14 Trainees Are Enrolled In Auxiliary Police Force

By STAN BOWLES
Guardian-Patriot Staff Writer

Fourteen special constables, the nucleus of a proposed 60-man auxiliary police force attached to the provincial civil defence organization, were last night sworn in at a ceremony held at RCMP headquarters, Charlottetown.

The group were first sworn in as constables by Deputy Attorney-General J. Arthur McGuigan, who then administered the oaths of allegiance, office and secrecy.

On hand for the ceremony were Provincial Secretary J. David Stewart, minister responsible for the civil defence organization, Attorney-General M. Alban Farmer, QC, Inspector A. S. McNeil, commanding officer 'L' division RCMP, Brig. A. W. Rogers, emergency measures organization regional director, and Major O. R. Simons, civil defence co-ordinator for P.E.I.

Mr. Stewart addressed the trainees, and outlined what their duties would comprise under the CD organization, in which they will perform their duties under the Civil Defence Act under the immediate supervision of the local commanding officer of the RCMP.

In congratulating the trainees on their selection, he pointed out to them that they are the first course in Canada to be trained by the RCMP for the CD organization.

Mr. Stewart said that the provincial government plans to have a total of four classes trained, one a year for four years, until a force of 60 special constables has been trained.

He said this number was arrived at by basing it on the present strength of the RCMP in the province, with the conclusion that the ideal setup is to have the strength of the auxiliary force equal to that of the RCMP.

IN EMERGENCIES

Mr. Stewart warned the class that although it is to be trained primarily for duties with civil defence, in which it would be called upon to direct and control traffic and to isolate disaster areas, it would also be available for other types of emergencies, citing an instance such as the bush fires in Prince County a couple of summers ago.

Mr. Farmer told the trainees that although their work would be mainly carried out under the minister responsible for civil defence along with the RCMP, there would be occasions when they would come into close contact with the attorney-general's department.

This latter would most frequently be whenever it was necessary for any of them to take a case to the courts, and he assured them that in all such instances they could be certain that they would receive the full-est cooperation from his department.

He said that it was the hope of everyone that the duties in connection with civil defence would never become a reality, but he warned them that "you must be fully prepared to act in the event that such an emergency arises."

RESPECT FOR LAW

Mr. Farmer told the class that although it may never have the occasion to use it, the training it will receive will always be worthwhile. "For one thing," he said, "it will tend to create a greater respect and understanding for the law and toward those who are called upon to enforce it."

The trainees were also addressed by Inspector McNeil, who welcomed them to the force and outlined the training they will undergo, two nights a week for the next seven weeks. Training nights will be Tuesday and Thursday.

The training they will receive will cover such subjects as general police work, first aid, criminal law, traffic control, crowd control, emergency planning and foot drill. All subjects will be taken at RCMP headquarters with the exception of foot drill, which will be taken on board HMCS Queen Charlotte.

The instructors and their subject will be: Sgt.-Mjr. T. J. Keefe; foot drill, Cpl. W. J. P. Coughlin; police work, Sgt. W. M. MacKinnon; first aid, Cpl. J. O. Murray; criminal law, S-Sgt. R. O. Lively; traffic control, Sgt. E. L. Tedford; crowd control, S-Sgt. H. G. F. Chipman; emergency planning, Cpl. R. E. Williams, and small arms training, Sgt. C. E. Walper.

Members of the first class are Roger Allan Craig, Floyd Bennett Buell, Herbert Francis MacLean, Paul Eugene Flood, John Ledwell Vessey, all of Charlottetown; William Ross Lefurgey, Summerside; Melvin Douglas MacKinnon, North River; Robert Wilfred Peterson, Wheatley River; George Gordon Gillespie, Cornwall; Sterling William Baker, Midgell; Merton Leigh Crabbe, Milton; William Russell Oulton, Alberton, and Merrill Heath Wigginton and John Gerard Murphy, both of Montague.

