex although it is admitted on all sides that the poor and unfortunate of this country need the accommodation. Mr. Birch then went on to point out the reasons why Mr. Lowe did not proceed with the work, his explanation being along the line of that given by Mr. Shaw. He asked why the Government refused Mr. Lowe's request for arbitration, and expressed the opinion that if such had been granted the annex would now be built. Why did not the Government go on with the contract after they discovered that the plans were defective? Although they stated that Mr. Lowe's contentions were correct still they would not give him authority in writing to proceed with the work. Then the material Mr. Lowe had on the ground was not properly cared for, and the brick—good and bad—were thrown together promiscuously. He hoped the Premier would yet try and make a fair and square arrangement with Mr. Lowe and by so doing have the work proceeded with and have credit reflected upon the Government.

The resolution was then put and lost on a straight party vote.
 House adjourned until Tuesday, at 10 a. m.

A Medico's Mistake.
 A good story comes from Erlanger, Bavaria. Recently a wine merchant of Nurnburg, who had reached an advanced age, was operated upon by a specialist at Erlanger. So successful did the operation prove that the patient was able to be present at an evening party given on the night following the operation.
 Imagine, therefore, his surprise on receiving early in this month a letter addressed "to the heirs of the merchant M. M." On opening the letter he found it contained the professor's account of the operation. The professor, while satisfied that the operation itself had been a success, did not believe that the old gentleman would survive.—Pearson's Weekly.

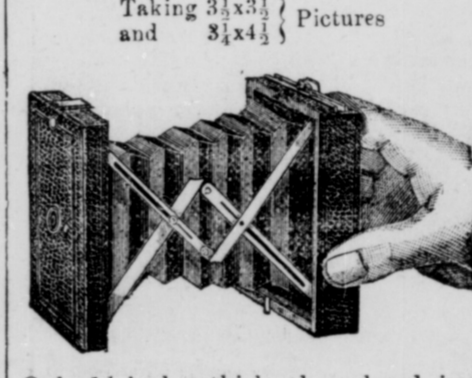

Foreign Clerks in London.
 Of the leading business houses in the city, according to evidence collected by the London chamber of commerce, 35 per cent employ foreign clerks, who are almost always Germans. The reason given is that 99 per cent of English clerks have no serviceable acquaintance with French and German.

It is told of Lord Norbury that when passing sentence of death on a man convicted of stealing a watch, he said to the culprit, "My good fellow, you made a grasp at time, but you caught eternity."

It is said that in the German army the soldiers commit suicide at the rate of 65 per annum in each 100,000 men.

THE RED FLAG

Sometimes a red flag means anarchy, sometimes an auction. It is usually a sign of excitement of one kind or another. What I am doing in my store seems to have stirred up as much commotion as if I had hung out a red flag, but it is only the bargains inside. My competitors don't like it a bit. No wonder; look at these prices—

- Men's Stockings 4 pairs for 25 cents
- Men's Shirts worth 60c, for 49c each
- Men's Underwear worth 70c, for 49 cents

DOES THE EMPLOYMENT OF LABOR BENEFIT A COMMUNITY?

OF COURSE IT DOES

D. A. Bruce employs more people manufacturing custom and ready-made clothing than all the staff of the largest dry goods house in the province (possibly twice as many). He is prepared to give employment to three times the number if a more liberal patronage is extended in the purchase of home made clothing. He is confident he gives better value than any importing clothier, who merely acts as a middle man between the foreign manufacturer and local consumer, taking his money and sending it abroad to pay for foreign labor. The product of the local manufacturer should have preference—it's the best.
