S'SIDE'S RAILWAY WHARF IS BUSY SPOT

Summerside's railway wharf was taxed to capacity yesterday as two ships took on cargoes of potatoes. Railway "reefers," trucks and employees' cars almost filled the wharf space as the Norwegian ship "Tautra" of Trondheim commenced loading and the Danish freighter "Lotete Skou" completed taking on 84,000 bags of seed potatoes for Greece. "The Tautra" took away 92,600 bags two weeks ago and returned for another 45,000 being shipped by P.E.I. Produce Ltd. The largest shipment of potatoes from this port is expected to be loaded commencing today when a ship is due in port to take on a cargo of 125,000 bags from Co-op Farm Services.

Eight More Testify In Rape Trial At S'side

SUMMERSIDE — Eight more witnesses testified in supreme court yesterday in the rape case against three young Borden men, Leonard Joseph Noonan, Donald Joseph Noonan, and Edison Demerall McKenna, charged with the rape of Mrs. Norman Allen of Borden on July 22, 1962. The trial opened Monday here before Chief Justice Thane A. Campbell. Deputy Attorney-General J. Arthur McGuigan is conducting the case for the Crown. Defence counsel is J. Wasson MacNaught, QC.

First witness yesterday was Velda Catherine Noonan, Albany school student, who testified that on the evening of July 22 she was driving in a car on the Albany-Cape Traverse road about 8 p.m. and saw a car parked in a field. A man was standing by the car with blond hair and of medium height. She said the car was blue and white and the following day she was taken to the RCMP barracks at Borden where she saw a car she said looked the same as the one she had seen in the field the evening before.

Norman Melville Allen, Borden, husband of the woman attacked, was the second witness called. He testified that he was at home July 22 about 4 p.m. lying on the couch when a knock came on the door and a voice said it was Leonard Noonan. Witness said he told Noonan there was nothing there of any interest to him. Witness also said he could see Noonan through a window as he lay on the couch in his home, so he said he did not get off the couch.

Third witness called was Mrs. Norman Allen, Borden, who told of how the three accused took here away in the car to a spot in the Albany woods where the offence was committed. She tesified that she did not know whether each accused had raped her or not.

Dr. John Bonnell, Montague, testified that on July 22 he was practicing in the Albany area. On the night of July 22 he said Mrs. Allen was brought to his office and he examined her, and he told of her condition and his findings.

William Brian Darrach, Borden, testified that he and three companions were driving on a clay road off the Albany - Cape Traverse Road July 22 about 7 p.m. when he saw a man, whom he said was one of the accused, and an older woman standing on the side of the road. He said he did not remember the state of their condition.

Cnst. Ian Bonnell, RCMP, Montague, testified that July 22 he was stationed at Borden and received a call to proceed to the Albany area where he and Cnst. Rowan of the Summerside detachment picked up Mrs. Norman Allen on the road.

Cnst. William Rowan, RCMP, Summerside, testified that he assisted the Borden officers in the July 22 investigation.

Cnst William Craine, Borden town policeman, testified that he and Cnst. Gould stood guard at the Albany woods area on the night of July 22. Cnst Craine said he found some articles of clothing near the woods the following morning after daylight when a search was made of the area.

Four more Crown witnesses are expected to be called this morning as the case is resumed at 10:15.

T.C. Douglas Challenges PM's Speed-Up Suggestion

OTTAWA (CP) — New Democratic Party Leader T. C. Douglas Tuesday challenged a suggestion by Prime Minister Diefenbaker that parliamentary reform is needed to lengthen Commons sittings hours and shorten the question periods which begin each day's proceedings.

Mr. Douglas said the prime minister's remarks to the House Monday were "astounding" in that they gave the public the impression that MPs "are on holiday here."

Although the actual sitting hours took up less than 30 hours a week, MPs also had committee meetings to attend, research to do and the business of their ridings and correspondence to keep up with. For most members it meant being in the Parliament buildings for 11 or 12 hours a day.

Mr. Diefenbaker had said Monday that when he entered the Commons in 1940 the question period consisted of two or three questions. Mr. Douglas challenged this statement, saying he recalled that Mr. Diefenbaker never used to ask fewer than two or three questions a day himself.

If there were more questions today, it was because there were many important issues before the country that needed answers.

The government had to assume "a major part of the responsibility" if house business was not progressing rapidly enough, the NDP leader declared.

The solution was not longer hours but better use of the house committees, many of which had not yet been established.

Lunch will be served by the committee in charge.

Pender Moves To Set Aside State Ruling

NEW YORK (AP)—Paul Pender, who was stripped of his piece of the world middleweight title by the New York State Athletic Commission, moved in supreme court Tuesday to set aside the ruling on the ground it was "arbitrary, capricious and without warrant."

A hearing was set for Dec. 7.

Last Nov. 9, the commission withdrew its recognition from Pender for his failure to defend the crown within the six months time limit. The three-man body then recognized Nigeria's Dick Tiger, the World Boxing Association's champion, as its champion, too.

Pender, a former marine from Brookline, Mass., said he never had refused to defend his crown. He said he had tried to obtain other fights but through no fault of his own, the efforts failed. Pender had signed for title bouts with Gene Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah, and Jose Torres of New York but both fell through because of financial reasons.

Adcock Goes To Cleveland

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Milwaukee Braves Tuesday night traded veteran first baseman Joe Adcock and left handed pitcher Jack Curtis to Cleveland Indians for right hander pitcher Frank Funk and outfielder Don Dillard.

The 35-year-old Adcock obviously was the big man in the trade. He has been with the Braves since 1954 after breaking into the majors with Cincinnati in 1950.

