That in their window's shown
Is as good as any in Charlottetown,
And it may be your own.

And the "Bike" your own will be.

Be wise, make all your purchases
At PROWSE'S Clothing Store;

Cottolene

A SHORTENING.

Down the street through the busy way
A lady passed on marketing day.
Who, pausing at a grocery store,
Stepped quickly in at the open door.
With bated breath and anxious mien
She queried: "have you COTTOLENE?"

The grocer, leaving off his work,
Interrogated every clerk;
But none up to that time had seen
An article called "COTTOLENE."

"What is it?" said he to the dame,
"That answers to this curious name.
What is it made of? What's its use?
My ignorance you'll please excuse."

"You're not the merchant for my dimes,
I see you're quite behind the times.
For COTTOLENE, I'd have you know,
Is now the thing that's all the go,
An article of high regard;
A healthful substitute for lard.
Its composition pure and clean;
For cooking give me COTTOLENE."

As from his store the lady fled,
The grocer gently scratched his head—
On his next order, first was seen,
"One dozen cases COTTOLENE."

SMALL FRUITS.

A Valuable Bulletin on the Culture of Raspberries and Blackberries.

An experiment station bulletin on raspberry and blackberry culture is very valuable. The following is a recapitulation of the bulletin:

1. Black raspberries can be made a profitable farm crop when grown for evaporating purposes and gathered by the aid of the berry harvester, regardless of the proximity to markets. An average yield with good culture is about seventy-five to eighty bushels per acre.

2. An average yield of red raspberries is about seventy bushels per acre. An average yield of blackberries is about one hundred bushels per acre.

3. A majority of growers find low summer pinching of blackberries best for most varieties.

4. Growers are about equally divided in opinion as to whether red raspberries should be pinched back at all in summer. If pinched, it should be done low and early. The canes should be made to branch low.

5. Evaporating red raspberries has not yet proved profitable.

6. There seems to be no immediate prospect that blackberries can be profitably grown for evaporating purposes.

7. Berry canes which made their entire growth after July 6 stood the winter as well or better than those which grew during the whole season.

8. Removing all young canes from a plantation bearing its last crop of fruit materially increases the yield.

9. Raspberries and blackberries can be successfully grown under glass, but require artificial pollination and a comparatively high temperature.

10. Under ordinary conditions, thinning the fruit of raspberries and blackberries, other than that done by the spring pruning, does not pay.

11. Cutting off the bearing canes early in the spring does not induce autumn fruiting of raspberries.

12. Frequent spraying with water throughout the blossoming period did not interfere with pollination and subsequent fruit production.

13. The only remedy for red rust is to dig up and burn at once every plant found to be affected. Cut away and burn all canes affected with anthracnose pits and spray the plantation with Bordeaux mixture. Root galls weaken the plants, causing them to appear as if suffering from poor soil. Removing the plants and burning the roots is the only remedy.

14. The dewberry of the Pacific slope is Rubus vitifolius. This species often bears imperfect or pistillate flowers. The Skagit Chief bore pistillate flowers with us and was therefore infertile in itself.

THE VALUE OF MULES.

They Average Higher Than Horses in Almost Every State in Yankeedom.

If nobility may be estimated in dollars, the mule is a nobler animal than the horse, says the New York Sun. Yet there are no autumnal mule shows, and even if there were it is hardly probable that flower-adorned young women would make a practice of patting the prize animal. The only way to pat a mule, according to the Texas code, is with a fence rail or a board. The man who collected horse and mule statistics for the census report shows that the average price of a mule is $7 more than the average price of a horse. The ordinary mule in South Carolina, which owns about 55,000 of the long-eared beasts, is worth about $90; the average price of a horse in the same state is about $79. Texas probably has more mules (about 200,000) than any other state. The average price is about $41, or nearly twice the value of a Texas horse. In Missouri mules are worth about $7 more and in Kentucky about $3 more than horses. Only a few states have no mules or so few that the statistician didn't make a note of them. One of these states is Rhode Island, which the mule-driver of Texas doubtless would think is not any too large a pasturage and playground for a festive mule of southern birth. Oregon is the only state where horses bring nigher prices than mules. The ordinary mule out there is worth $46 and the horse $51. The figures for California are: Mules, $97; horses, $46. In Pennsylvania, where mules, famous for longevity, are much used in the mines, they bring about $86, horses $97. In this state there are seventy times as many horses as there are mules, which number about 14,000. A New York mule is worth $91 and a horse $76. Mules are prized more in New Jersey than in any other state, the average price being about $106, or $30 more than horses. Illinois has about 140,000 mules, or more than any other western state.

