Words for the World

The Baha'i message is a call to religious unity and not an invitation to a new religion, not a new path to immortality, God forbid! It is the ancient path cleared of a debris of imaginations and superstitions of men, of the debris of strife and misunderstanding and is again made a clear path to the sincere seeker, that he may enter therein in assurance, and find that the Word of God is one word, though the speakers were many.

Lavers, P.M.; Mrs. Clarence Walker, A.M.; Mrs. Earle Lavers, P.M. and Grand Representative of the Grand Chapter of O.E.S. of Wyoming in Nova Scotia.

BOOSTING P. E. I.—"Leisurely Motoring on Prince Edward Island" is the title of an attractive article in the New York Sunday Times of June 13, describing the tourist charms of this Province. Written by Walter Fletcher, it emphasizes the advantage of "interesting travel at low rates" and gives full information to the prospective visitor. Summer tourists, it states, are now making up for their past oversight in neglecting this part of Canada, and are coming here in increasing numbers. Among the points made is that since the Province is not much larger than Long Island, a motorist can cover its main sights in a few days.

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. Leanna E. Smith Johnston's River, had as their guests recently, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Smith and three children, Ada, Patricia and Bud.

The many friends of Cpl. Donald S. Davis, Montague, are pleased to learn that he is progressing favorably after his operation in the Prince Edward Island Hospital.

Miss Joyce Warren of The Bureau of Statistics, Ottawa, returned by plane last Saturday morning, after spending her holidays at her home in North Rustico. During her holidays she was a guest at the marriage of her friends, Miss Jean Hiscott and Mr. Harland Uye, which took place at Moncton, on June 8.

IN MEMORIAM

In fond and loving memory of Garfield MacDonald, who was drowned on June 27th, 1953.

He little thought when leaving home, He would no more return, That he in death so soon would sleep, And leave us here to mourn.

Sheltered on the rock of ages, Anchored on the Golden Shore, In the loving arms of Jesus, Rests our dear one evermore.

Lovingly Remembered by Mom, Dad, Brothers and Sisters.

Card of Thanks

I wish to express my deep appreciation to the skillful and careful treatment rendered me by Dr. Seaman, nurses of the P. E. Island Hospital and Dr. Murchison of Hunter River during my operation and illness. Also to those who remembered me with cards, fruits and flowers and my kind neighbors and friends that helped out at my home, also a special thank you to Mrs. Harold Ford.

Mrs. Clayton Tremere, Hunter River, P. E. I.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of FRANK MACAULAY, who departed this life June 26, 1953.

Lovingly Remembered by his Wife and Family.

IN MEMORIAM

In fond and loving memory of our brother Walter N. Myers and his wife Beatrice, who departed this life May 13, 1953 and June 25, 1952.

It's lonesome here without you both And sad the weary way For life has never been the same Since you both went away. God gave us strength to fight it And courage to bear the blow. But what it meant to lose you both No one will ever know.

Lovingly remembered and sadly missed by sister Mae, brother-in-law Melville and family.

How to KEEP FIT after 50

In the old days fifty seemed the signal to slow down—take things easy—watch your diet—get more rest. It's still good advice. But these days you can face fifty with many interesting and active years ahead. —active, that is, if you can avoid backache and "tired-out" feeling, due to kidney and bladder disorders, that often develop around that age. For more than 60 years Dodd's Kidney Pills have been helping men and women of all ages to keep kidneys and bladder in good order,—helping them to feel better, to work better, and get more fun out of life. If you are approaching fifty, or past it, Dodd's Kidney Pills may help you, too. You can depend on Dodd's. 24

Irvine-Reid Wedding

Christ Church, Elbow Park, Calgary, Alberta was the setting for a wedding of far reaching interest May 22 when Marion Mae, daughter of James W. Reid of Calgary, and the late Mrs. Reid became the bride of Donald Stuart Irvine, son of Mrs. Stuart Donald Irvine, and the late Mr. Irvine of Charlottetown, P.E.I. Bouquets of spring flowers, intermingled with apple blossoms, banked the church altar for the afternoon rites at which Canon W. H. Crump officiated.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. White tulle and nylon organza poised over tulle and crinoline created her bridal gown which featured a short-sleeved bodice of embroidered organza styled with portrait neckline and tucked cummerbund. Fullness of the eight-gore skirt was released at knee-length falling over crinoline from handkerchief points of tucked organza banded with embroidered organza. Her headpiece of embroidered organza held a finger-tip veil of applied illusion tulle and frilled net mits completed her attire.

She carried a white prayer book overlaid with a white orchid and stephanotis.

Identical in mode were the gowns of the senior bridal attendants, Mrs. Frank McMahon, Mrs. J. J. Seymour and Miss Diane L. Newcomb of Vancouver, cousin of the bride. Fashioned from nylon chiffon over tulle the gowns were floor-length styled with draped shoulderline on shirred bodices.

