THEY WANT DAMAGES.—A telegram received last evening states that John Ellworth and Edward Revens, who were among the injured by the recent accident on the Maine Central Railway, claim damages. They have already been made an offer to settle, but declined to accept it. They are receiving the best of care in the hospital. Both Ellworth and Revens were working on the railway at the time of the disaster.

THE MASTER ENJOYED IT.—It is related that many years ago, when Dr. Temple, the present bishop of London, was headmaster of Rugby, a boy in the school was accused of some peccadillo. He really had a good defence; but being neither clear-headed nor fluent, he could not present it to the headmaster. So he wrote it out in full to his father, asking him to present it. On reading the letter, the father thought the best thing would be to enclose the letter itself to Dr. Temple, merely asking him to overlook its contents. Apparently, however, he had not noticed a postscript which the boy had written, in which he made the following remark: "If I could explain, it would be all right; for, though Temple is a beast, he is a just beast." Contrary to what might be expected, Dr. Temple thoroughly enjoyed the postscript, and he and the boy afterward became fast friends.

POLICE COURT.—This morning one drunk was fined $1 or 4 days, and another $3 or 14 days. A case of disorderly conduct was disposed of for $1 without costs. A colored woman named Mary Mills appeared, charged with the larceny of four hens, the property of William Collyer. Mary, in answer to the charge, explained that she and the complainant (Collyer) were neighbors; that the latter's hens were in the habit of invading her kitchen; that on one occasion they actually walked over the table she had set for dinner, tampering with the articles thereon; and that one day, after she had tolerated the nuisance as long as she could, she picked up a fire shovel and with it killed two of the hens. After she killed the hens she sold them to a boy for twenty-five cents. This boy, it afterwards turned out, was an emissary of Collyer's, and it was with the latter's money that he bought the defunct hens. About the remaining two hens she knew nothing, and there was no evidence to show what became of them. His Honor ordered that Mrs. Mills should pay the prosecution $1, the value of the missing hens, and $2.90 costs.

SPECIAL DESPATCHES TO THE EXAMINER. EGGS TO ENGLAND.

Success of the First Shipment

Unlimited Accommodation in Steamers and an Unlimited Market.

Good Prospects for Next Year

MONTREAL, Oct. 13. George Wait, a large egg dealer here, sent his first shipment of eggs to the English market five weeks ago, consisting of 136 cases (30 dozen each), and to-day his returns show that the price netted is equal to the quotations in Boston and New York markets. This exporter has an order to-day to ship 200 cases more, and he declares that he will pay as much for eggs next year as he ever has done. England will take all the eggs Canada can forward.

OTTAWA, Oct. 13. Representatives of the Allen and Dominion Steamship lines assured the Government to-day that practically unlimited cold storage accommodation would be provided by them for the shipment of eggs and poultry to Britain.

A Distressing Shipwreck. SIXTEEN PERSONS LOST.

NEW GLASGOW, Oct. 13. One of the most distressing and heart-rending shipwrecks that has ever occurred on our coasts happened at Little Harbor last night, by which sixteen men lost their lives. The bark Melmerby, Captain Olsen and crew of twenty-two men set sail on Wednesday, Oct. 1st, from Quebec bound for Greenock, with a cargo of square lumber. On Sunday night, the 5th inst., they encountered a heavy gale, from which the ship sprung a leak, and there was soon six feet of water in the hold. The pumps were kept going all night, but the bark became waterlogged, drifted aft, and finally struck on the ledge near Ray's Island. The captain and fifteen of the men put off in a boat, but she swamped, and all but one were drowned. Subsequently two seamen swam ashore. Among the lost are the captain and the first and second mates. Four men still remain on the wreck. The bark may hold together to-night, but it is impossible to get to the men's rescue owing to the tremendous surf.

SOME TARIFF CHANGES. OTTAWA, Oct. 13. In view of the reduction of duties on certain kinds of sawed lumber from Canada offered conditionally by the McKinley Act the Government have resolved to abolish the export duty on spruce and pine logs, also on shingle bolts of pine and cedar logs capable of being made into shingle bolts. This will remove the injurious effect apprehended by Canadian lumbermen.
