Polio Victim Now Can Sew

WINNIPEG (CP)—Learning to use a sewing machine has been the proudest achievement of 12-year-old Therese Sewchukdoes. Stricken with polio four years ago, Therese's arms and legs are virtually useless. She has a little strength in her right arm, some movement in the fingers of her left hand, and she can shrug her shoulders. It's the latter movement that helps her to work the sewing machine for Crippled Children and Adults. Therese obtained a wheelchair fitted with a special apparatus, called an arm feeder. Two prongs at the back of the chair extend on either side of her body. These are attached to two curved pieces of metal which support her forearms. The joint, made at elbow length, has tiny ball bearings for easy movement and balance. By throwing her shoulders forward, backward or sideward, she can make her arms work for her. But besides operating the sewing machine, Therese now can feed her hair, brush her teeth, comb her hair and write. She is in grade 5.

LET'S EAT Low Calorie Casserole Of Chicken, Vegetables

By IDA BAILEY ALLEN
"Chicken cream casserole is easy to prepare and always a hit when we give a buffet dinner," remarked my daughter, Ruth Castell. We were having a pleasant chat in the kitchen of her home in Westport, Conn., as she prepared a tray supper for her two small daughters. "Most of the couples we entertain are watching their weight," Ruth continued, "so they shy away from fried chicken. But this casserole contains very little fat, although it tastes rich and creamy, because we use undiluted evaporated milk instead of cream in making it." "Chicken meat also is low in fat compared to other meats such as beef, lamb and pork," I added. "Roasted chicken breast contains the least fat of meats." "Then I'll get chicken breasts for the casserole when I entertain. How much should I allow per person?" LOW IN CALORIES "An eight-ounce serving of chicken breast is ample and carries only 236 calories in contrast to 777 calories in eight ounces of porterhouse steak. Besides, when both chicken breast and the steak are cooked and boned, the chicken breast contains one third more protein than the porterhouse, and from 1 1/2 to three times as much riboflavin and niacin as in most other cooked meats." "These facts have just been released in a new study on the nutritional values of chicken conducted at Cornell University." Chicken Casserole Westport: Wash, dry and section 2 (2 1/2 lb.)

ELEANOR ROSS Shortcuts To Cleaning Helps Spring Toning

By ELEANOR ROSS
This is the time to give slip covers and upholstered furniture a bright new look. Before removing slip covers, get after surface dirt with the upholstery attachment of your vacuum cleaner. It will make the job much easier. Then turn the covers inside out and plunge them into a bath of soda. To SPEED DRYING Slip covers should be washed, according to weave or fabric, the same as drapery fabrics. An electric fan placed nearby will help to speed up the drying process. Iron won't be necessary if you put them back on the furniture while still slightly damp. Chair backs and seats become especially dirty during the winter. Steam heat and closed rooms give furniture little chance to air out and cause the dirt to settle. Then, too, the family is home more during the cold weather months and furniture really gets plenty of use. SUNNY DAY JOB Plan to clean upholstery on a sunny day. First go over all pieces with your vacuum cleaner. Then, if possible, carry small pieces, such as dining room chairs, outside to be revived. Large pieces, such as sofas and wing-backed chairs should be placed near an open window if possible. Use a soft brush or sponge to apply "dry" suds to the upholstery. We might remind you at this point that "dry" suds are made