Lameness in Hens.

A reader requests us to give a reason for the inability of the hens to walk, especially when several hens are afflicted in the same manner. It is difficult to state the cause without knowing the details of management and the conditions governing the matter, but it may be stated that in a majority of such cases the cause is due to the fowls being in a fat condition, and to the presence of the male, which should be removed. Whenever a hen appears lame, remove her from the male, as the injury is internal, and she should be quiet and unmolested, keeping her on straw instead of allowing a roost. Lameness may also be occasioned by high roosts, the daily jumping to the floor causing a strain on the limbs that sooner or later results in pain, especially if the fowl is fat. There is no remedy for lameness, unless some simple liniment be applied, a process which is too laborious, as it entails upon the attendant the work of handling each fowl separately.—Mirror and Farmer.

Sweet Peas.

Perhaps there is no climbing flower that is so dear to us as the old-fashioned sweet pea. It will never be too old-fashioned, but will continue to give us joy year after year. Everyone who has a space wherein to accommodate vines should plant numbers of these sweet flowers. It furnishes such lovely flowers for vases or bouquets, besides beautifying the place of its growth, the cultivation being so simple that every flower-lover can have an abundance of these most graceful blossoms. To have the largest and finest blooms dig a trench about six inches deep, put in plenty of well-decayed manure, some rich earth, and sow the seed about an inch apart, covering to the depth of two inches. Do this as soon as the ground can be worked, and as the young plants grow give them more rich earth. Do not allow them to suffer from a lack of moisture. By giving them this attention they will reward their caretaker with a profusion of the most beautiful blooms.

GIRLS IN BUSINESS.

Anything But Quiet Dignity Lessens Her Usefulness.

A girl never enhances her business prospects by putting aside her dignity toward her employer. It may seem to her that other girls, adopting a different course, enjoy more advantages and make speedier progress. But this is in the seeming, never in the reality. Familiarity here breeds absolutely nothing but contempt. This is one of the most unfortunate elements in the entrance of women in the business world, and one of the principal reasons why I oppose her doing so except where actual and dire necessity compels it. I know of all too many cases where girls have been placed in the most trying of positions in this respect. It is unfortunate, but it is true, that there are men who are all too ready to take advantage of their positions in life. And under the wrong impression that it means a surer hold upon their positions the employee tolerates the familiarity of the employer. It is the position in which many a girl in business finds herself. Inexperienced, she believes her position is at stake, not knowing that her tolerance brings that end closer than would her assumption of the position her own feelings dictate. Respectability is a girl's greatest safeguard everywhere, but nowhere is it such a vital safeguard to her as when she must rub up against the world and be, in a measure, her own protector. Business men, generally speaking, draw a sharp distinction between their acquaintances of the office and their social friends. They do it because experience has taught them it is the only wise course. From this attitude on the part of the employer the girl in business should profit. Let her keep her social life and her business life as distinct as possible. Anything but an assumption of quiet dignity on her part takes away just so much from her own usefulness in the business world, and lessens, rather than increases, the respect of her employer. I do not mean by this that a young woman should assume a chilling manner toward her male superiors or equals in business. Woman's greatest charm is in her ability to be womanly, and womanliness means exactly what the word implies and nothing more. But, likewise, nothing else. It is, perhaps, because business is still a novelty to woman that so many girls have yet to learn the lesson that coquetry has no place in the commercial world, and that to presume upon a kindness extended is a fatal mistake. The girl whom the man of business respects most highly is the girl who carries herself so as to win his respect. And a man's true respect for a good woman means the very best that is within him.

