THE DAILY EXAMINER.

MAY 18, 1895.

THE QUEEN'S BIRTHDAY.

THE muddle that was imminent in respect to the Queen's birthday has been averted by the timely action of the Mayor. If the first arrangement had been adhered to, the officials of the Government and the banks, our teachers and scholars and many others would have had their holiday on Friday next, while the clerks in our stores would have had theirs on the following Monday. The result would inevitably have been discontent and confusion. Fortunately the error was seen in time. A change has been made in respect to the market which will be held on Saturday instead of on Friday; and all will together celebrate the birthday of Her Most Gracious Majesty on Friday, the 24th day of May.

THE NEWFOUNDLAND NEGOTIATION.

THE failure of the effort recently made to conclude a bargain between Canada and Newfoundland, is to be regretted by the people of both countries; for it is evident that a union upon fair terms would be mutually beneficial. The terms offered by Canada were, according to the telegraphic reports, substantially these:—Canada to assume $10,350,000 of the total debt of Newfoundland, which is about $15,000,000; Canada to pay to Newfoundland yearly a subsidy of about $500,000; Canada to maintain all that class of services in Newfoundland which fall under the head of general or Dominion services, such as governor's salary, customs, excise, savings banks, public works of a Dominion character, crown lands, administration of justice, post office, steamship services, marine and lighthouse, fisheries, penitentiaries, weights and measures and gas inspection, arts, agriculture and statistics, quarantine and immigration, insurance inspection and geological survey; Canada to maintain in regard to steamship services passenger and mail communication in at least as efficient a manner as at present, as follows: between the mainland and Newfoundland, between Newfoundland and Great Britain, and the costal steamship services east and west between Labrador and Newfoundland; Canada to grant annually, in lieu of the expenditure for militia in Newfoundland until such time as parliament may deem it necessary to introduce a more general militia system, $40,000 towards the maintenance of a police constabulary to consist of ——— number of men and to be as to efficiency, equipment and discipline, up to standards approved by the minister of militia,—this force to be at the disposal of the Dominion Government for use anywhere in Canada in cases of general or serious emergency. Canada to permit the fishermen of Newfoundland to participate equally with those of Canada in any bounties to fishermen which may be granted by the general government at any time;

Canada to take at a fair valuation, the SS. Peoria, now in use by the government of Newfoundland for fishery services; Canada to give Newfoundland four representatives in the Senate and ten representatives in the House of Commons. On the other hand, Newfoundland to give up her customs and post office revenues, and come into the great confederation of British Provinces in North America.

The Government of Newfoundland has rejected these terms, and insists upon the assumption by Canada of the entire debt of the Island, amounting to $15,000,000, and the completion of the Island railway as a public work, the estimated cost being about $5,000,000.

No one will blame the Newfoundlanders fer standing out for better terms. They are, indeed, practically compelled to drive a hard bargain with Canada. Newfoundland would be in a bad position if, upon entering the Confederation, the new province were left with a debt upon its hands of $4,000,000 or $5,000,000. But it would be manifestly unfair to the older provinces of Canada to accord to Newfoundland terms considerably better than those upon which they entered the union; and the people of Canada would not fail to visit the Canadian Government with their displeasure if this were done.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

—Montreal Gazette: It takes sixteen pages of the Detroit papers to contain the list of city lands to be sold for taxes. If a Canadian city would show up with a record like that Sir Richard Cartwright would actually laugh with glee.

—Boston Standard: The frost of night before last is said to have killed all the buds in the vineyards along the Hudson. This means that the price of table grapes will be high next season; and fewer people will smack their lips over the delicious Concord.

—It is curious to note that each of the three chief officers of the Royal Society of Canada is a native of the Maritime Provinces. The President (Dr. Bourinot) is a native of Cape Breton; the Vice President (Archbishop O'Brien) belongs to Prince Edward Island; and the Secretary, Dr. George Stewart, was born in New Brunswick. In literature and art, as well as in politics, the Maritime Provinces are represented by first-class men.

