

An Aspirant for Fame

"I want to write for your paper," said a solemn-looking man, as he passed on the threshold of the editorial sanctum.

"That's right," replied the editorial without looking up from his work, for it was publication day, and there was a stern demand for copy that could not be denied.

"When you write be particular and give your name and post-office address distinctly."

"I will," said the solemn man stepping in and taking a chair.

"And don't forget to inclose the money. Some folks write for the paper and forget to put in any money. Then they complain because the paper does not come."

"Do you want money when a man writes for your paper?" asked the solemn man as his acquired an additional elongation.

"Of course. What d'ye think we print a paper for? Fun? Not much. If a man writes for the paper we suppose he wants it, and if he wants it he must pay for it."

"You don't understand," said the solemn man; "what I want is to write for your paper."

"That's what you said before, and I told you how to do it," replied the editor, testily, swinging around in his chair.

"Though I can't see why you can't subscribe right here now, just as well's to wait until you get home and then write for it. Though, may be, you haven't the necessary two dollars with you. I respect your independence. You don't want to subscribe for a paper you are not prepared to pay for. That's right."

"But if I were to write for it—"

"If you write for it, and inclose the money, it will be sent promptly. No fear of that. Subscribers will confer a favor on this office by reporting any carelessness or irregularity on the part of their postmaster in delivering the papers."

"I can put a great deal into a letter," insinuated the solemn man.

"Needn't put more than two dollars," said the editor, "unless you get up a club. Usual reduction to clubs."

"I fear you don't comprehend me," said the man of solemn visage.

"I want to write for your paper—write articles and correspondence, you know, for remuneration."

"Oh, that's it. Why don't you say so before? Thought you wanted to subscribe. Seemed a sort of curious too, that you wouldn't write for my paper to be sent without coming in and telling me about it."

"You will like my letters."

"Can't say as to that. The most interesting letters the editor gets, as a rule, are those short, pithy ones, which simply say: 'Inclosed please find subscription price to your valuable paper for one year.' That outweighs a dozen pages of 'Reflections on the Dying Year,' or 'Thoughts on Discovering the first June Bug.' A great many people want to write for the paper who have nothing left so interesting to say as that they find their subscription has about expired and here is money for renewing it. That is neat and to the point, and no editor will throw the letter into the waste-basket—without first taking out the money and duly crediting the subscriber on his account. Write for the paper, my friend, by all means, but don't forget the inclosure."

Then the solemn man went away more thoughtful than before.

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we live in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means of enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health; but how often do the majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worn out with disease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easily obtain satisfactory proof, that Green's August Flower will make them free from disease, as when born. Dyspepsia and liver complaint are the direct causes of seventy-five per cent. of such maladies as biliousness, sick headache, costiveness, nervous prostration, indigestion, dizziness of the head, palpitation of the heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottle, 10 cts. Try it.
