ST. ANDREWS, N.B. (CP)—Sir James Dunn, Canadian industrialist, left an estate valued at $66,654,444. It was disclosed by his will, probated here Monday. One-half of the general balance of the estate was left to Sir James widow, Lady Dunn. One-twelfth each goes to his son, Philip, who succeeded to the baronetcy; to four daughters, Mrs. Robert Adene, the Baroness Sherborne, Mrs. Joseph Bronovsky and Mrs. Michael Wishart, and to a granddaughter, Monica Tattersall, all in England. Sir James, who died here Jan. 1 aged 81, was president and chairman of Algoma Steel Corporation, big steel and iron-ore industry centred at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. The will was dated at New York Jan. 19, 1950, and had three codicils. # Ford Company Seeks Million From 12 Insurance Concerns

TORONTO (CP)—Ford Motor Company of Canada, Ltd., served notice of a damage suit totaling nearly $1,000,000 against 12 insurance companies. The $905,091 suit, to be heard April 30 before Mr. Justice G.A. Gale of the Supreme Court of Ontario, arises from a strike at Ford's Windsor plant in December, 1951. Ford claims the policies covered riots and the strike was a riot within the terms of insurance coverage. In its statement of claim the company said 75 workers forced their way into the plant house and forced the superintendent to shut off the power. The company said its 1952 car production was delayed for three weeks. It said the insurance companies have refused to pay claims on the policies. The strike started when 25 employees were fired for their alleged part in the work stoppage. The insurance companies, in a statement of defence, said the damage claimed by Ford were not covered in the policy. Total coverage of $78,000,000. The statement said the car-manufacturing company precipitated the strike to get labor issues between Ford and its employees to a head. Defendants named in the Ford statement of claim are: Prudential Assurance Company; Sun Insurance Office; Hartford Fire Insurance Company; World Fire and Marine Insurance Company; Insurance Company of North America; Scottish Union Assurance Company; British Overseas Assurance Company; British America Assurance Company; London Insurance Company; Lancashire Insurance Company; Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society, and National Insurance Company. In its statement Ford said the

Moscow Molly Has No Inside Information On The DEW Line

By DAVE MCINTOSH Canadian Press Staff Writer ON THE DEW LINE, Canadian Arctic (CP)—Reports that a Russian radio propagandist known as "Moscow Molly" broadcasts supposedly secret information on the DEW (Distant Early Warning) line are denied by officials working on the radar chain. Reporters on a recent 12,000-mile tour of the DEW line asked at every site visited about the Moscow Molly reports. A few workers said they had heard the radio broadcasts but they contained nothing more on the DEW line than information contained in Canadian and American newspapers. Maj.-Gen. James E. Briggs, assistant deputy chief of staff for operations in the U.S. Air Force, told reporters in New York just before the tour started that the Moscow Molly reports contain neither classified information nor security leaks. MONITOR BROADCASTS Original Ottawa newspaper stories about the Russian radio broadcasts said they contained an amazing and accurate amount of information on DEW line operations. The northern affairs department has asked officials in the Arctic to monitor the broadcasts to determine whether they might contain so-called secret information. Officials are most anxious to keep secret any information on the status of the line, target date for completion, exact locations of radar sites, the capabilities and details of the radar equipment, number of radar stations and the distance between them. The 31 newspaper men on the tour were asked not to refer to any of these aspects of the project. Their stories were screened by two security officers, one from the RCMP and the other from the U.S. Air Force. # Art Society To Donate Pictures For Public Sale

The P. E. I. Art Society met in the Club room Monday evening April 9 with the president, Mrs. Elizabeth Davies in the chair. Arising from the treasurer's report was the glaring need to improve finances. A sale of pictures and objects of Art was decided on to be held during the last week in April. Paintings, both oil and water are to be donated by club members. Miss Eleanor Lowe offered to make leaflets to be sent to members. It was decided that a letter be sent to the Provincial Government requesting an annual grant of $200 for the purpose of bringing exhibitions of paintings to this province.

To date the P. E. I. Island Art Society has been bearing all the costs of traveling exhibitions and has not been able to meet the cost of any but the least expensive. Those have been greatly enjoyed by larger groups each year. It was apparently an indication that more and better exhibitions be offered.

The annual exhibition of paintings of the P. E. I. Island Art Society will be held in May; each member eligible to send three paintings. The May meeting will be held the first Tuesday in May as the president will be leaving shortly after on a trip to Europe. Mr. John Taylor was asked to oversee the task of having the Orphanage playroom panelled up on display in the lobby of the Civic Centre. These panels, painted by Miss Eleanor Lowe, and Mrs. P.A. Creelman are really a joy to behold and it is felt that the public should have an opportunity to enjoy this work before it is installed in the playroom of the P. E. I. Protestant Orphanage at Mount Herbert. The meeting adjourned for coffee.

A Farmer Takes A Wife

By Lena Vessey APPENDIX John Aitken born in 1729 at Greenhill, Auchenhay Scotland. He came to Prince Edward Island from Three Rivers, Brudenell. He lived on Panmure Island (a small island in Georgetown harbor). While there his youngest son George was born (referred to in poem as Laddie). When George was a manhood he located on a farm in Lower Montague near the picturesque Montague river. On this farm was a beautiful stream where he operated a grist mill. He milled grain for the surrounding neighborhoods and was very successful in turning out excellent flour from oats, wheat and corn. He became a prosperous farmer although having no tractor or machinery to ease his labor the results of his efforts were a credit to him and to his descendants also. He was a kind and generous man always ready to help those in need most of them were beginners in the new land too. His wife was Hannah Bearisto from West River, you will learn from the poem "A Farmer Takes A Wife". Many of George and Hannah Aitken's descendants live in the vicinity of the Montague's and other sections of the island, not knowing how many are in different sections of the universe.
