The sympathy of a host of friends and acquaintances is being extended to Mrs. William Crockett of York and other immediate relatives on the death of their mother, Mrs. W. D. MacPherson of Orwell Cove. Mr. MacPherson predeceased her some years ago. Those who had the pleasure of knowing this lovable old lady will sorely miss her. Mrs. MacPherson spent a number of weeks as a patient in the Prince Edward Island Hospital prior to her death.

Heartfelt sympathy is being conveyed to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mobbs of Covehead Road, also to the following, Mrs. Lloyd Shaw of Stanhope, Mrs. Wallace Duck of Suffolk, Mrs. Robert Crockett of York, and Mrs. Jack Hardy of Pleasant Grove, in the loss of a brother and uncle in the death of Mr. James Thomas Mobbs of 57 Lake Street, Winchester, Mass., on Sunday December 28th. Mr. Mobbs, the deceased, was born on Covehead Road at the old homestead where the last surviving member of a large family, Mr. Fred Mobbs, still lives. He attended school at the little school located on their farm, and many elderly folk of York and vicinity have pleasant memories of school day association with the late James Mobbs.

Sightless Fanny Jane Crosby needed no eyes to be able to discern the beauties that in a circumscribed world and from her blacked out surroundings, she could picture stars and mist and purple dusk; hear heavenly melodies when none were played; see flowers that others could not see, or as William puts it: "The poet gathers fruit from every tree."

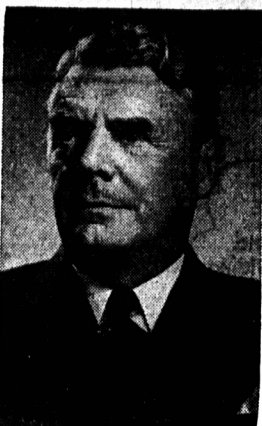

Yes, grapes from thorns and figs from thistles he. Plucked by his hand, the basest weed grows that grows."

This noble soul blind from infancy but aside her great handicap and released from her heart hymns that floated like fragrant flowers down the corridors of time.

They hymns of Fanny Crosby have a humbleness and sublimity that never fail to stir our hearts. Flattened and burned seven years ago, Hiroshima, Japan, is a going on today. When the atom bomb hit her on August 6, 1945, about half of the city's population of 340,000 persons were left dead or dying.

Strange But True

The first registered marriage between a Canadian and an Indian maid was performed at Quebec on the 3rd of November, 1844, when Martin Prevost and Man-tova-bewich became man and wife.

The first organ came to Canada in 1859. It was purchased by Bishop Laval with the Rev. Charles Martin and Louis Joliet acting as organists.

The use of organs in many churches was frowned upon up until comparatively recent times.

Generally speaking Canada is a young nation with no notably old buildings. However, there's an old stone structure still standing in Sillery, Quebec, which was built in 1639. This is a two-storied structure with a 60-foot street frontage. The oldest occupied dwelling in Prince Edward Island may be seen at New Wilshire.

The harmony which exists between Canada and the United States of America ought to set a good example for warring nations. As a result of these harmonious relations both nations have enjoyed a long period of peace and friendship.

According to statistics one out of every six government office workers is injured each year. They don't tell us the how of these injuries but one likes to visualize the boys feet slipping off their desks while napping.

The best bridge between despair and hope is a good night's sleep. Try it. You'll find it's true.

Traffic law violators who appear before Judge Sperling in New Orleans, may pay their fines with blood. It sounds like a good idea and might be used in other police courts to pep up blood banks.

Special occasions were originally eaten Japanese fashion and it was only in later times that the practice of eating from tables began. This was the custom in the days of Jesus. Before dining everyone washed his hands and grace was said before and after the meal. On special occasions guests were kissed.

The master of ceremonies was called the "governor of the feast". How large was Noah's ark? Let's compute a bit. 300 cubits long, 50 cubits wide, 30 cubits high. Allowing 21 inches for a cubit, the old ark was 525 feet long, 87 feet wide, 52 feet high.

The so-called butcher bird is in reality the red-backed strike. This bird kills its prey with its heavy-toothed beak, then impales it on a thorn to consume at leisure.

Jewel-pointed drills and bronze saws were used in building the pyramids, and the angle of the structures' bases is so perfect that present-day engineers are puzzled as to how they were measured.

Junior Red Cross Will Help

Nothing can comfort this walling Korean refugee, one of hundreds collected just behind the lines on the Western Front. For a good part of his life, this youngster has fled with his family up and down the peninsula with the tides of war. The free world faces a challenge today to help these children who are powerless to help themselves.

Already Junior Red Cross Members throughout Prince Edward Island are sponsoring Fund Raising activities in their schools, to support this appeal. This project is in addition to their yearly project of Crippled Children's Fund.

During the month of February the Canadian Junior Red Cross is launching an appeal throughout all schools of Canada for funds which will be used to purchase clothing, food, medical and school supplies for the children of Korea, India, Pakistan, and Indonesia. The 636 branches of the Junior Red Cross in P. E. I. are learning about these conditions and are doing what they can to help.

"Never since the sacking of Carthage has there been such destruction as in Korea." This statement was made recently by J. Donald Kingsley, chief of the United Nations Reconstruction Agency. The plight of 100,000 children, 50,000 of them war orphans, is a terrible one and — due to last summer's crop failure which was the worst in thirty years — thousands of them will die unless help arrives.

In Pakistan, 97% of the eighty million population is illiterate. Disease is rampant and a most concentrated effort is being made by that government to establish medical colleges and laboratories to enable the country eventually to handle this problem itself. The number of underprivileged, undernourished and orphaned children in Pakistan runs into hundreds of thousands. They are mostly refugee children from India and Kashmir and for the time being at least, they remain to a considerable extent the responsibility of charitable organizations.

Ten million Indians, half of them children, were victims of a devastating famine in the provinces of Bengal and Madras this past summer. Even the basic essentials of food and water are near-luxuries, and help is needed urgently.
