To which will be added the Colonial duty only. This beautiful Musical Instrument, the Melodion, is now so well known, that we deem it unnecessary to give a lengthy description of it. We will only state that the Melodion of Maso & Hamlin is now the key-board, being precisely similar. Any one who plays upon the Piano, will be able to perform upon the Melodion of Maso & Hamlin, so that there are two pedals attached; one of these, to the right, is used to supply the bellows with wind, and the other gives the wind by means of this latter, a most beautiful crescendo and diminuendo may be produced.

We respectfully invite attention to the newly improved "Model Melodions" as we think they will be found to be superior in many respects to any others. Please examine them carefully, and test them by playing at random on other things, to the following points, viz: 1st.—Their superior quality of tone. 2d.—Their greater power of tone. 3d.—Their equality of tone. 4th.—Their purity of tone and even action. 5th.—Their beautiful style of finish. 6th.—Their durability. 7th.—Their excellence as a practice instrument. 8th.—The fact that they have great facilities in the manufacture of these Instruments. Mr. Hamlin himself has probably had more than any other man, having been constantly engaged from the time they were first introduced—for more than six years past—entirely upon the superintendence of the lawing and mechanical departments of the most extensive Melodion manufactory in the world.
