Woman And Navy Officer Confess French Plot Role

CP from AP-Reuters

PARIS — A 55-year-old pipe-smoking woman English teacher known as "The Countess" and a navy captain were reported here to have confessed their role in an assassination plot against French President de Gaulle.

Informed sources said both denied being triggermen in the plot, but they said they were to hide the killers who were to have been supplied by Georges (The Limper) Watin.

Watin is a fugitive Secret Army terrorist sought in connection with an earlier attempt on de Gaulle's life.

The confessions came from Madame Paule Rousselot de Lillac and Robert Poinard, 37, about 24 hours after they were arrested late Thursday, the sources said.

The "Countess," employed at the Paris Military Academy as a translator, was one of those arrested Thursday night after discovery of the plot.

She and Poinard were said by sources close to the investigating authorities to have admitted meeting Watin to prepare a new attack against the French president.

Watin, in hiding from police, is wanted for his alleged part in the August attempt when de Gaulle came under a hail of automatic weapons fire but escaped unscathed.

The sources said Miss de Lillac told police of the meeting with Watin and that her statement had been corroborated by Poinard.

They also quoted the "Countess" as saying an attempt on de Gaulle's life was originally fixed for Friday, when the president visited the academy, but had been postponed to a later date.

Watin is reported to have taken over as anti-Gaullist Secret Army Organization (OAS) leader in France after the arrest of Andre (Black Monocle) Canal, who was reprieved after being sentenced to death.

TRIED IN ABSENTIA

Watin is present being tried in absentia by a military court at Vincennes with 14 others accused of the attempted assassination last August at Petit Clamart outside Paris.

Police, who launched a country-wide hunt for him, have information indicating he was in Paris a few days ago.

No further official information on the plot investigation has been given since the information ministry Friday announced the arrest of a woman and four officers.

One of the three arrested officers, Capt. Maurice Marbountant, was released later. Two others who had been held for questioning, Master Sgt. Alfouche Nessim and the wife of Poinard, were also released.

Latest reports on how the authorities uncovered the plot say a non-commissioned officer tipped off military security 10 days ago after being contacted by the conspirators.

SUSPECTS WATCHED

Close watch was kept on the suspects.

Prime Minister Georges Pompidou was consulted before a decision was taken on whether to continue the watch in the hope of being led to the instigators of the plot or nip the conspiracy in the bud.

Pompidou, the reports said, decided no risk could be taken with de Gaulle's life and ordered arrests before the president visited the military college Friday.

De Gaulle, informed of the discovery of the plot, refused to alter his plans, sources close to the government said.

He visited the military college as planned and continued his usual routine.

Three rifles equipped with telescopic sights were seized in the police swoop.

PLANNED SHOOTING

Usually well-informed sources have said the plan was for a marksman, posted at a window, to shoot down the president as he walked in the courtyard of the military school.

Sources close to the government said the non-commissioned officer who tipped off military security had been asked by the plotters to get a detailed plan of the huge military academy building on the left bank of the Seine facing the Eiffel Tower.

De Gaulle received several visitors at the Elysee Palace Saturday.

Authorities declined to say whether he would go to his country home at Colombey-Les-Deux-Eglises this weekend. This is in line with what has now become customary security surrounding his movements.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
4♥	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead — king of diamonds.

Here is the kind of hand it would be easy for anyone to misplay. There is no doubt that some plays in bridge are not altogether obvious, even though they are clearly correct, and this hand contains one that might easily be missed.

South was in four hearts and West led the king of diamonds. Declarer ruffed, drew a round of trump, and led the jack of clubs and finessed. East took the king, returned the queen of spades, and South went down one, losing three spades and a club.

There is no doubt that South was unlucky to find East with the king of clubs and West with the ace of spades. Nevertheless, he should have made the hand. He should have taken out insurance to guard against these possibilities.

The method of play that practically guarantees the contract is to discard a club on the opening lead of the king of diamonds. It does not matter in the actual hand what West plays next, but let's assume he continues with the ace of diamonds.

The contract is now 100 per cent sure. Declarer draws a round of trump (two, if necessary) and plays the jack of clubs to the ace. Then he leads the queen of clubs.

If East has the king and covers, South ruffs and enters dummy with a trump to discard two spades on the 10-9 of clubs. If East does not cover the queen, South discards a spade and continues with the ten of clubs. He is assured of eleven tricks if East has the king of clubs.

If West has the king, South is still sure of the contract. When he leads the queen of clubs and discards a spade, West can win with the king, but that does not prevent South from winning ten tricks. In fact, if West does not cash the ace of spades at this point, declarer makes five odd.

The key to the hand is the play at trick one.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X B
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
