THANKSGIVING AS AN ART.

An Accomplishment in Which Our Mothers Excelled the Girls of Today.

In an article entitled "An Old Time Thanksgiving," in The Woman's Home Companion, Edward L. Pull says: "The girl who has cultivated the spirit of thankfulness does not gush over at the gift of a shawl and snap an indifferent 'Thanks!' at the man who has lost a day from the office to gratify her little whim. Of course these mothers of ours had their whims and exercised the priceless privileges of thoughtlessness and snapping now and then as girls, and other than girls, have always done, but I think it cannot be denied that the girl of a generation ago had more reverence on the subject of debts of gratitude such as few have had since her day. I have said that I am afraid that with many of us today it is a lost art. I am sure that it is not given that prominence which it once had, and that it is not cultivated with the enthusiasm with which it once was. Girls are taught what etiquette says about it, but etiquette deals only from the lips outward, and the result is that our language tells the story of the decadence of thanksgiving. A traveler from these parts might hear 'Thanks!' a million times and never suspect that it was meant as an acknowledgment of a favor. I am sure that up to, say, a dozen years ago, in these parts of our country where gallantry has held out longest, one could not give a seat in a car without being sure of a full return in an acknowledgment that cannot to acknowledge something, and that today the average man is utterly ungrateful and undone when his ears catch the old sweet sound.

Of course this does not justify or account for the current lack of gallantry among men, but I am not engaged in the hopeless task of restoring men to the old ways, but in the hopeful one of pointing out a neglected talent which the most charming of girls may cultivate with good results. I am not grumbling. I do not mean to say that the girl of the period is as white behind the girl of the past. I do not believe in the decadence of women. I believe that the girl of today is equal to the girl her mother used to be, but I do not believe that it is enough to say of our girls that they are equal to the girls of the past any more than it is enough to say of a flower that has had the best attention of the best florists for a generation that it is as beautiful today as it was 30 years ago. If we have done wisely, the girl of today ought to have not only something which her mother lacked, but she ought to have her mother's graces as well. But it is a serious question whether, in pressing her development, we have not cultivated some qualities at the expense of others, just as in pressing the development of a certain flower we have increased its size and beauty at the expense of its fragrance."

LEADERS OF VALUE

There doesn't seem to be very much the matter with your child. He doesn't actually lose weight, but there is no gain. He belongs to that large class of children that don't seem to prosper. You look at him a little more thoughtfully than you do at the rest and say "He is not doing well." Failure to gain in weight in a child is a danger signal. Scott's Emulsion should be taken at once. It puts on fat where health demands it, strengthening the digestion.

SANTA CLAUS IS REAL.

Though Many People Speak of Him as a Myth.

In spite of the fact that Dec. 6 was St. Nicholas' day thousands of people talk of Santa Claus as myth. St. Nicholas was a very real personage. He was Archbishop of Myra in 342, and the name under which he enjoys an annual popularity in this country is the German form that came with the German custom of the Christmas tree and all the rest of it.

St. Nicholas is a great saint with all the Teutonic and Scandinavian peoples. As a matter of course he soon became famous in working miracles and here again he appeared to seek favor with the young people.

An innkeeper having killed two young gentlemen and put them in the pickle tub, intending to sell them as pickled pork, the saint, who, in a vision, had seen the deed done, declared he would put a stop to the business, and thereupon he transformed himself from Lycia to Athens and stood before the astonished innkeeper and said, "What has thou done?"

The man trembled, confessed and implored forgiveness. Having patted the man on the back and said, "Don't do it any more," the holy man turned to the pickle tub, when the imitation sides, legs and hands of pork began to stir, and in quick sticks there came forth not two boys, merely, but three, as may be proved by reference to the Salisbury missal of 1534, wherein there is a picture of the event, and one of its peculiarities is that, as the three boys rise complete out of the pickle, the barbarous butcher is still busy in cutting one of them up.

The guardianship of the young by Santa Claus was of old recognized in England by the custom of choir boys in cathedrals choosing a boy bishop on the day of St. Nicholas, Dec. 6. This was a very important event, as may be seen by Hone's "Every Day Book," I. 1569, where there is an engraving of a boy bishop from Salisbury cathedral. The custom was in full observance from early times until 1542, when it was abolished by a proclamation of Henry VIII.

We have simply incorporated St. Nicholas' day with Christmas day and made the night of Dec. 24 the time of the saint's visitation. But he is not a myth now any more than he ever was. He is a very real as well as a very good saint indeed, and for the children's sake, may we never grow less!

