

VALUABLE

The success of Canadian business depends on the skilled workers of this country. But with the new technologies and changes in the Canadian economy, the skills that are in demand are changing.

People being trained in the new skills and developing trades are too few right now. That's why Canada has a new National Training Act. To help more Canadians learn the skills of tomorrow, starting today.

We're encouraging more employers to do more on-the-job training. Improved wage reimbursements for some employees and less paper-burden will make it easier for industry to train more Canadians.

Funding to the provinces for community and technical colleges will help them build training facilities with the most modern equipment to train Canadians in the important new skills. And for workers who need to retrain because of technological changes on the job — special allowances may be available if they will learn one of the skills in short supply in Canada. Helping people who need retraining is a federal government priority. What's the best way to handle the workplace of the 1980's? With a lot of skill.
