Latest evidence of increasing Dominion-Provincial co-operation was announced by Premier Frost, shown, at Young Progressive Conservative convention. Flood control dam costing $215,000 will be constructed at Luther Marsh on Upper Grand river. Mr. Frost announced at the five-day convention being held near Gravenhurst, Ont., and attended by more than 100 delegates representing groups in all Ontario's 90 ridings. Under plan three governments, Dominion, Provincial, and Municipal, will share cost. Attending as an alternate delegate is Pat Green (right) of Port Arthur, whose husband Frank is a delegate. Mr. Frost challenged all youth of Canada to dedicate themselves to service of their country.

The Egyptian royal council has placed the assets of Queen Mother Nasli, shown, under custody and removed her as custodian of former Princess Fathia. Both are now in the U.S. The council also declared void the marriage of Fathia, sister of King Farouk I, and a former Christian Egyptian, Riad Ghall, in San Francisco last April.

Grim-faced delegates: Jacob Malik, left, Soviet foreign deputy presiding as chairman; C. E. Zinchenko, assistant secretary-general; Sir Gladwyn Jebb, United Kingdom, and Senator Warren Austin, U.S. delegate, are seen sitting in their places at U.N. Security Council meeting at Lake Success, N.Y., in the most momentous session in the council's five-year history. Soviet delegate Malik, who walked out of council on Jan. 13 and who has since returned to take over as president of the council for August, ruled Nationalist China out of the council, but a majority of members led by the U. S. overruled the Russian chairman in heated debate that preceded the voting. Eight of the delegates voted against Malik's ruling: three, Russia, India and Yugoslavia, voted to sustain Malik's ruling.

Seen above are two of nine men who were killed when a R.C.A.F. Lancaster crashed and exploded near Alert, a tiny air station just 600 miles south of the North Pole. The plane on ice reconnaissance in the north, dropping food supplies to the weather station at Alert, one of several operated jointly by Canada and the U.S., had dropped a parachute from 1,000 feet over the station. In a flash the parachute caught in an elevator of the tail-plane and the huge aircraft nosedived into the ice.

Rev. Major Charles E. McGee of Guelph, Ont., serving as a chaplain with the U.S. army, is on his way to the Korean front. He also served in a similar capacity with a U.S. infantry unit from 1944 to 1948. A native of Guelph, he was educated in Kitchener and at Niagara university, and was ordained at Trenton, N.J., where he had a parish at South Amboy prior to his enlistment as a permanent force chaplain.

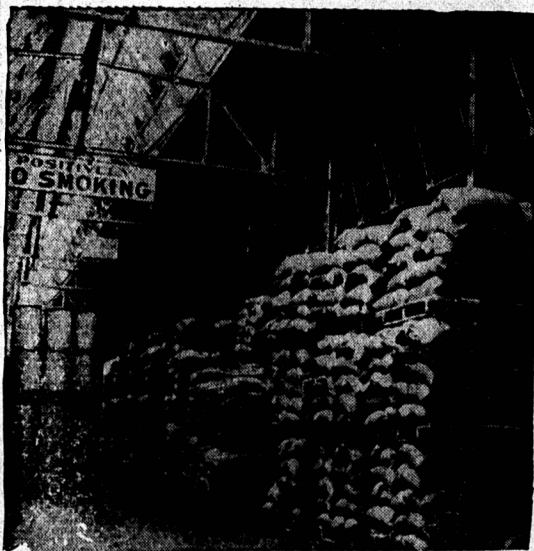

The widows of William Goddyn, right, and Arthur Leirman, slain while pursuing a bank robber at Langton, Ont., June 21, are to receive a total of $18,500 in cash and gratuities from the chartered banks, it was announced in Montreal by J. U. Boyer, president of the Canadian Bankers' association. The association provided $12,500 and the Imperial Bank of Canada, whose branch was robbed, gave $6,000. In making announcement Mr. Boyer said "two men were good citizens with a militant interest in law and order." Following the announcement, Mrs. Leirman, in view of the fact that her husband left a fairly substantial estate, asked that the entire financial benefit go to Mrs. Goddyn, who was left to provide for three small children.

Prof. John R. McRae, 36, of the University of Western Ontario, is in Toronto General hospital with multiple stab wounds, and John Bigelow, 20, of Toronto is in police custody charged with attempted murder. His arrest came following a fight in McRae's summer home in Toronto. Police seized a 10-inch butcher knife, alleged to have been the weapon.

PVT. PITCHER—Curt Simmons, Philadelphia Phillies' southpaw star, hangs up his uniform after being knocked from the mound by the Cincinnati Reds at Shibe Park, Philadelphia. Simmons, a private in the 28th Division of the National Guard, got a pass to leave maneuvers and pitch. His unit has been called to active duty, dealing the Ph's pennant hopes a hard blow.