Mrs. McMahon and Mrs. Seymour wore frocks in apple blossom pink hue while Miss Newcomb's frock was in apple green shade. Nylon gloves to match their frocks and headpieces of apple blossoms completed their ensembles. They carried bouquets of iris and Sweetheart roses. Gail Keir was flower girl frocked in apple blossom pink nylon chiffon dotted with apple blossoms and sashed with velvet ribbon.

Mr. Michael Reddin was groomsmen and ushers were Jack Brown, Gordon McMillan and Ian Crawford.

Mr. K. A. MacLure played the wedding music and soloist was Mrs. Leonard F. Werry.

Bouquets of carnations and apple blossoms decorated the lounge of the Glencoe Club for the wedding reception attended by 140 guests. Guests were received by the bride's father and the latter's sister, Mrs. C. D. Newcomb of Vancouver. The groom's mother, Mrs. Stuart D. Irvine of Charlottetown, assisted the bridal couple and their attendants in the receiving line.

Maurice L. Brown was toastmaster and G. P. Powles proposed the toast to the bride. Michael Reddin gave a toast to the bride's attendants.

Mr. and Mrs. Irvine left by motor for Las Vegas, Nev., Los Angeles, Calif., and Vancouver on their wedding trip. On their return they will reside at 2440 14th St. W. To travel the bride wore a custom-tailored suit of imported English worsted in blue haze shade complemented with hat of honey beige straw and accessories in matching tone.

Thoughts For Our Time

By His Eminence Cardinal McGuigan (Copyright)

THE CENTRAL POINT

According to a report in a recent issue of a national magazine, the Crucifixion of Christ was, in the opinion of leading American educators and professional men, the thirteenth most important event of all human history!

First place in the survey went to the discovery of America, a choice which might make one recall the topic once debated at Oxford. Resolved: That Columbus went too far.

Behind Columbus in the survey came Gutenberg and the invention of printing. In its thirteenth place, the Crucifixion was tied with such history-shaping happenings as the adoption of the American Constitution, the first use of ether in a surgical operation, the invention of x-rays, and the first flight of the Wright brothers.

This strange uniting of events might give us food for a profitable meditation. The Constitution of the United States is no doubt a valued and momentous document which has, since it was first adopted, guided and inspired many millions to a better life. In this it might be thought to be something like a reflection of the act by which Christ snatched from His Father's hand the scroll of our condemnation and won redemption for us, that we might have life and have it more abundantly.

The use of ether and the x-ray were great victories in man's war against suffering. But the most important victory in this war was won by the Man who, in the midst of the most fearful suffering ever endured, was offered a drink intended to lessen the pain and, when He had tasted it, would not drink it.

The first flight opened a new era of speed and comfort as well as of destruction and sudden death, unknown to previous times. The air age has shortened distances and, in the sense of physical closeness at least, has drawn the world together. In this it may remind us of Him Who, when He was lifted up, drew all things to Himself.

There are likenesses, but surely it is clear that the Constitution was not so important to history as the New Testament; that the sleep and awaking of the patient under ether are not on the same level as the Death and Resurrection of Christ; that the spear of the centurion opened that Heart to us more fully than any x-ray; that Kitty Hawk is not as high as Calvary.

And surely it is clear that similar things could be said of every conceivable event of history. Gutenberg would be the first to admit that the fact that his Bible was printed, was not really as important as the fact that it was true. Columbus stumbled on an unknown land and opened a new world; Christ, with full knowledge, took a more hazardous journey and opened the Gates of Heaven.

Even the non-Christian must admit, unless he deliberately shuts his eyes to the clear lesson of history, that no other event has affected so intimately the lives of so many people as has the Crucifixion of Christ. Even on this natural level of judgment, it far surpasses the work of any other man. When this is not seen it points to the narrowest parochialism in the one who does not see. The results of this survey must be said to indicate a frightening narrowing of the mental horizons of many of our most educated men.

There may, however, be another explanation of the strange listing. Many of those covered in the survey may have been quite convinced of the preeminent importance of the Passion, and for that very reason omitted it entirely from their list. After all, if we place it first, what shall we put second? Let us suppose that we were to choose... though we do not really think that we would... the discovery of America. Does it really mean anything to put Christ first and Columbus second? If it is not blasphemous, it is at least ridiculous, for the two events are not on the same level at all.

Christ's death is the central point of history, but it is more than that. It gives meaning to all other events, but it does more than that. In its ultimate significance it fulfills the purpose of creation by giving perfect honor and glory to God in the same act by which it redeems us and enables us to play the part in this purpose which God wanted us to play from the beginning, rather than the infinitely lower part we had chosen by our sin. Even to place it first on any list would be to lessen it too much. To have it placed thirteenth is simply fantastic.

There are likenesses, but surely it is clear that the Constitution was not so important to history as the New Testament; that the sleep and awaking of the patient under ether are not on the same level as the Death and Resurrection of Christ; that the spear of the centurion opened that Heart to us more fully than any x-ray; that Kitty Hawk is not as high as Calvary.

And surely it is clear that similar things could be said of every conceivable event of history. Gutenberg would be the first to admit that the fact that his Bible was printed, was not really as important as the fact that it was