—Evening Mail: "Seeing that within the period from 1874 to 1894 there was an unfortunate space of grit misrule of five years, when Canadian industry and trade were so starved and killed by the vicious fiscal policy of the grits, that our total foreign trade fell from $217,000,000 in 1874 to $153,000,000, in 1879, we, in common with the people of this country generally, think it highly satisfactory that 1879 to 1893 and 1894, our foreign trade, under the National Policy, should have increased in value from $153,000,000 in the former year to $241,000,000 and upwards in he latter year, and that, too, notwithstanding the great falling off in prices in most stable commodities. It is such a progressive showing as no free trade country that the Chronicle can mention has equalled in the same period. It is such a progressive showing as no other country in the world has equalled in the same period."

ADDRESS TO THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS.

At Summerside, on Friday, at the conclusion of the second series of Judge Hodgson's law lectures, the following address was presented to him by the students:

To the Honorable E. J. Hodgson, L. L. D, Master of the Rolls:

SIR,—This is probably the last of this season's lectures that we are to have from you this season, and though nothing that we can say or do can adequately convey to you our estimate of the great value of these lectures to us, yet we feel that we ought not let the opportunity pass of simply and honestly telling you our appreciation of the kindly consideration and goodness of the man who has, at such great inconvenience to himself, put us within reach of receiving the benefits of these lectures. All other means of expressing our gratitude are denied to us,—surely this, the feeling of our hearts, honestly and truly spoken, cannot be objectionable. The value of these lectures to us lies not so much in what we have directly learned of the leading principles of the Law of Sales as in showing us how properly to approach the study of the subject and how, through the forest of seemingly conflicting cases, to project great lines with which to test the quality of every legal dictum and decision that may arise. You have also taught us to see the substratum of justice and equity that lies at the root of all law. And not the least benefit we have to acknowledge is the effect of personal contact with a man prodigal of self, generous in his treatment of others while delicately sensetive as to their personal feelings, and upon whose buoyant and youthful enthusiasm passing years seem to have no influence.

And for all this the only return you will consent to accept is the assurance that your labor benefits, and that by your influence and example we may be helped to become worthy members of the profession of which you have, for so many years, been such a distinguished ornament. There is one return, however, which you cannot, even if you wished, refuse to accept, namely, the loyalty and affection that self-denial like yours necessarily inspires. This with the earnest wish that you may be long spared to adorn the honorable position that you now occupy, is the expression of our feeling to you. Signed on behalf of the students:

NEIL MCLEOD,
W. J. O'DONNELL,
ALBERT C. SAUNDERS,
R. SINCLAIR,
J. H. G. ARBUCKLE.

The Master of the Rolls suitably replied, and thus closed a most successful series of lectures. They were held every day during the week—three sessions a day of two hours—six hours a day; and not one student was absent or late during the whole course.

WEST ROYALTY NOTES.

Spring has gone and summer is here. To those with an eye for the beauties of nature this place is, during the summer months a perfect paradise. Nature fair and loving nymph, appears to have a special regard for the Royalty since she clothes it in a beautiful green much earlier than other places.

Farming and gardening are all the rage at present. Our wide-awake and popular gardeners, Messrs. McKinnon, Burke and Smith, are well to the fore with their respective gardens, and all of our farmers have commenced spring operations.

We are glad to see our old friend, Mr. George Cameron, of Birch Hill, back again amongst us. He is looking hale and hearty, and intends spending most of his vacation in the Royalty. Mr. Cameron is one of our most successful teachers, and is a son of whom the Royalty should feel proud.

Our school closed on the 10th inst., for the three week's spring vacation. The attendance and the work done during the winter were exceedingly good. Mr. Bell is an energetic teacher.

Mr. John Cameron rejoices in the possession of nine splendidly-hatched goslins. These spring visitors arrived exceedingly early. Mr. Cameron is a thorough poultry man, and takes great interest in the feathered tribe.

Our genial and erudite friend, Mr. Alex. McKinnon, has sold one of his flyers for a handsome sum.

We spent a very pleasant half hour the other day at the pumping station, through which we were shown by the obliging and efficient engineer of that institution. Mr. McDonald is a careful and capable officer, and has made many friends in the Royalty.

