

Will Lecture Tonight On Russian Problem

Father Andrei Orousoff, S. J., lecturer in the Institute of Contemporary Russian Studies of Fordham University, New York, will arrive in this city this evening to deliver a public lecture at the St. Dunstan's University auditorium as part of his current speaking tour of various Universities in the Maritime Provinces. In his lecture, scheduled for eight o'clock, Father Orousoff will include a discussion of the psychology of Russian rule and of religious problems in Russia. Father Orousoff, the only Russian Jesuit in the Western hemisphere, is well qualified to speak with authority on the Russian problem. Born in the Russian Empire, he is the son of Prince Alexander Orousoff, who is a descendant of one of the oldest Russian families, a family that had its beginnings in the Tartar conquest of Russia. He lost his parents at the time of the Soviet Revolution, and after suffering the many deprivations of a refugee, joined his surviving relatives in Paris. His last surviving brother, Serge, was killed in Africa during the last World War while fighting with the Allied armies. Brought up in the Russian Orthodox Church, he became a Catholic, and joined the Society of Jesus in Rome. After his ordination, following a brief sojourn in Eire, he went to Shanghai to work among the Russian colony there. When the Red Chinese armies threatened Shanghai, the Father left, with five thousand other Russians, for a refugee camp in the Philippines. Sickness caused him to be evacuated to the United States, where he was assigned to the Russian Institute at Fordham. Father Orousoff's world-wide odyssey that has led him from Moscow to Paris to Rome to Eire to China to the Philippines and finally to the United States has given him a deep insight into the problems with which the Western world is confronted in its efforts to confine the areas of Communistic influence and domination. His lecture at St. Dunstan's this evening should prove highly interesting for those persons in the Charlottetown area who are concerned with knowing how Communism spreads and how it can be stopped.

C. W. L. Holds Farewell Party

A very enjoyable evening was held in the C. W. L. rooms on Tuesday evening, April 29th, when the members gathered to bid farewell to Mrs. William T. Cullen, who with her husband leaves on May 6th for her former home in England where they will in future reside. During the course of the evening's entertainment a presentation of a suitable gift was made to Mrs. Cullen by the President, Mrs. Fred Steele, on behalf of the members of the sub-division. After the presentation Rev. Father P. F. MacDonald congratulated Mrs. Cullen on her fine attendance at all meetings and the co-operation given in all activities of the League. Mrs. Katherine Creamer, Social Service convener and Mrs. Lorne Noonan, past-president, voiced warm sentiments of the good work done for the sub-division by Mrs. Cullen and expressed their regret at her departure. Mrs. Cullen in her reply thanked the ladies for their thoughtfulness and said she'd always have fond memories of the friends made in the C. W. L. Miss Marion Dougan kindly played several piano selections during the evening and solos were beautifully rendered by Mrs. Arthur Murray and Mrs. Percy Landrigan. A delightful lunch was served by the ladies of the executive. On Wednesday afternoon at the Catholic Social Welfare Bureau, Mrs. Lorne Noonan on behalf of the ladies of the Social Service committee presented Mrs. Cullen with a very lovely gift and at the close of the afternoon's program require food for the sustenance of our bodies, so is Holy Communion needed for one's spiritual food. He congratulated the large number of nurses on their attendance at their annual memorial service, and told them what a great privilege was theirs to receive together our Lord's body and blood. A vote of thanks was presented to Fr. McLellan by Miss Eileen McDonald, R.N., chairman.

Catholic Graduate Nurses' Service

Observance of Nurses National Re-dedication Sunday was celebrated by a large number of Catholic graduate nurses of the City, by attendance at the Holy Mass and Holy Communion in the Charlottetown Hospital Chapel at 8:15 a.m. The chaplain of the Nurses' Guild, Very Rev. A. McLellan, C.Ss.R., celebrated Mass. Appropriate hymns were sung during Mass by the Sisters' Choir. Following church service, a delicious breakfast was served in the nurses' dining room, by the Sisters and student nurses. Rev. Fr. McLellan was guest speaker. His subject was, "The Eucharist". He pointed out the parallel of the physical and spiritual life and said that, just as we need food for the sustenance of our bodies, so is Holy Communion needed for one's spiritual food. He congratulated the large number of nurses on their attendance at their annual memorial service, and told them what a great privilege was theirs to receive together our Lord's body and blood. A vote of thanks was presented to Fr. McLellan by Miss Eileen McDonald, R.N., chairman.

