WINTER COMMUNICATION.

The recent stoppage of the mails has not been made a subject of complaint on the part of the public. It is true that the Patriot attacked the Government on account of it. But everyone understood that the attack was made rather because the Patriot is the organ of the Opposition than because anything had been left undone that could reasonably have been expected to be done under the circumstances.

"Dear Mr. Ferguson: I am in receipt of your letter to-day having reference to the interruption in the mails between P. E. I. and the mainland, and I have to assure you that with regard to the part of the work depending on my own Department that the boats and men at the Capes are always ready to carry the mails as soon as forwarded by the Post Office Department."

"The Agent of this Department in Charlottetown has authority to start the boats at the Capes as soon as he has had notice from the Post Office Inspector and Postmaster that the mails have been ordered to the Capes, so that there should be no delay whatever on the part of this Department. It requires no authority from this Department to our Agent to act promptly."

"The Agent of this Department in Charlottetown has authority to act independently and at once in an emergency such as that which recently occurred. This is as it should be. We sincerely hope that these gentlemen will act in harmony and with energy; and that nothing that can be foreseen, avoided or done will prevent that prompt and continuous transmission of the mails which is demanded by the people as a right guaranteed under the terms of Confederation and which is desired by the Government."

"At the same time it will be well for the Government to consider the question whether or not the conditions upon which our communications are maintained cannot be improved. There is a growing feeling among the people here that we ought, in the near future, to have a steam ferry at the Capes. If there had been at the Capes a stout, strong steamer of light draught, there would have been no delay of the mails this year, except, perhaps, upon the day or two on which it was stormy; and as this year so it is in nine years out of ten. All that is now needed to the establishment of a ferry at the Capes—wharf railways having been built and wharf accommodation provided at Cape Tormentine—is a sufficient depth of water at the Cape Traverse. Surely our engineers have sufficient ingenuity and ability to overcome the difficulty incident to shifting sands. If so, we think that the Government will act justly towards P. E. Island if they adopt such measures as are necessary to that end, in order that a good strong steamer may ply at the Capes."

"We are in receipt of Mr. Ewart's reply to Mr. Wade on the Manitoba School Question, upon the title page of which are the following weighty words of Lord Salisbury: 'Numbers of persons have invented what I may call a patent compressible religion, which can be forced into all consciences with a very little squeezing, and they wish to insist that this should be the only religion taught throughout the schools of the nation. What I want to impress upon you is that, if you admit this conception, you are entering upon a religious war of which you will not see the end. There is only one sound principle in religious education to which you should cling, which you should relentlessly enforce against all the conveniences and expediences of official men, and that is, that a parent, unless he has forfeited the right by criminal acts, has the inalienable right to determine the teaching which the child shall receive upon the highest and most momentous of subjects. This is a right which no expediency can negative, which no state necessity ought to allow you to sweep away; and, therefore, I ask you to give your attention to this question of denominational education. It is full of danger and of difficulty, but you will only meet the danger by marching straight up to it and declaring that the prerogative of the parent, unless he be convicted of criminality, must not be taken away by the state.'"

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

—Tomorrow is election day in Cape Breton County. The election in Northumberland will take place on Thursday next. —Mail and Empire: "In spite of everything that Uncle Sam may say, Lord Salisbury will be greater than James Monroe dead."

—Sir Richard Cartwright's characterization of the Nova Scotia as a shired or patch of Dominion, and a wet nurse of bootlers will not soon be forgotten. —We have received from Messrs. A. & S. Nordheimer, Toronto, the songs of "The Southern Maiden," by Albert Nordheimer. Written in a moderate compass, with a pretty melody, it is destined to become one of the popular Canadian songs of the day.

—The Woodstock Times, which is a Liberal paper, thinks the Liberals would sooner sit under Sir Richard Cartwright than let the Hon. John A. Macdonald, ornate statesman known as Hon. Wilfred Laurier, much longer. Not a contented family!

—Mr. Craigdrovatz in Summerside in the midst of the storm in order that he might be certain to make good his engagement for Charlottetown and Cardigan. We hope that the meeting to be held in Philadelphia to-morrow afternoon will be largely attended by farmers and fruit-growers in the vicinity of Charlottetown.

