MONTREAL (CP)—The U.S. dollar closed at a premium of 7 27-32 per cent in terms of Canadian funds, down 1-32 from Friday's close. Pound sterling closed at $3.02½, down ⅛. U.S. dollar bid $1.07 13-16, asked $1.07⅞.

NEW YORK

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market Monday carried its rally through the third straight session in more active trading.

A final buying wave, accompanied by a late ticker tape, boosted prices to their best of the day. Most of the session showed only a mild improvemen in key stocks, with prices only slightly higher.

There was little in the weekend news to inspire buying sentiment but as the session progressed the Dow Jones industrial average was nearing the recovery high of 590.27 made on July 27. At the close, the Dow industrials were up 6.44 to 591.44 topping the July peak by more than a full point.

To Wall Street technicians this meant a short-term chart breakout on the upside, a favorable omen which was in the making as the session ended and brought in additional buying and short covering.

A short sale is the sale of borrowed stock with the intention of profiting by purchasing the stock at lower prices in the future to repay the loan. A short seller "covers" his position when he buys the stock.

POSSIBLE TAX CUT

The thought of a possible tax cut was still uppermost in the mind of the financial community and it was assumed a vigorous price rise would follow such an event. At the same time, steel producers were reported to expect the start of an upturn in operations next month.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 2.00 to 218.80.

An estimated $2,900,000,000 was added to the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange, based on the rise in the AP average.

Volume totalled 3,200,000 shares compared with 2,890,000 Friday.

Polaroid was the most active stock, up 5⅞ at 103⅜ on 61,900 shares. Second was General Motors, up 1⅛ at 51⅝ on 59,600 shares. Third was General Mills up ¾ at 23¾ on 57,715 shares, of which 51,015 was accounted for by an exchange distribution.

Next came Random House, unchanged at 13⅛ on 39,400 shares, of which 28,400 shares came from a single block.

Richardson - Merrell lost 2 points in continued reaction to news that a subsidiary had held exclusive rights to distribute the drug thalidomide, which is being blamed for birth malformation.

Houston Light and Power, which reports Wednesday on dividend action, was up 3.

Among Canadian issues, Distillers Seagrams and Aluminium Ltd. both closed ⅝ higher. McIntyre Porcupine was up ½ and Walker-Gooderham ⅜. International Nickel was ¼ better. Dome Mines was off ¾ and Granby Mining ⅜.

Prices were mostly higher on the American Stock Exchange. Canadian Marconi, Jupiter Corp. and Scurry Rainbow Oil all finished ¼ higher. Fargo Oil was up ⅛ and Brazilian Traction unchanged.

TORONTO

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market, after gaining moderate strength Monday afternoon gave in to weakness near the close of light trading.

Industrials ended, however, slightly on the upside on index, while base metals and western oils each gained fractionally. Golds showed marked weakness, dropping more than two index points.

Basis for the industrial advance was strength in banks. Royal climbed 1¼, Nova Scotia 1⅛, Montreal a point, and Toronto - Dominion and Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce both ¾.

Best gain went to Power Corporation as it rose four points to 54¾. The company has a sugstantial interest in Canadian Oil, which last week received a purchase offer from Shell Oil of Canada. Canadian Oil rose sharply at the opening of trading, touching a 1962 high of 35⅝, but slipped later in the day to 35, unchanged on the day.

Atlas Steel also climbed to a 1962 high in morning action, but from the high of 35¼ it dropped back to 34⅝, down ¼. Atlas is expected soon to receive a takeover offer from Rio Algom Mines. Rio Algom gained 35 cents to $9.55.

George Hees Company Limited caused a flurry of speculation when it jumped from $1.40 to a 1962 high of $4.05. By the close, however, the stock had dropped to $2.10. Bay Street observers could offer no reason for its activity.

Among base metals, International Nickel climbed ⅞ to 65 amid rumors the company has discovered gold on a prospect in the Northwest Territories.

