...but this Butler building IS within your price range!

A few years ago, a metal building of this quality was beyond the price range of most buyers. Such quality was available only through costly, custom fabrication. Today, through pre-engineering and mass-production, Butler has placed it within your means. Butler metal buildings are a new concept in construction that is upsetting traditional, expensive notions of how a building should be built... what a building really is... and what it should do. Here are just a few of the unique Butler advantages—erected weeks ahead of traditional construction... unmatched for strength... heated or air-conditioned more efficiently than traditional buildings... low-cost expandability... fire-safe... post-free interiors for maximum floor space... custom-designed appearance... maintenance costs almost nil. AND YOU CAN AFFORD IT. If you're planning a factory, warehouse or any kind of a commercial building, large or small, now or in the future, call us.

We offer a complete construction service using the famous Butler Building System
