

City Council Approves Welfare Agency Grants

Affirming that they would pay the Welfare Bureau the $4,000 for which they had budgeted, whether or not they received any help from outside sources, City Council last night approved an immediate interim payment of $1,000 to each of the City's relief agencies.

Passage of the motion authorizing this payment followed a discussion on this subject initiated by Councillor J. Arthur Gormley, who inquired what was being done to help the needy of the City.

"There should be some definite agreement in those matters," The Ward One representative declared.

Councillor Gaudet said that he had sent off a two page letter relative to this subject some time ago but had no reply. TALKS TO DEPUTY

In a subsequent conversation the Deputy Minister admitted that the Government had been able to collect from the Federal Government the full amount of the relief they provided the City following the signing of the 1956 agreement he said. Prior to that they were refunded only 40 per cent, Councillor Gaudet noted.

At a recent meeting of one of the Welfare agencies he had listened to a lot of "wistful-washy" talk respecting this matter, the chairman of the finance committee noted.

Councillor Gormley declared that there must have been "some misunderstanding" on this agreement observing that he could not understand why the Premier would make such a statement if it were not correct.

Councillor Gaudet assured him that the Council had "a record of these (Welfare Bureau) reports in black and white."

"It's not much use making an agreement with the Deputy Minister only to be scoffed at and told that Deputies don't count," he added.

SHOULD BE IN WRITING

Councillor William W. Boyles declared that it was his "firm conviction" that all such important agreements should be "in writing."