A right-hand hitter, Adcock finished last season with a .248 batting average and 29 home runs in 121 games.

Curtis, used mainly in relief, had a 4-6 record last year and a 4.02 earned run average.

Dillard, who also can play first base, did considerable pinch-hitting for the Indians and wound up with a .230 mark. He had five home runs. Funk, also a relief pitcher, had a 2-1 record. He pitched only 81 1-3 innings.

S'side Clinic Sees 253 Give Blood

SUMMERSIDE — Creelman MacArthur, chairman of the Summerside Red Cross blood donor committee, reported last night that yesterday's clinic at the George R. Pearkes VC Branch of the Royal Canadian Legion was "good but not good enough."

A total of 253 donors attended yesterday's clinic, with the larger part attending in the evening.

Mr. MacArthur said he hoped more people would attend the afternoon clinic today, as it creates a pile-up in the evening as was the case last night.

The objective set for the Summerside area is 540 donors. This means that 287 people must give blood today to reach this goal. Mr. MacArthur noted that the objective set for the Manning trophy is 700. The trophy is donated to the community with the highest average attendance and Souris is at present leading in this race.

In the various club and group competitions at Summerside yesterday, in the inter-service club competition, the St. Eleanors Lions Club was leading with 82 per cent; in banks, Provincial Bank, 40 per cent; business firms, Holman's, 10 per cent; inter-parish, Mont Carmel, Egmont Bay and Miscouche, tied with nine per cent: church groups, Church of Christ Young Adults, 30 per cent; armed services, Canadian Legion, eight per cent; public servants, civil servants, 14 per cent.

Mr. MacArthur urged all citizens who have not yet attended the blood donor clinic to do so today as this is the final day.

The T-formation quarterback and mechanical engineering brain won in a close race with Louisiana State halfback Jerry Stovall.

The poll of 1,109 accredited sportswriters and broadcasters gave Baker 707 points to 618 for Stovall.

Baker is a remarkable southpaw passer and a deceptive runner with long, long strides who has claimed to second place in the all-time career total offence leaders. His 4,980 yards for three years of varsity competition is topped only by Johnny Bright of Drake, a star of a dozen years ago, who gathered 5,903. Bright now is with Edmonton Eskimos.

Baker came to Oregon State on a basketball scholarship after starring in three sports at Jefferson high in Portland, Ore. He did not even turn out for freshman football.

Passing by the practice field the spring of his freshman year, Baker got a yen for football and decided to give the college game a try.

CONSERVATIVELY SPEAKING

By ISLANDER

Over the week-end a bunch of us met in front of the supermarket and after exchanging a few ideas as to how the election was coming somebody come up with the matter of teachers' supplements. And one fellow said, "Alec Matheson said the government isn't paying any supplements", and another fellow said, "he's been saying that all along but that isn't the truth, and still another guy pipes up and said, "as for me, I don't know what this supplement business is all about.

That started it and it went on for some time and then in came Art Dougal, who's secretary of our school trustees, and we put the question right up to him and Art said, "you can relax boys, we don't have to pay any more teachers' supplements", Well, Sir, he went on to explain how we used to have to pay about six hundred dollars a year but that now the government pays it for us. Then, right out of the blue, he said a funny thing that stopped us all. "We're going to pay a supplement next year, though, "how come?" we all asked, surprised like, and Art said, "because we want to — not because we have to. We want the teacher we've got to stay, everybody likes her and she's doing a good job, so we're going to give her an extra two hundred, we don't have to, like I said, because the government is paying all the supplement that needs to be paid, it's something special and extra that we intend to do.

Well, we did a little checking and sure enough no school district in this province will have to pay a supplement any more. So everyone went out a lot happier, but on the way home, my neighbor said to me, "how come Alex Matheson still says the government didn't keep it's promise on teachers supplements?" And I said, "I don't know", and even now I can't figure it.

I told you that you'd see what the election is all about after the Premier came on television the other night, well now you know. We all know that when a government's thinking about spending a lot of money to create more jobs and more schools and more of this and that the people ought to have something to say about it. A million here and there isn't much to the Liberals. Their past record shows that, I guess. But to a lot of us folks a million or more is still a lot of money. We don't mind it one bit seeing it spent to create jobs but we feel a lot better about it when Premier Shaw and his government let us help make the decision.

The next morning after the speech the Liberal leader said that he agrees with everything that the Premier said, in fact, he said he thought most of it up. But I especially liked the part where he said there are no issues in the election, so all you have to do is decide who you want to run the government. Well, something tells me there's a lot more to it than that. It's like one fellow reminded me yesterday: "The Russians are always telling how they invented this and that even though we've heard of it until someone handed it to them." Anyway, it makes a lot of difference to me who runs the government. You might as well say, "there's a jet plane and it doesn't make any difference who flies it". I guess we'd have a good laugh over that. Well, I have just as good a laugh when I hear someone say it doesn't make any difference who runs the government. The Shaw government didn't invent new industry, or adult education, or homes for the elderly, but it's the first government in the history of this province to take these things seriously and do something about them. So I say, it makes plenty of difference who runs the government, and don't let anyone kid you into thinking it doesn't.

There's one more thing that worries me just a little about all elections these days. Sometimes people get to thinking that their vote doesn't count. And they especially might get to think this if they hear the leader of one party going around saying that there are no issues and that the election doesn't amount to much. When the 10th of December comes your vote is a pretty important matter and don't forget it, and here's something to think about: Regardless of what is said there was never an election in a free country that wasn't imprtant. This one we're having is no exception.