—The United States Congress is passing a resolution calling upon Great Britain, Germany, Austria, Italy and Russia to interfere with the persecution of the Armenians in Turkey. The Hon. John A. Macdonald, who has entered into generous competition with the Yankee who was willing to sacrifice all his wife's relations in the war.

—The Review of Reviews for February says: "Perhaps no man in the country has expressed himself in a more statesmanlike fashion in support of the American view of the issues involved in the Venezuelan dispute than President Schurman, of Cornell, although born under the British flag." Albert, President Schurman shows clearly that the Monroe Doctrine does not apply to the case, and that President Cleveland missed a capital opportunity and was guilty of a diplomatic blunder.

—St. John Sun: Mr. M. C. Cameron was elected for West Huron in opposition to the government in 1891 by a majority of nearly four hundred. A few days ago he was again elected but by a majority less than two hundred. The late Mr. Simard was elected in Charlottetown in 1891 in opposition to the government by a majority of over three hundred. On Monday of this week Mr. Angers of the same party was elected by about half that majority. These are among the great victories they tell about.

—L'Electeur de Quebec, says: "If the government settles the school question to the satisfaction of the bishops, it will only do its duty, as the liberals would have done in the same place, with this difference that the liberals would have done it five years ago." The opposition organ concludes a discussion on the school question by saying: "Not the province of Quebec has decided to upset the Orange machine, and to install in its place our eminent compatriot and co-religionist, Mr. Laurier, and there is no power in the world to-day capable of preventing it."

—Collier's Weekly, of New York, in its last issue, says: "If those three-looking warships that England has stationed in American waters should let slip their modern machinery, it would be a serious matter for both the United States and Great Britain, to be used in such bad business as actual war. The question is: 'Are they ships of a friend or of an enemy?'"

—The only inference to be drawn from the Patriot's long article of Saturday is that, in accordance with Free Trade principle and tariff for revenue only, it would have all raw materials imported for manufacture in Canada taxed. As for the Patriot's argument concerning the effect of duties imposed upon imported manufactured goods the like of which is produced in Canada, we are obliged to point to the precedents low prices at which such goods are now offered in our stores. Really the Patriot ought to apologize for its scandalous perversion of the figures found in the Trade and Navigation returns. A few lines to that intent would be better than long columns published to cover up the unfairness which has been exposed.

—Commenting upon the Charlottetown election and the fact that the Liberal majority was, in the recent bye-election, cut down more than a half, the correspondent of the Montreal Gazette says: "Mr. Cimon, the Conservative candidate, had his chances badly damaged by the publication of letters he indiscreetly wrote last year denouncing the Government. Mr. Angers' acceptance of the nomination of Mgr. Labrecque's pastoral kept his party together, and Mr. Cimon was further handicapped by the late crisis at Ottawa, and particularly by the canal so industriously spread in the city. Mr. Cimon, on Sunday, to the effect that the French representatives in the Cabinet had resigned. Mr. Cimon's candidature was also decided upon at the last moment, on Monday evening. Taking all these facts into consideration, the party leaders are quite positive, to-night, that in the coming general election, Charlottetown will once more be found in the Conservative column."

—Mrs. Jarley.—We have great pleasure in forming the public that if the Stanley should continue to make regular trips during the month, Mrs. Jarley and her magnificent staff will again appear in Charlottetown, and be on exhibition on Monday evening, Feb. 17th. Mrs. Jarley's show is unrivalled; it is elevating as well as entertaining, effecting the risible, national and intellectual faculties. Since her appearance in this city Mrs. J. has travelled extensively, making many valuable additions to her former collection. Mrs. Jarley will exhibit her far famed automata, in the hand of the rising sun, consequently this will be positively her last appearance in the "Garden of the Gulf."

Jarley comes as a boon And a blessing to men; If you've only been once, Why, you must go again.

WHEN WORK FITS WOMAN.

