

N.S. Premier Wants Rail Costs In 4 Provinces Cut

OTTAWA (CP)—Premier Hicks of Nova Scotia Tuesday asked Prime Minister St. Laurent to consider means of reducing rail transportation costs in the four Atlantic provinces.

In a 45-minute interview, Mr. Hicks asked for a general review of the costs in the East including the effects of the Maritime Freight Rates Act of 1927, under which the federal treasury subsidizes 20 per cent reductions on some freight rates in the seaboard area.

The premier — whose visit resulted from a July conference of four Atlantic premiers — told reporters later he said to the prime minister that the act now in force is not doing what it was intended to do in 1927.

The statute resulted from a royal commission study of the Maritime economic needs, and its basic purpose was to help overcome transportation cost difficulties in getting Maritime products to central Canadian markets.

WINTERS ALSO ATTENDS

Premier Hicks, who was accompanied by the conference by federal Works Minister Winters, from Nova Scotia, said later he received a sympathetic hearing from Mr. St. Laurent.

He said the prime minister had noted that the Gordon royal commission studying Canada's economic future had devoted much of its Atlantic hearings to evidence on transportation costs in that area and could be expected to report on this, Mr. St. Laurent also had stated that the federal agencies were continuously studying special matters dealing with transportation costs.

"He gave assurance that the whole problem will be seriously reviewed, including the Maritime Freight Rates Act," Mr. Hicks said.

ASK QUICK ATTENTION

Mr. Hicks said he urged that immediate attention be given to the question, in view of that summer's temporary general freight rate increase of seven per cent and a 15-per-cent application by the railways now pending before the board of transport commissioners.

The 15 per cent would substitute for the interim seven per cent, which expires Oct. 31. The board of transport commissioners is to hold hearings on the question in the meantime.

Death Saturday Of Well Known Souris Resident

The death of John Aeneas MacIsaac of Souris occurred in the Hospital there on Sept. 1. He was in his 75th year. Born in St. Catherine's, a son of the late Archibald MacIsaac and Mary Ford of Elmira, P. E. Island, he married Louise Malone in 1914, who predeceased him ten years ago. One son, Joseph, who is engaged in teaching at Cariboo, B. C. is a survivor.

Mr. MacIsaac early in life became apprenticed to the late Bernard Greaser as a carpenter. Later they were associated in a number of building projects of major importance. On the death of Mr. Greaser, Mr. MacIsaac continued to run his own mill in the production of sashes and doors and the finish of high grade interior wood. Following his apprenticeship and before entering partnership, Mr. MacIsaac was employed in mills outside the province, particularly at Newcastle, N.B.

An outstanding achievement of Mr. MacIsaac which marked him as a skillful craftsman was the full main altar in St. Malachias's church, Kinkora.

The funeral was held from the Dingwall Funeral home yesterday morning and was quite largely attended. Requiem High Mass was sung by Rev. Frank Ledwell, who also conducted service at the grave. The pall bearers were George MacAulay, Sylv. J. MacDonald, Adrian A. MacDonald, Lester P. O'Donnell, Andrew Mooney and James Bushey.

Create New Naval Post In Toronto

OTTAWA (CP) — Naval activities in the Toronto area have become so great that a new post has been created to divide the burden between two senior reserve officers, who have civilian careers in addition to their navy work.

Naval headquarters announced that Capt. Robert Ian Hendy, 40, of Toronto has been appointed senior naval officer for the area, with rank of commodore. He also was made an honorary aide-de-camp to Governor-General Massey.

At the time, The Canadian Press reported that Commodore Hendy had been appointed full-time senior naval officer for the area. This is not correct — he will continue his legal career as a member of the Toronto firm of Somerville, Purvis, Bigelow and Hendy.

Commodore Hendy now will work closely with Capt. Leonard Stupart, the present York commander who is an official of a life insurance company.

MILKING CONTEST

This contest will be managed by Zenon Gallant. Contestants will be allowed two minutes to be seated and prepare for milking. The prizes will be awarded to the contestant who will get more milk per minute.

The contestants must milk at least 3 minutes, but may continue if they desire.

Each milkster is to have the privilege to take in his own cow or make arrangements with any other person for the use of the cow. This will take place immediately after the judging of the cattle.

MILKING UTENSILS

The improperly cleaned milking pail is a great source of milk contamination. What holds true of the milking pail is the same with every other container with which the milk comes in contact, such as the separator, the filter, the can. Indeed the state of utensils appears to be the most important factor affecting the germ content of milk. Under clean milking conditions, any change from a neglected method results in a greater increase in germ content than the neglect of any other single precaution. A pail may look clean to the eye, but may not be bacteriologically clean, that is it may contain a large number of living bacteria because of not having received a sterilizing treatment to destroy these bacteria.

The proper method of treating milk utensils consists first in rinsing in luke warm water immediately after using, before traces of milk have had a chance to dry on, then washing in warm water to which a little dairy washing soda has been added. A brush should be used instead of a cloth. Then they should be rinsed with hot water to remove traces of cleaning solution, and finally sterilized with boiling water or steam. Where steam is not available the utensils could be immersed in boiling water for at least two minutes. A cloth should not be used to dry the utensils after sterilizing because it will only add germs to the surface. If placed inverted on a rack they will dry quickly.

Utensils are difficult to clean if poorly constructed, having crevices, joints, seams, dents and cracks where traces of milk can lodge. The inside of the pails and cans should be smooth, well tinned and should be of seamless construction to make cleaning and sterilizing easy. Only well tinned pails, stainless steel or aluminum should be used for milk.

Living Costs Continue Climb

OTTAWA (CP)—Food and other price rises bumped living costs to a new high in July. The rate of climb eased but officials said this was no assurance of a definite trend for the months ahead.

Experts felt that still further rises are likely. And in labor circles there was increased talk of striking cost-of-living escalator clauses to new wage contracts.

The consumer price index, yardstick for measuring living costs, hit its third straight monthly rise in July, increasing by three-fifths of a point to a record 119.1, the bureau of statistics reported Tuesday. The index is based on 1949 prices equalling 100.

This was the first time since the July-September period of 1955 that the yardstick had hit three consecutive rises. But the July, 1956 increase was the smallest of the new three-month rise, following the boost of 1.2 point in May and seven-tenths of a point in June.

Normally, with fall food harvesting and increased marketing, living costs tend to decline seasonally. Federal experts said some declines will emerge but these likely will not be as large as in previous years.