For the benefit of Canadian and U. S. consumers who have engaged in or are contemplating engaging in so-called panic buying as a result of the Korean war, a glance at this photo, taken in a U.S. government food storage pier in the New York port area may help alleviate the fear that there is or will be a scarcity of commodities. At left are barrels of powdered eggs, powdered milk. Beside them are bags of beans. According to an agriculture department representative, this is only a small portion of food stored by the government. There are plenty of other necessary commodities "in storage." Agriculture Secretary Charles F. Brannan has said the U.S. government is so eager to stop war-born food price increases that it is ready to sell surplus farm commodities at a loss if necessary.

For 25 cents, seven-year-old Joseph Murphy, of Corinth, near Woodstock, Ont., gave his father's 1949 model car to a friendly stranger and set off a province-wide kidnap scare. While waiting beside his father's car in Woodstock, for return of his mother and sister from a holiday in Kingston, a man approached vehicle and jumped in saying he had permission from boy's father to take car. To be on the safe side Joseph got in and drove away with the man. At the outskirts of Woodstock, the driver deposited his passenger, gave him 25 cents and told him to buy ice cream and candy, and that he would pick him up in 20 minutes.

NABBED BY F.B.I.—Abraham Brothman (above), 36-year-old New York industrial engineer, has been indicted and arrested by the F.B.I. on charges of covering up the activities of Harry Gold, the Philadelphia chemist who recently pleaded guilty to being an atomic spy for Russia. The F.B.I. picked Brothman up with his business associate, Miriam Moskowitz, who was also charged with "obstructing justice" in the Gold case.

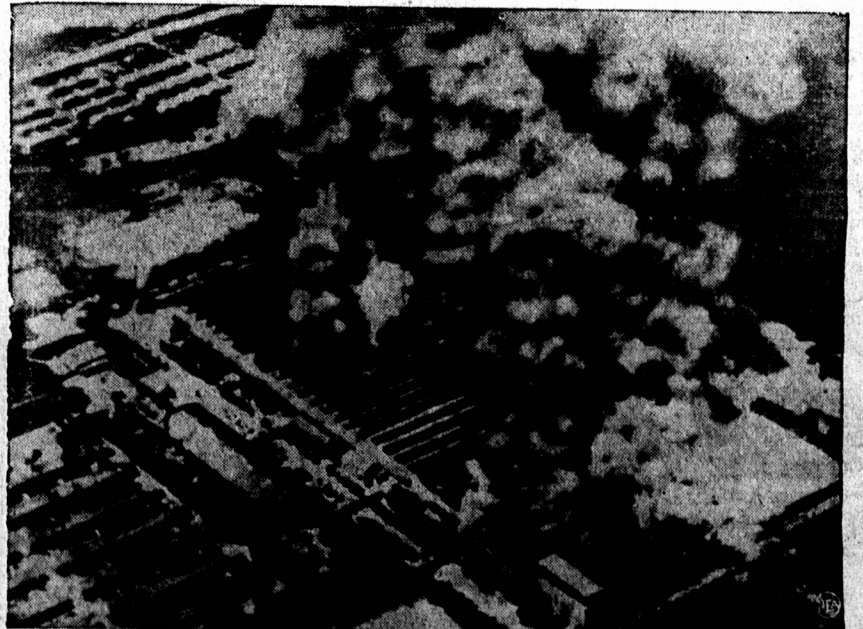

Two hooded thugs wearing asbestos gloves, staged the biggest robbery in Ontario gold mining history when they blasted their way into the vaults of Coniarum Mines Ltd., near Schumacher, Ont., and stole three gold bricks worth $96,000. The robbery, exactly two months from the $73,000 gold robbery at Delnite Mines, near Timmins, only two miles from Schumacher, was revealed when William Edwards, 65, the watchman, wriggled free from ropes and spread the alarm. Police said the robbery had evidently been planned for weeks, perhaps months. Even before the watchman entered the office the thugs had their acetylene and oxygen tanks outside and all equipment ready to cut their way into the vault.

In a vain attempt to save her drowning grandson, Mrs. Lorne Bagshaw, above, of Ufers, Ont., near Lake Simcoe, drowned with him. Michael Snodden, six, and a friend were playing on bank of Black river when tragedy occurred. Crisis of Donald Bagshaw brought Mrs. Bagshaw to rescue of Michael, who was floundering in water. She could swim and her heroic efforts brought death when she slipped off a ledge which has a 12-foot drop. Michael is shown front row, right, in picture at left, with brothers and sisters.

ANIMAL FARE—Judy, a 14-month-old elephant from Siam, steps casually into the cab of Lester Kreitzman for a ride to the zoo after arriving by boat in San Francisco. It was the first time Kreitzman ever carried an elephant in his cab, and he was pleased to see that Judy took care of her own trunk.