Our division is growing apace, and is in a flourishing and healthful condition.

We are informed that our friend, Mr. Daniel McKenzie, late of the Royalty, arrived safely at Cape Town, after a voyage of 21 days from Southampton. He intended proceeding immediately to Joansburgh, his destination, which is eleven hundred miles in the interior.

GREAT STATES.

States are not great
Except as men may make them;
Men are not great except they do and dare;
But states, like men,
Have destinies that take them—
That bear them on, not knowing why or where.

The why repels
The philosophic searcher—
The why and where all questionings defy,
Until we find,
Far back in youthful nurture,
Prophetic facts that constitute the why.

All merit comes
From braving the unequal;
All glory comes from daring to begin.
Fame loves the state
That reckless of the sequel
Fights long and well, whether it lose or win.

SPECIAL DESPATCHES TO THE EXAMINER

State Aid in Newfoundland.

LONDON, May 18.

In the House of Commons yesterday Sir Charles Dilke asked how long persons were to be employed upon relief works in Newfoundland at the expense of the English taxpayers, and how long the Commissioner will be retained there to give state aid to the unemployed, which was refused to the workingmen of England. The Under Colonial Secretary replied that the Government expected that the necessity for such work would cease at the end of the present month, and the duties of the Commissioner would then cease.

Royal Society of Canada.

OTTAWA, May 18.

The officers of the Royal Society were elected as follows: President, Dr. J. G. Bourinot; Vice President, the Right Rev. Dr. O'Brien, Archbishop of Halifax; Secretary, Dr. George Stewart, of Quebec.

Archbishop William's Jubilee.

BOSTON, May 18.

A testimonial presented to Archbishop Williams by the clergy and laity of the diocese was a check for $50,000, or $1,000 for each year of his priesthood.

The occasion of the presentation was the celebration of the golden jubilee of His Grace Archbishop Williams. The celebration began on Thursday with services in the Cathedral of the Holy Cross. The procession which preceded the Mass was made up of the sanctuary choir of one hundred members, altar boys and acolytes, representatives of the Augustinian and Dominican orders, one hundred and fifty seminarians from St. John's Seminary, over four hundred priests, the archbishops and Mgr. Satolli and Cardinal Gibbons.

The sermon of the day was preached by Right Rev. D. M. Bradley, Bishop of Manchester, N. H. who spoke eloquently of the life work of the archbishop, dealing with his labors as "Boston's parish priest."

In the evening the great banquet, complimentary to Archbishop Williams, by the clergy of the diocese, was held at Music Hall. The banquet hall was densely crowded, as the cathedral was during the morning exercises. Tables were spread for 1,000, the galleries were filled with those who had come to listen to the addresses and look upon the chief recipient of honor, Archbishop Williams, and the other dignitaries present. The hall was a bower of beauty, the tables being handsomely decorated with choice cut flowers, while the walls and ceilings were covered with bunting, interspersed with American flags and draperies. When Archbishop Williams arrived a roar of applause burst from the audience which lasted for fully five minutes.

After the banquet Fanther Ronan, of St. Peter's church, Dorchester, who acted as toast-master, opened the exercises with a brief address, ending with the introduction of Rev. Thomas Magennis, who gave the address for the clergy. Hon. Thomas Fitzpatrick followed, responding for the laity of the Catholic church. Archbishop Williams responded appropriately to the addresses of the representatives of the clergy and laity. The other speakers were Mgr. Satolli, Cardinal Gibbons, Governor Green and Ald. Green.

The celebration was continued on Friday, beginning with religious services in the morning. In the afternoon a visit was made to the various Catholic institutions in the city.

—President Schurman of Cornell has an article in the May Forum on "The Rebound from Agnosticism," being in form a review of Mr. Balfour's new book, "The Foundations of Belief." President Schurman believes that Agnosticism, far from being the outcome of modern science and thought, is itself capable of a reasoned refutation. This he has undertaken in his article on "Agnosticism," in the May number of the Philosophical Review. President Schurman is in demand as a public speaker. He recently gave the Patron's Day address at Colgate University, his subject being "The Modern Gospel of Socalism."