Elevate Domestic Service and Check the Mad Rush of Girls for Business Life. Edward W. Bok in February Ladies' Home Journal, considers editorially "When Work Fits Woman," a text under which he enters emphatic and vigorous protest against the mad rush of women to seek employment in mercantile and manufacturing establishments. The article is evidently inspired by the recent publication of one of the largest employers of women in Pennsylvania, who, in raising his voice against this evil, asserts "that more wrong has been done to thousands of girls who have gone into our commercial houses than the world dreams of" and urges young women who are seeking positions to engage as domestics where they are safe from danger, and their surroundings will be elevating and congenial, and in a field which greatly exceeds them Mr. Bok emphasizes these utterances and goes farther, saying: "The fact cannot be disputed that no single factor in modern life is doing so much to degenerate our young womanhood as this mad race on the part of girls, impelled by necessity or not, to go into the business world. These may sound like strong words to the ears of some, but to those who are really cognizant of the immensity of the evil results that are being wrought they will simply fit the case and not go beyond it. In altogether too many of our commercial and industrial establishments, stores and factories, the hands are given the power to employ and control girls are not fit, from a moral standpoint, to herd swine. And yet thousands of our young women are allowed to go from their homes to work under the influence of these men and in the atmosphere vitiated by them. And why? Simply because it is considered more 'respectable' to be employed in an office, store or factory than to be engaged in domestic service. The very word 'servant' has a taint about it that the majority of young women dislike, and from which they flee. But what else are they in business establishments than servants, pure and simple? There can be no difference but an imaginary one. That is all. Far less leniency is shown in our business houses to women employees than is shown, as a rule, in our homes to domestic help—finally Mr. Bok further argues that if the mistress would seek to elevate domestic work, to treat servants with greater consideration, and to have the daughters of the family show some active interest in household work, better, more intelligent and more reliable women would be attracted to the kitchens of our homes, and the destructive rush of young girls to modern cities, counting houses and factories, would be largely checked, and a modern evil to a great extent curtailed."

A PREFERENTIAL TRADE ARGUMENT. (Montreal Gazette) In Venezuela a prize has been given to the originator of an anti-British motto, which the newspapers of that republic are to display in their columns for the next few months. It reads:—

WHOMEVER BUYS ENGLISH PRODUCTS INCREASES THE POWER OF GREAT BRITAIN.

Great Britain's enemies have learned a lesson that her own people have hardly yet appreciated the meaning of. The political and commercial stability of the United Kingdom depends on its maintaining its hold on the markets of the world. Its domestic progress can only be augmented if its foreign commerce continues to expand. Its position in the world is like that of a rich city in the centre of a great country. It does not, within its own borders, produce enough food to keep its people alive. It produces manufactures to a much greater extent than its own people consume. It can only hope to exist by maintaining a constant interchange of the products of its industries for the superabundance of the foodstuffs and the raw materials of other lands. So, whoever buys English products, gives employment to English capital and English workpeople, and so increases the power of Great Britain. There is also, beside a Great Britain, a Greater Britain, as it has been called, in prospect as yet more than in development, and whoever buys the products of this Greater Britain, also increases the power of Great Britain. If the ties that bind together the geographically separated Empire are as strong as they are, it seems, if they are strong enough to stand the strain that would be put upon them in the event of such another great struggle for existence as the United Kingdom went through in the beginning of the century, then whatever increases their power increases the strength of the Mother Land, and makes more sure the stability of the whole. Events of everyday occurrence show that this is being felt in many quarters, not only in Britain itself, but wherever British people have established themselves in self-governing communities. It may take time to bring about the action this should legitimately follow the learning of such a lesson, but that some such action may be taken in every year becoming more probable.

RUSSIA AND TURKEY.

LONDON, Jan. 30.—The Constantinople correspondent of the Times says that although no definite agreement exists for the immediate Russian occupation of Armenia it is certain that there is a private understanding between Russia and the Sultan, which gives the Sultan confidence in Russian friendship, and disposes him to conform to reason in matters of foreign policy.

DIED.

Sweetly fell asleep in Jesus, at Covehead, on the 2nd inst, after a short illness of inflammation of the lungs, Dorothy Higgins, beloved wife of Frank H. Auld, only sister of Mr. John Higgins of the city, aged 76 years, leaving a sorrowing husband and one son, Mr. David H. Auld, besides a large circle of friends and relatives, to mourn their loss. "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord."

