

REPORTER DAVE MILLER, RIGHT — HANDLES (?) A TOUGH INTERVIEW

Mammoth Assignment Overwhelms Reporter

By DAVE MILLER
Interviews are not easy by any means. But when the reporter is faced with 465 pounds of muscle, crammed into six and a half feet of body and topped with over 18 feet of hair, any interview can assume mammoth proportions.

The Great Antonio darkened the doors of the Guardian Office last night and suggested an interview ... no one refused. The interview itself was somewhat one-sided. The self-proclaimed world's strongest man produced a pile of newspaper clippings, slapped a huge ham-like hand on top of them and said "READ".

In a vain attempt to raise the interview into some sort of intellectual strata, questions were fired at the Great Antonio; questions about his career as a wrestler, horse-fitter, lumber-jack, and movie actor. All questions received a similar guttural reply which sounded like "Aaaa aarrgh" to the untrained ear.

Amazing Demant Rocks O'Leary With Hilarity

ALBERTON — The Amazing Demant concluded his island appearances with a milk-provoking performance in O'Leary Regional High School Saturday night before a capacity audience. Participants selected from the audience brought gales of laughter as they acted out imaginary situations while a d.e.r. hypnotist. A ball dancing demonstration by a local youth will be remembered by those in attendance.

Many at Saturday's show also attended Friday night's performance and had such a hilarious time they returned for the second show. Two local people were given an unexpected benefit when the hypnotist caused them to give up smoking and at least one person tried to get on the show in order to get help in giving up the habit. Both shows were sponsored by O'Leary Lions Club.

The Guardian, Charlottetown, Mon., April 12, 1965. 3

Luckily, the champion guano wrestler's pretty, rotund wife volunteered some pertinent information. She and her husband were having a vacation in Charlottetown and she had prepared a sheet of vital statistics on her husband's meteoric career.

The Great Antonio Barichievich was born in Siberia, Russia, and has made eight trips around the world, wrestling in all major centres. He estimated that (the estimation was interrupted at various intervals by Tarzan like sounds emanating from the bearded undergrowth) over six million people had seen him wrestle and put on exhibitions of strength.

16-STEAK BREAKFAST
How does the Great Antonio maintain his vast bulk? Well, he said that he eats 90 eggs and 10 big steaks for breakfast. This light snack is usually washed down with two or three quarts of juice and a "few" vegetables. He keeps in terrific physical condition by lifting buses, horses, people, and anything else that will let him come close. He has pulled four buses filled with passengers over a distance of five hundred feet. The estimated weight of the buses was 30 tons.

The Great Antonio will put on a wrestling match and an exhibition of strength at the Charlottetown Forum on April 30. He will wrestle Dominique Tombari, weighing in at a mere 410 pounds and the Black Marvel at 360 pounds. When asked why he was in Charlottetown so soon, the erudite wrestler stated that he might purchase a farm or just take a vacation. Antonio may not be happy, however, ... there are no buses in Charlottetown.

Delegates To IODE Annual Agree To Establish Scholarship For Arts

Wanda Wyatt of Summerside was re-elected provincial president of the IODE at the provincial chapter's third annual meeting held on Saturday at the Charlottetown Hotel. A decision was also made at Saturday's meeting to set up in connection with the national chapter of the IODE a scholarship for an island student wishing to continue his or her studies in the field of music, arts or drama as the IODE's project to commemorate Canada's 100th birthday in 1967.

It is also hoped that the IODE will be able to do some work in the field of art extension as a 1967 project. The recommendation to set up the scholarship came from the approximately 50 delegates attending Saturday's meeting.

The meeting which got underway Saturday morning, was chaired by the president, Miss Wyatt, and as part of the opening ceremonies members observed a minute's silence in tribute to members of the Order who had died during the past year.

Resolution of loyalty to The Queen, the Governor General and the Lieutenant Governor were read by Miss Wyatt, Mrs. E. M. Phillips, the first vice-president, and Mrs. A. H. Roper, second vice-president.

PRESIDENT REPORTS
The highlight of the morning session was the president's address, when Miss Wyatt noted that while the provincial chapter was still quite young, it had made tremendous progress and that the annual meeting was becoming a place to enjoy fellowship within the order and to make new friends.