Rules for Track-Laying.

The question is often asked, "What are the rules for laying out mile and half-mile tracks?" The following simple directions will be found useful: For a mile track draw a line through an oblong centre 440 yards in length, setting a stake at each end. Then draw a line on either side of the first line, exactly parallel with and 417 feet two inches from it, setting stakes at either end of them. You will then have an oblong square 440 yards long and 835 feet 4 inches wide. At each end of these three lines you will now set stakes. Now fasten a cord or wire 417 feet 2 inches long to the centre stake of your parallelogram, and then describe a half circle, driving stakes as often as you wish to set a fence-post. When the circle is made at both ends of your parallelogram you will have two straight sides and two circles which, measured three feet from the fence, will be exactly a mile. The turns should be thrown up an inch to the foot.

A half mile track: Draw the parallel lines 600 feet long and 452 feet 5 inches apart. Half-way between the extreme ends of the two parallel lines drive a stake, then loop a wire around the stake long enough to reach to either side. Then make a true curve with the wire, putting down a stake as often as a fence-post is needed. When this operation is finished at both ends of the 600-foot parallel lines the track is laid out. The inside fence will rest exactly on the line drawn, but the track must measure a half-mile, three feet from the fence. The turns should be thrown up an inch to the foot. The stretches may be anywhere from forty-five to sixty feet.

Defamers of Men.

The work of masculine whisperers is chiefly seen in the embarrassment of business. I will undertake to say that in nine cases out of ten of business trouble it was the result of some whisperer's work. The whisperer uttered some suspicion in regard to your credit. You sold your horse and carriage because you had no use for them, and the whisperer said: "Sold his horse and carriage because he had to sell them. The fact that he sold his horse and carriage shows that he is going down in business." One of your friends gets embarrassed, and you are a little involved with him. The whisperer says: "I wonder if he can stand under all this pressure? I think he is going down. I think he will have to give up." You borrow money out of a bank and a director whispers outside about it, and after a while the suspicion gets fairly started, and it leaps from one whisperer's lip to another whisperer's lip until all the people you owe want their money and want it right away, and the business circles come around you like a pack of wolves, and though you honestly do your four times more than were necessary to meet your liabilities, crash went everything! How much business men have suffered. Some time in the circle of clergymen we discuss why is it that a great many merchants do not go to church. I will tell you why they do not go to church. By the time Saturday night comes they are worn out with the annoyances of business life. They have had enough meanness practiced upon them to set their whole nervous system atwitch. My chief wonder is that our business men control their tempers and retain their good health as well as they do.

A Word of Advice.

A patient should never be raised suddenly to receive food, drink or medicine. Aside from distressing the sufferer there is danger of heart trouble. Place the arm under the pillow and gently force the invalid into a position between lying and sitting. Medicine cups and porcelain spoons are now in general use and save considerable torture.

Value of Swamp Muck.

The chief value of swamp muck is obtained when it is used as an absorbent. If thoroughly dried during the summer months it can be employed to good advantage in stables and in composting with nitrogenous manures. It has but little manurial value in itself.

Russian Disapproval.

In Russian theatres, when the auditors desire to express extreme disapprobation, they throw dead cats at the actors.

Earthquake Shocks.

The average speed of the transmission of earthquake shocks is nearly 16,000 feet per second.

Physicians endorse them, and Physicians make them.

I am pleased to recommend

Skoda's Discovery

and Skoda's other remedies, as I know them to be articles of true merit, and the physicians who compound them, to be men of integrity and ability. Skoda's Discovery is unlike any other proprietary medicine—it cures disease by removing the poison, and at the same time SUPPLIES GOOD BLOOD to wasted parts. No other remedy has performed so many wonderful cures or relieved so much suffering.

Skoda's Little Tablets cure constipation, sick headache and dyspepsia. 25 cts.