Hear what the voice from Heaven proclaims, For all the pious dead; Sweet is the savour of their names, And soft their dying bed. (Funeral will take place on Tuesday, the 4th inst, at 2 o'clock, when friends and acquaintances are respectfully requested to attend.)

A QUESTION OF TITLES.

The Duchess of Malborough has no Title on the Continent. An entirely new view of the Malborough Vanderbilt match is presented from Paris in the startling announcement that on the continent the Duchess of Malborough will be nothing but Miss Vanderbilt. The assertion is based upon three facts: John Churchill, founder of the house of Malborough, was Prince of Mindtheim, in Sualia, a title conferred upon him by the Emperor of Germany. He always signed himself as Prince and Duke. His title as Duke was secondary, even in England, but on the continent it was unnoticed. There he was known as Prince. The Malboroughs ever since have been regarded on the continent as other princely families like the Hohenzollerns, the Leiningens, and the Schlesing-Holstein princes. Therefore according to continental ideas a Malborough cannot marry a commoner. Such marriages are looked upon in continental eyes as morganatic marriages. The Duke of Fife, Prince Henry of Battenberg and the Marquis of Lorne never visit even the most microscopic continental courts. They would not be permitted as the Royal Family of Germany. The German Emperor persistently refused to meet "Prince" Henry of Battenberg, the late husband of his cousin, Princess Beatrice, because he did not consider him a prince, and regarded her marriage as morganatic. The continental courts always treat English nobles who bear high continental titles, according to highest rank. The Earl of Perth, for example, is known all over the continent as "His Grace the Duc de Motfort," a French ducal title which he bears.

THE ITALIANS AND ABYSSINIANS. Advice from Rome announces that the Italian government has received advices from General Baratieri, commander-in-chief of the Italian forces in Abyssinia, stating that General Baratieri recently sent an Italian trader named Felter to the camp of Ras Makonnen, chief commander of the native army, which invested the town of Makalle, demanding the release of the Italian column under Colonel Galliano, which was besieged in Makalle. Felter was the messenger who arrived in General Baratieri's camp a few days ago bringing letters from Menelik, King of Abyssinia, for King Humbert and General Baratieri. It appears he was successful in his mission, for the troops at Makalle were permitted to withdraw from the town without being attacked. Col. Galliano and his column arrived safely at Gen. Baratieri's camp. They will reinforce the main body of Italians. They brought with them their cannon, ammunition and baggage. At the time Gen. Baratieri sent despatches to the government, the Abyssinian army was advancing and was within thirty kilometres of the outposts of the native army. A conflict between the Italian forces is imminent. The Italian forces number 28,000 men with sixty cannons. The Abyssinian army is estimated at 40,000 to 60,000 men, some thousands armed with spears. Other arms and weapons of precision, including Remington and Winchester rifles. The Abyssinians have a number of pieces of artillery, used in the attack on Hakolee. It is the opinion in Rome that an engagement that will decide whether the province of Tigre will be annexed to the Italian colony of Erythrea, will shortly be fought.

SPECIAL DESPATCHES TO THE EXAMINER.

Prospects in Cape Breton.

NORTH SYDNEY, C. B., Feb. 3. "There is nothing so uncertain as an election except a horse race," said Sir John Macdonald. "That is as true as anything can be in a general way, but as regards the great contest to be decided in Cape Breton within the next forty-eight hours, there is nothing more certain than the triumphant election of Sir Charles Tupper. The only element of uncertainty is the size of the Conservative majority in the election to-morrow."

A Most Foul Murder.

BOSTON, Feb. 3. Mrs. Sophia McLeod, about 20 years of age, who kept a lodging house on Brighton Street, Charlottetown, was found lying dead in the kitchen last night with three bullet wounds in her head and her head terribly bruised and cut as with an axe. There is no clue to the murderer. Mrs. Liza Quinlan, sister of the dead woman, has been arrested on suspicion.

Russia and Great Britain.

LONDON, Feb. 3. Negotiations between St. Petersburg and London point to Russia's intention to obtain the assent of Great Britain to the proposed twenty years' occupation by the former of six vilayets in Anatolia. It is understood that she is unwilling to assent to Great Britain permanently acquiring the island of Cyprus by purchase.