Wiltshire Dairy Company Reports '62 Butter Increase

The Wiltshire Dairying Company manufactured 714,658 pounds of butter last year for an increase of 86r cent over 1961, it was revealed in the annual report presented by Manager, Nelson Heatherley at the annual meeting held Monday.

More than $400,000 was paid to producers for cream and the financial statement revealed a net profit, after taxes, of $4,534.73.

Earl Adams, assistant dairy superintendent, told the meeting that the Wiltshire creamery led the Island in the percentage of 93-score butter with 11.89 per cent. This is higher than the grade A butter which is a 92 score, and is worth one cent per pound more, Mr. Adams who said that patrons should strive just a little harder to produce a quality of cream that would produce this high grade of butter for it would mean more money in the producers' pockets.

Some 36 per cent of the Island butter was first grade last year but again he suggested that an effort should be made to improve on that figure. He said that more butter has been consumed in Canada since the 12-cent per pound consumer subsidy was put on last year, but total production also increased so that butter stocks in storage had increased by some eight million pounds.

MacKinley Brothers, North River, received the silver water pitcher donated by the Charlottetown branch, Royal Bank of Canada for the largest producers of butterfat during the year. They supplied 9,131.73 pounds.

Eric Laird, North Milton received first prize of $25 for patrons having the largest increase in butterfat over 1961, with an increase of 1,877.64 pounds.

Alex J. MacDonald received second prize of $15 with an increase of 1844.51 pounds.

Third prize of $10 went to MacKinley Brothers with an increase of 1,834.22 pounds.

OTHER PRIZES

In prizes to patrons sending the largest amount of butterfat in 1962, who were not patrons in 1961, Delmar Graham, Rose Valley, received first prize of $10 having sent 3,282.39 pounds of butterfat. Harold Morrow, received second prize of $5 sending 2,129.80 pounds of butterfat.

SAY PRINCE RESCUED

SYDNEY (Reuters) — Two Australian lifeguards said Tuesday they helped bring Britain's Prince Richard of Gloucester ashore last week when he nearly drowned. Ross Fraser and Douglas Steel said they swam to the Queen's cousin while he was swimming outside the safe area at Shell Harbor, 60 miles south of Sydney, Feb. 8. Caught in a riptide, he had been "swimming with all his might and getting nowhere," Fraser said. Prince Richard, 18-year-old son of the Duke and Duchess of Gloucester, is on vacation in Australia.

OPERATIONS CURTAILED

Meanwhile there was uncertainty over the continued operation of the big Spruce Falls Company newsprint mill here, chief breadwinner for about 20,000 people in the district.

The bushworkers—though not employed at the plant—have been picketing its gates since Friday and Tuesday sizeable numbers of other unions employed in the mill refused to cross their lines.

Operations had been curtailed recently because of the long strike at the New York Times, its largest single newsprint customer and Tuesday absenteeism reduced it further.

Key workers of the papermakers' union were among those staying out Tuesday, and as a result only one of the company's four newsprint production lines operated.

Members of the papermakers' electrical workers and pulp and sulphide workers' union met Tuesday night to discuss their course and planned further meetings today.

They issued a statement late in the day blaming the company for the fact that picketing was being continued because the company had refused to sign an undertaking not to punish mill workers who refused to cross the lines.

The Spruce Falls mill employs 1,500 persons, and an adjacent tissue paper operation of the Kimberley-Clark Company, also affected, has another 100. This comprises virtually the entire industrial work force in Kapuskasing.

The unions maintain that Tuesday's defection of non-striking workers was strictly upon the initiative of individuals.

The three unions have contracts with the companies.

The Spruce Falls Company blamed the continuance of the picketing for a collapse of government - sponsored negotiations in Toronto during the weekend.

Mill manager F. L. Platt said that the company met representatives of the strikers only after receiving an assurance that picket lines would be removed immediately.

Since the union had not recalled the pickets no arrangements had been made for future meetings.
