

FINAL CHECK BEFORE PARKDALE MEET

Grundhogs Can't Agree; Observatory Comes To Aid

Springs on its way. It is, it is, if the ancient legend surrounding Groundhog Day, Feb. 2, can be relied upon.

Legend says that if the groundhog sees his shadow Feb. 2, it means six more weeks before spring arrives. If he doesn't see his shadow, it means spring is near.

Any groundhog who burrowed up through the snow drifts on Prince Edward Island yesterday would certainly have failed to see his shadow.

What he would see were cloudy skies and showers which dumped two and one-half more inches of snow on the ground.

Temperatures rose to freezing point, but dipped around the 20-degree mark last night.

A cross-Canada groundhog survey indicates the little creatures were unable to agree on a national forecast.

Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and Ontario all reported clear, cold and sunny weather. The other six provinces had overcast conditions with rain or snow.

Since the groundhogs weren't able to indicate how long winter will last, astronomers at the

Two Parkdale Commissioners Are Re-Elected

Two retiring commissioners, Nelson Good and Frank MacDonald, were re-elected for a further three-year term at the annual meeting last night of the village of Parkdale. It was held in the Women's Institute hall.

A committee is to be set up by the commissioners to study the feasibility of procuring a community centre and a rink for the village.

The financial report, presented by Fred Wolfson, showed a deficit of $254. Revenue was given as $67,091 and expenditures $67,345. However, it was pointed out that provision had been made from the 1964 revenue for expenditures in 1965 of $6,000 on fire equipment, buildings, sewers and parks.

The meeting decided a new fire engine pumper be purchased immediately.

Reports were also given by Frank MacDonald, chairman, George Newman, street and sidewalks, Alex MacLean, public property, Harvey Douglas, fire and police, Nelson Good, water and sewers, Dan McAskill, fire chief, and Harley Ings, policeman.

St. Eleanors Approves Largest Budget Ever

ST. ELEANORS — Ratepayers approved the largest budget in the history of the village last night at its annual meeting here.

The budget for 1965 stands at $73,000 as compared to $62,513 last year, an increase of just under 10 per cent.

Norman Johnston, chairman of the village commissioners, said this increase was necessary due to the increased costs of education, debt charges, and fire equipment. He added however, that it was hoped this would be partly offset by an increase in the village's federal grant.

This year's budget was termed a far cry from the first one brought forward eight years ago at the first annual meeting, amounting to $447.

The surplus given for 1964 was $600.50.

Following lengthy discussion, pro and con, concerning the purchasing of a new police vehicle, the purchase was approved although there were some dissenting ratepayers.

It was pointed out that the present vehicle is close to five years old and has something over 60,000 miles registered.

During the year 718 tickets were issued by the village constables along with other arrests. Revenue received in this department amounted to $2594.50.

Five new houses were built during the year along with an industrial building, one riding stable and two large maintenance buildings.

Applications for these buildings along with other applications for construction of one type or another, including extensions and repairs had a total assess value of $184,100.

far greater impact on Canada than on the U.S. American industry would gain free access to the Canadian market in 10 years.

Canadian industry in five years would have free access to the 10-fold greater American market.

The big adjustment would be in having Canadian industry compete freely for markets in all of Canada and the U.S. with American industry. To do so, Canadian industry would have to reorient itself to greater and more economical production of more specialized products, Mr. Fowler said.

Asked whether Canada would not lose some of its independence in the process, Mr. Fowler said: "I would feel I'm more independent if I had more money in my pocket."

SHOULD EXAMINE PLAN — Asked for his comment on the plan in his capacity as spokesman for the Canadian pulp and paper industry, Mr. Fowler added: "I think the pulp and paper industry ought to examine this plan for the effects it would have. Maybe we should be selling magazine-type papers in the United States as well as newspapers."

R. Douglas Stuart, retired U.S. ambassador to Canada and director of the Quaker Oats Company who is former American co-chairman of the committee, said the plan is more far-reaching than Congress would be prepared to endorse at the present time. But Congress can be educated along its lines, he added.

Authors of the study are Sperry Lea, American director of research for the committee; Theodore Geiger, chief of international studies of the U.S. National Planning Association, and Arthur J. R. Smith, Canadian director of research for the committee, now employed elsewhere.

Successor as Canadian director of research for the committee, said that Canadian-produced goods are generally higher priced than similar American goods because plants on this side of the border cannot take advantage of the long production runs and high volume production of similar American plants.

"This is the higher cost of being Canadian," he said. "Canada is the only country that is not part of a market or market grouping of 100,000,000 people.

"Our 19,000,000 compares with the U.S.'s 180,000,000, Japan's nearly 100,000,000, Russia's 200,000,000, and the European Common Market's 180,000,000.

"Even the European free trade area is approaching that with 92,000,000, and there is good evidence to indicate that this is going to be the kind of scale on which industry will work in the future."

REGINA (CP) — Commercial fishing for whitefish in Last Mountain Lake, 35 miles north of here, was valued at about $40,000 last year. About 100 licensed fishermen took only four days to land the 200,000-pound limit permitted under commercial regulations.