Service Held By Protestant Nurses

The Nurse's National Memorial Service for Protestant Nurses was conducted by Rev. J. D. Davison, in the Baptist Church on Sunday evening. The service was largely attended by nurses, many of them in uniform, from the various institutions where they are in training or otherwise engaged. In his sermon, Rev. Mr. Davison dwelt at length and effectively on the merits and example of Florence Nightingale, whom he described as "The Patron Saint of Nurses." Two anthems were rendered by the choir, under the direction of Mrs. K. S. Rogers, organist and choir leader.

Island Odds And Ends

It has been a long time since Charlottetown citizens have been so concerned about the city's streets. They were dismayed when the snow disappeared and revealed that every paved street in town needed extensive repairs, or rebuilding. They approved heartily when the City Council boldly decided to build twelve miles of new thoroughfares though the cost was impressive. With a half dozen paving companies bidding for the contract, citizens are now anxious to see the work underway. It was one of the first chances of the newly elected City Council, to show its capacity and it acted with decision and speed. The electors are beginning to think they have a very good civic government, and are encouraged to believe that the Council will act with equal alertness in disposing of the airport question. An enlarged airport can mean so much to this City, that it is unthinkable that any obstacles will be allowed to stand in the way of its development. The first move—the purchase by the city of the extra land required—is one which can set off a chain reaction of spending, stretching far into the future. After the first outlay for the purchase of the land, the spending will be done by the Dominion Government. The city will benefit greatly by adding more steady salary and wage earners to its population. An extended airport will need a larger staff than at present. Surprising how quickly the roads are drying up in the rural areas. Thanks to the wind and sun, and some timely draying, the most travelled clay roads are quite passable and improving every day. Our paved highways are being given first aid by repair crews under the supervision of Cliff Sherren of the Department of Provincial Highways. Hard-hit as they were by winter frost, these too are in better shape than they were a few weeks ago, but will need considerable attention before they get the O.K. of motorists. Hon. Douglas MacKinnon and his deputy, Mr. Gordon White, have looked our highways over carefully and have first-hand knowledge of their condition. The two men spend considerable time inspecting each highway as it becomes passable, and have been travelling all sections of the Province for several weeks. Mr. MacKinnon has had much practical experience, and Mr. White has high qualifications as an engineer. It is sometimes forgotten that graduate engineers, who study hard for academic degrees, nevertheless acquire much practical knowledge after they leave the university. Mr. White is one

Notes Great Progress In Mental Health Activities

"There has been a vast amount of improvement in treatment facilities and in the obtaining of trained personnel for those who are mentally ill in this Province", Dr. A. J. Murchison, Director of the Division of Mental Health and Superintendent at Falconwood Hospital, stated last night in reference to the nation-wide Mental Health Week which opens today. Dr. Murchison also noted the greatly augmented staff of the Mental Health Division of the Provincial Department of Health and Welfare and mentioned the excellent quality of the work being done to aid those suffering from mental illness. He stated that the recently opened Mental Health Clinic in this city, now operating on a part-time basis, would soon become a full time operation and will also operate as a travelling clinic in order to visit many parts of the Island. The director of the division also mentioned that the present clinic, though being maintained as a service to the public, operates more efficiently when patients come to it on the direct recommendation of their own physicians rather than on a casual "dropping in" basis. Early Start Emphasized Mental health "starts in the cradle", Hon. Paul Martin, Federal Minister of Health, said Saturday in Ottawa as he remarked on the opening today of Mental Health Week. He also observed that "there is a great need to develop sound public understanding about it, to realize that good mental health starts in the cradle and is an important parental responsibility and that, if mental illness does come, it is no more to be ashamed of than any other kind of illness." The special week is being held across Canada to bring to the attention of the public the real need that exists for a continuance in the steady improvement in facilities for treating mentally ill people. The past decade has seen great strides made in this direction, but those involved in the work realize that there remains a large field to be covered. They believe that it is not generally known that approximately one-half of the beds in all hospitals in Canada are required by patients who are mentally ill. Authorities also state that at present there is a distinct shortage of bed space, treatment facilities and trained personnel. In attempting to bring to the attention of the public the real need existing, Dr. Murchison said that there is no field of medicine about which there are more misconceptions, misunderstandings and misunderstandings. No One Immune He believes that the general public should be aware of conditions existing in this respect in their own community and have a true understanding of the needs regarding the care of people who are mentally ill. Dr. Murchison stated, as an important reason for everyone understanding the problem, that "no one is immune to mental illness." Aiding in the work here will be a speech to be delivered tonight by Dr. J. D. M. Griffin, general director of the Canadian Mental Health Association. Although there is no branch of the Association in this Province at present, Dr. Murchison said that it is the