Falconbridge rose ¾ and Denison and Labrador ¼ each. Hudson Bay Mining ignored the upward tendency, dropping one point.

Eternal City Impresses People In Different Ways

By BENNETT BOLTON

ROME (AP)—When brilliant Mediterranean sunlight dances on her fountains, which are her dazzling jewels, she becomes a stately noblewoman in repose.

Yet when the sun sets she becomes an old woman hunched in damp shdadows, the black Castelli Mountains pulled about her shoulders like a shawl.

Her name is Rome, the Eternal City, constantly born and reborn from her own ashes like the phoenix, midwife of civilizations, prize of many armies.

Rome is also a hive of bureaucrats and rubber - stamp clerks and a somewhat tarnished antique.

She is something different to almost everyone. To me, her greatest effect is to give a sense of humility in the face of her timelessness.

I walk away from busy piazzos, down narrow cobblestoned streets where the day's wash flaps from windowsills and realize that the dust under my feet is the dust of a hundred generations.

POPULATION STATIONARY

The city's crumbling walls encircle roughly 2,000,000 inhabitants—the same number that dwelled within 20 centuries ago.

Nothing can match Rome for her contrasts. Moments after leaving the Via Veneto, epitome of European urbanity in its nightclubs and luxury hotels, I drive past a pine-framed tower of hollowed rock with rusted bars that once cased eagles, the symbols of imperial Rome's glory.

I can buy the Western world's choicest goods at the highest prices in the most glamorous shops. Or I can stroll the Tiber's bank through the bustling flea market, where "caveat emptor" (let the buyer beware) rules, and strikes a bargain in stolen altar candlesticks—if so inclined—or "guaranteed" shirts that shrink three sizes when washed.

I can wait in a crowd at a church door to see an elaborate Christmas crib with moving figures—after paying almost the price of a movie ticket. Yet I can stand most any Sunday at noon within the sweep of Bernini's colonnades at St. Peter's Square and see the Pope himself at his window—gratis.

Here enraptured tourists throw coins into Trevi Fountain with the wish of returning someday to Rome and the sons of the poor dart into the waters at night, if policemen aren't looking, to scoop up the coins.

Rome has a thousand little

surprises at every turn. I have learned to look down, and not miss the armies of stray cats that prowl the sunken ruins and sun themselves on the weather-bleached fragments. And I have learned to look up, discovering for instance in a little side-street concert hall a simple marble plaque that says Mascagni's immortal "cavalleria rusticana" was first performed there in 1890.

Perhaps the greatest contrast of all is in the Roman himself He can be impatient, self-important at times, a bit restless —and he is a thorough individualist in his daily routines.

BREAD AND CIRCUSES

He retains the ancient Roman's love of "panem et circenses" — bread and circuses. The modern Roman loves a festival, especially the seasonal carnivals in the public squares that last three days to a week—just as the ancient Romans once flocked from every corner of the city to watch gladiators battle in the Coliseum.

Should a major religious feast fall on a Sunday, the Roman merchant will open his shop or his street-market stall. But he will close up on Monday so he can enjoy a full day off.

The Roman astounds tourists in the restaurants, putting away pounds of pasta before going to work on a main dish. And he will be impeccably dressed, weekday or holiday, even if his wages are not much more than $25 a week. The worst dressed people in Rome are the well-heeled tourists.

For all his petulance and impatience, the Roman is a genial host. He delights in the foreigner who has made at least half an effort to learn Italian.

Mickey Mantle May Miss Series

CHICAGO (AP) — Mickey Mantle, who re-injured his left knee in the second game of Sunday's doubleheader between the Yankees and Chicago White Sox in New York, probably will miss the series with the Senators in Washington starting tonight.

Yankee Manager Ralph Houk said Mantle told him the ailing knee did not bother him while batting but he could not run without pain and Houk decided it best to rest his star center fielder.

Houk had Mantle's name in the starting American League lineup for Monday's second All-Star game but scratched it when Mickey advised him the knee had become slightly swollen overnight.