She noted that the IODE was an organization of women united together for the betterment of the country. Commenting on Centennial year Miss Wyatt compared the reception given the Queen here to that she received in Quebec and said that the opening of the Confederation Center would mark the start of a cultural awakening in the province.

She told primary chapter members that they provided the base of the pyramid on which IODE functions and she urged that they continue to give their full support to the order so that the "pyramid" might remain strong. She said that each individual member counts and said that each member must work with spirit and be willing to accept responsibility. Spirit is the dominate factor, in all life, she said.

Miss Wyatt concluded her brief address by telling members "we must be ready to meet the challenge of the hour". During the morning session reports were presented by Mrs. J. T. Davies, secretary for the provincial executive committee; Mrs. E. C. MacKay, treasurer; Mrs. J. K. Ellis, standard bearer; Mrs. Ron Clark, services; and Mrs. William Brehaut, immigration and citizenship.

In her report Mrs. Davies outlined for the members the activities of the provincial chapter during the past year, taking particular note of the float entered in parades in Summerside and Charlottetown last summer, of the visit last fall of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth, of the presentation of a life membership to Mrs. B. Earle MacDonalld who had served as the first provincial president and of other events during the year.

In the services report Mrs. Clark told members that the eight IODE chapters in the province had spent $3,102 on various types of service work during the past year. This Mrs. Clark said represented an increase of $912 over 1963.

HOSPITAL SUPPORT
She noted that Summerside chapter had actively supported the Prince County Hospital by purchasing needed equipment and that Charlottetown chapters had given about 1,500 articles of clothing to local welfare bureaux and agencies.

Chapters also distributed food to needy families at Christmas and a great deal of help was given overseas, in help to veterans and two large shipments of clothing to the British Save the Children's Fund.

IODÉ members also entertained patients and distributed treats, or helped in other ways at Beach Grove Inn, the Provincial Sanatorium; the Cerebral Palsy Center; the Protestant Children's Home, the Provincial Infirmary; Sunset Lodge and other institutions throughout the province.

Moncrieff Williamson curator of the Confederation Center Art Gallery and Museum, was the guest speaker at the noon luncheon. Mr. Williamson told members about plans for the Center's program and stressed the importance of the support of island citizens for the Center. He noted that it would be extremely important for the 1965 summer festival to be well received as people are still watching with a great deal of interest to see if the Center is going to work.

Other guests at the luncheon included Lt. Governor W. J. MacDonald and Mrs. MacDonalld; Premier W.R. Shaw and Mrs. Shaw and Mayor Walter Cox and Mrs. Cox.

During the luncheon Premier Shaw on behalf of the provincial chapter, presented Mrs. D.K. McKenney of the Lady's Slipper Chapter with an award the chapter had won having the winning entry in a provincial scrapbook competition. The judges for the competition were Mrs. J.A. MacMillan, Mrs. Smallman and Mrs. Merrill MacLean.

The afternoon session heard from the organizing secretary, Mrs. H. Love; public relations, Mrs. J.A. Bond; Echoes, Mrs. Bond for Mrs. Wilfred Farrell; education and war memorial, Miss M. Stewart and world affairs, Mrs. W. Walker.

In the education secretary's report, Miss Stewart reported that a great deal of work had been done by the chapter in the field of education. A number of scholarships and bursaries were given; school prizes donated; schools assisted and special educational institutions such as the Cerebral Palsy Center and the Retarded Adult Workshop assisted. A vote of thanks was extended to the many people who had helped the order during the past year by Mrs. D.K. McKenney. Officers elected at the meeting included: president, Miss Wyatt; first vice-president, Mrs. E.M. Phillips; second vice-president, Mrs. A.H. Roper; secretary, Mrs. J.T. Davies; treasurer, Mrs. E.C. MacKay; organizing secretary, Mrs. A.H. Love; education secretary, Mrs. A.W. Gaudet; assistant education Mrs. William Meggison; standard bearer, Mrs. Sheila MacAlear; services at home and abroad, Mrs. L.A. MacDonalld; Echo's secretary, Mrs. Stewart MacKay; public relations, Mrs. J.A. Bond.