A SURE CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.

There is no such thing. Scott's Emulsion comes the nearest to it, but even that will not cure advanced cases, but taken in time it will cure this disease.

NOVELTIES.

Very pretty are the small enameled writing tables with spindle legs.

Brier and meerscham pipes with amber mouthpieces and gold rims are popular as gifts for men.

Rich colors and Spanish decorations distinguish the mantel ornaments, plaques and jugs in the Hispano-Moresque ware.

Floral spoons enameled in natural colors are dainty and attractive. As a rule the flower is represented in the bowl of the spoon and the stems and leaves on the handle.

A little mirror which folds into a handle after the manner of a lorgnette and known as the empire hand mirror is conveniently carried in one's pocket, or when made in gold or silver and enriched with jewels it may be worn on a chapeleine.—Jewelers' Circular.

THE SEASON'S NOVELTIES.

The Fashions in the Jewelry Line This Christmas Tide.

Every year brings some novelties in Christmas gifts—new designs in jewels, as well as in furniture, in silver, in glass, and in a thousand and one pieces of bric-a-brac, either useful or ornamental, sometimes possessing both qualities. Among the most beautiful of the novelties this year are the various pieces of Russian enamel, so exquisite in workmanship and design as to seem only fitted for a cabinet; but the workmanship is so thorough that even the jeweled bombonieres, card cases and buckles can be used every day; the coloring is wonderful, showing a finish and beauty beyond anything that has been seen here for many years. A jewel casket has the entire lid covered with a copy of the Russian wedding feast, and each minute detail absolutely perfect. The principal designs on the card cases have the effect somewhat of a mosaic, representing the famous Russian beadwork, and even those that are not set with jewels are worthy of a close examination, the blending of the colors being so delicately done.

Most curious of all the enamels, though, are some tea caddies of a deep, snatched red. These have no ornamentation except a slight beading around the top, and the fancy is to have the monogram cut in. This shows the silver underneath the enamel, and, if possible, intensifies the rare shading of color. Of course, all these enameled pieces are expensive, and are not for a moment to be ranked among the low-priced articles, but considering the work upon them, they cannot be called dear.—Harper's Bazaar.

Admired by Queen Victoria.

Queen Victoria's newest maid of honor, Miss Majendie, is said to owe her entrance to royal favor to a curious chance. She happened to be singing in a church choir one day when the Queen was present at divine service, and her Majesty was so greatly pleased with the fresh sweetness of the girl's face and voice that she invited her to fill the place coveted by the young girls of the English aristocracy. The position was the last thing Miss Majendie herself would ever have expected.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Genius Should be Recognized.

It is ungenerous to withhold an expression of sympathy for those who have failed in the accomplishment of great undertakings, in which they have embarked all their pecuniary, physical and intellectual resources. As a general rule, people are hardly considerate enough toward the unsuccessful. There is too great a disposition to forget their pluck and perseverance and sneer at their trustfulness. We ought to bear in mind that it is this sublime audacity of faith to which we are indebted for the marvelous achievements of our age.

TURN OVER A NEW LEAF.

Get out of that rut of sickness and ill-health that is making you old before your time. Remember that the success you wish to make of your life will be flat failure if you don't pay more attention to your health. Health is the foundation of success.

Abbey's Effervescent Salt

Is the foundation of health. It builds up the systems that worry and work break down. It keeps the blood pure and the system in a healthful condition, prepared to repel disease. Eminent Canadian and European physicians endorse it as a preventive and cure for La Grippe, Sleeplessness, Loss of Appetite, Biliousness, Sick Headache, Constipation, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Spleen Affections, Nervous Depression, Indigestion, Sea-Sickness, Flatulency, Gout, Fever, Skin and Kidney Complaints.

This excellent testimony from Dr. W. H. Wright, L.R.C.P.I., L.M., M.R.C.S.E., L.S.A.I., Medical Officer of Health, London, England, should be of service to you. "I have great pleasure in bearing testimony to your excellent preparation. I take it every morning before my cold bath, and it keeps me in the best of health and spirits. I may say, by its continued use during a terrible epidemic of La Grippe I escaped an attack, although often worn out with the extra fatigue and great strain upon me when grappling with it. It keeps the blood cool and allays fever, and thus keeps the system in a condition of insusceptibility to Diphtheria, Fevers, and other blood disorders. I also find it a valuable antirheumatic."
