MR. AND MRS. BLAIR JOHN MacLELLAN

Arlene Corcoran Is Wed In Ceremony At St. Anthony's

A pretty wedding was solemnized by Rev. Clarence Pitre in St. Anthony's Church, Bloomfield, when Arelene Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Corcoran, Piusville, became the bride of Blair John MacLellan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Archibald MacLellan, Glace Bay, N.S.

Among the Altar boys was Master George Corcoran, cousin of the bride. Cyrus Gallant was organist and accompanied Mrs. Fylio Arsenault and Mrs. Urban Pineau as they sang appropriate selections. The altar and sanctuary were beautifully decorated for the occasion with summer flowers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in an original gown, floor length, of rich white satin with lily pointed sleeves, fitted bodice trimmed with chantilly lace at the neckline and shoulder points. The very full skirt, with chapel train, featured floral inserts of chantilly lace decorated with seed pearls and rhinestones. Her chapel veil was held in place by a tiara of seed pearls and rhinestones, and she carried a white prayer book decorated with red roses and streamers of white and summer flowers. The bride wore a single strand of cultured pearls, gift of the groom.

Miss Aleitha Corcoran, sister of the bride, as maid of honor, was gowned in blue nylon over taffeta with very full skirt and cape over shoulder. Her headdress was of blue nylon and net featuring a floral cluster and she carried a nosegay of mixed flowers.

Miss Sharon Clarkin, niece of the bride, as train bearer, was gowned in taffeta with matching gloves and headdress and carried a nosegay of mixed flowers.

Dale Corcoran was best man and Winston Corcoran and Roger Bulger ushered the guests to their pews.

Mrs. Corcoran chose for her daughter's wedding a beige linen dress with matching jacket, white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents where the bride's table was centered with a four tier wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom. In the evening a reception was held at the Legion Hall, Bloomfield where supper was served. The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing.

Mr. and Mrs. McLellan left on a honeymoon trip to points of interest in the Maritimes after which they will take up residence in Toronto, where both the bride and groom have been employed for several years.

Previous to the marriage the bride was tendered several miscellaneous showers.

ELLEN'S DIARY

Vivid Fields And Gardens, Scenes Of A Passing Summer

"When the summer comes!" we said with a longing, when bleak winds blew in over the hilltops, and white wraiths of snowfall whirled along the cheerless winter-fields. Now it is with us — that season to which thoughts ever turn. But her hours are winged. So we must gather from her offered treasures while we may—Gather, as we have seen farmwives of an elder day and generation, catch the about-spent petals of July's roses, to dry and spice and store them to a jar, in a fragrant pot pourri of scent, to restore a breath of summer to their rooms when fall should leave the bushes bare. So we shall see how the scenes we would keep, before in its own time, Autumn will write "The End" to this season.

These lovelinesses we shall remember: the exceptionally clean, vivid greens of the fields and woodlands of this summer; the meadows' and woods' flowers so beautiful — the charm of the clover, the delight of garden-spots — the summer days, the summer nights so pleasant we are loath to see them pass.

We shall remember too, the sight of a pair of little barefoot lads, seated on the floor of the back verandah on a drowsy afternoon, beaming down "all smiles" on the company of kittcats cuddled comfortably in a shallow carton-of-bed. Tabby's own, the littlest one's, and the other's — eight -in all? There are nine now, for there has been a recent addition to the number. A little orphan, a wee forlorn creature, hungry and deserted, found its way the other night to our door. Black of coat, and green of eye, it seemed to have come to replace that long-furred friend of ours, lost in a tragic accident last spring.

"Now" Alex smiled when he first saw it "you have another Hallowe'en cat!" Fragrance of various blossomings of summer we shall remember. Bits of blue sky, white cloud-drift, sun- and moonlight. And, recalling how dreaded is drought to farm folks, we shall remember not unkindly, the summer showers that have danced on our rooftops and fallen aslant the valley. For we are reminded that in our lives, as in the respective days given us,

"God hath not promised skies ever blue,

Flower-strewn pathways, always for you.

God hath not promised sun without rain,

Joy without sorrow, peace without pain.

But He HATH promised, strength from above,

Unfailing sympathy, undying love."

"We'll see no more daisied fields this summer" Granddaughter commented today with a sigh, eyes on that which lies across the stream by the roadside, so beautiful at the first of the haying.

"Only in memory" we said.

"Listen!" the younger farmer exclaimed at the doorstep this morning. He shook his head. "Did you hear that?" he queried soberly. "The bluejays are calling-yes, it means more rain, I reckon."

"Didn't I tell you this was to be a wet moon, throughout?" a visitor questioned with a rueful grin.

Dampish today was—and still.

Until tomorrow — — Diary—Good-night....
