Spain and the Carlist Cause.

Before 1833 Spain was one of the great powers. Between 1833 and 1876 there were actually 38 rebellions, changes of government and coups d'etat. Since 1833 Spain has declined in the scale of nations and now ranks as little more than a third rate power—a glorious tribute indeed to the wisdom of interfering with the settled succession.

In order to understand the present condition of Spain we have only to read the daily papers. On the one hand, in Madrid, we see a titular sovereign struggling ineffectually with an empty treasury to stave off bankruptcy, making futile attempts with a discredited army to subdue his rebellious colonies and relying upon martial law to crush civil anarchy, which, be it remembered, is ever the result of bad government, incompetent and tyrannical police and especially of corrupt finance and of taxation pressing too heavily on the class least able to bear it. On the other hand, in Venice, we see the king waiting until the moment shall arrive for him to make his final essay to save his country from the distress with which the queen regent has proved herself unable to cope.—Fortnightly Review.

Ahead on Battleships.

The most powerful battleship afloat is the Indiana or her sister ship, the Oregon. They each carry in their main batteries four 13 inch, eight 8 inch and four 6 inch guns, an aggregate of 140 inches of caliber for the main batteries. The new British battleships Magnificent and Majestic carry in their main batteries four 12 inch and twelve 6 inch guns, an aggregate of 120 inches of caliber for the main battery, and the new Japanese battleship recently completed in England is designed to carry in her main battery four 12 inch and fourteen 6 inch guns, an aggregate of 132 inches of caliber for that battery. The main batteries of the Kearsarge and Kentucky will be the strongest in the world. Each will have four 13 inch, four 8 inch and fourteen 5 inch guns in the main battery, a total of caliber for that battery of 154 inches.—New York Press.

ODD INCIDENTS IN BASEBALL.

A Veteran's Scrapbook Furnishes a List of Notable Games.

The following bits were taken from the scrapbook of an old time enthusiast by the Cleveland Post and give some of the notable incidents of the past history of baseball:

May 1, 1877, the St. Louis Browns and Syracuse Stars played a 15 inning 7 to 6 game.

Eleven days later the Harvard college and Manchester clubs played a 21 inning 0 to 0 game at Boston.

On July 4, 1878, the New Bedford and Hartford played three nine inning games in three different cities—New Bedford, Taunton and Providence. The New Bedford won all three games—15 to 0, 3 to 1 and 18 to 2.

Not a run was scored in a 13 inning game between the Holyoke and Harvard college teams at Boston, June 26, 1889.

George Gore made the circuit of the bases in 14 seconds at San Francisco Nov. 9, 1879.

Tom Lynch shut out the Baltimorees without a hit while pitching for the Nationals, May 24, 1880.

Johnny Ward, pitching for the Providence team, performed the most remarkable pitching feat on record, June 17, 1880. He not only shut out Buffalo without a hit, but did not allow a batter to reach first.

By making 11 runs in the ninth inning the Atlantics beat the Mets at New York City Aug. 9, 1881.

On May 25, 1882, Fennelly of the Atlantic City club made six hits for 19 bases with the Keystone.

It was on Aug. 17, 1882, that a home run by Radbourn was the only run made in an 18 inning game between Providence and Detroit. This is considered by many the most remarkable game on record.

The East Saginaw team made 20 runs in the sixth inning of a game with the Dayton club, April 21, 1883.

On Sept. 6 of the same year the Chicago club made 18 hits and 18 runs in the seventh inning of a championship game with Detroit.

In a game with the Allegheny team at Cincinnati, Sept. 12, 1883, the Reds made 34 hits for a total of 54 bases.

With Mountjoy and Cushing pitching, only one hit was made in a game between Cincinnati and Toledo, Oct. 21, 1883.

On Sept. 8, 1884, Davis of the St. Louis club struck out 24 men in an amateur game at Cairo, Illa.

At Dayton, O., Sept. 19, 1884, was played the quickest game on record, the nine innings being completed in just 47 minutes.

Charley Bennett, while catching Weidman of the Detroit Sept. 26, 1884, put out 28 men—20 being on strikes—and threw out the other three, an unprecedented fielding record.

The Baltimorees not only failed to make a hit off Smith of the Newark (N. J.) team Oct. 3, 1885, but went out in one, two, three order for nine innings.

On May 30, 1886, Van Haltren, pitching in Oakland, Cal., struck out the three first men at bat on nine pitched balls.

In July 31 of the same year the Baltimorees made one single off Ramsey of the Louisvilles in 12 innings.

In three successive games at St. Louis Sept. 20, 21 and 22, the Kansas City club failed to score a single run.

Oct. 21, 1887, the Cleveland and Pittsburg clubs played a nine inning game in exactly 60 minutes.

Jack Crooks, then of the Omaha team, made five successive hits, four of them being home runs, in a game with the St. Paul team at St. Paul June 8, 1889.
