The provision of a hospital in O'Leary to serve the needs of the village and the surrounding area covering thirty-five school districts and a population of about five thousand, was thoroughly discussed at a meeting in O'Leary Friday evening.

Mr. Errol Stetson of O'Leary presided and after explaining the purpose of the meeting called on Dr. Charles Dewar, O'Leary, Dr. Dewar stressed the need for a hospital and said it would have to be large enough to contain twenty beds in order to obtain a government grant. He also outlined proposed financial arrangements covering payment over a five-year period.

Dr. George Dewar, O'Leary, also spoke about the need for a hospital in the community, mentioning how hard it is to get patients into the larger hospitals which are always crowded.

In the beginning the proposed hospital would have the same facilities as the Western Hospital at Edmonton. All those attending, including representatives from Campbellton and West Point areas, were in favour of going ahead with the plans and the following trustees were appointed: Errol Stetson, E. W. Turner, Ralph Adams, Dr. Charles Dewar, Allie MacNeill, Russell Leard, Leonard Stavert, Harris Rodgers, Mrs. Robert Woodside, Mrs. Alice Turner, Mrs. John MacPherson.

Volunteer workers were received from almost every district to look after collecting funds for the proposed building.

Mr. E. W. Turner was secretary for the meeting.

Flashing Light At Busy S'ide Rail Crossing

A flashing light installed on Saturday at the Eastern approach to the railway crossing on Water Street East, will serve to caution motorists of their approach to this busy railway crossing.

Visibility at the outer approach to the crossing is hidden by buildings as a highway of Water Street, and local residents as well as tourists are sometimes surprised on rounding the curve near Hall Manufacturing Company to find themselves almost at the crossing before seeing traffic moving on the railway line which normally seems quite busy during the day, with regular traffic and shunting services to sidings in the general area.

The new light will remind motorists of their approach to this busy crossing and may be instrumental in preventing accidents. Efficient and courteous service has been provided for many years by a watchman stationed at this crossing during the daytime, whose duties have been to warn traffic of the approach of trains.

Mr. Leslie Coulson of Kensington fell from a tractor on which he was a passenger on Saturday and received injuries which included a fractured pelvis and fractured ribs when one of the large tractors wheels passed over his body. He was taken to Prince County Hospital where he was resting as comfortably as could be expected last evening.

Mr. Coulson had spent the day chopping wood in Sea View, and in company with his son Clayton was walking home to Kensington about 4:30 p.m. when they accepted a ride on a tractor that overtook them.

While proceeding along the highway the tractor went into a rut and Mr. Coulson was thrown forward from the vehicle, and one of the wheels passed over his body before the operator had time to stop.

Mystery Of

The camel's thick hair in even the hottest Sahara weather.

The camel's thick hair is a protective device. Arctic animals use fur to keep them warm. Camels use it to keep cool.

Humans have learned the same lesson. Desert people don't wear shorts in summer. They protect themselves with relatively heavy clothing.

Camels don't drink large amounts of water until after being thoroughly dried out. Then they may drink more than 16 gallons at a sitting to bring water content back to normal.

One camel went 17 days in summer without drinking.

Barn Burned At Bedeque

Awakened about midnight on Saturday by the crackling sound of burning wood, Mrs. Elliott Bell of Bedeque was the first to discover that a large barn across the road from the Bell home was on fire.

Even at this time and before neighbours could respond to her call, the fire had made too much headway to be controlled, and the barn owned by Mr. E. W. Turner was burned to the ground.

A few miscellaneous things including a couple of items of furniture belonging to Mr. Lloyd Affleck were lost with the barn.

Burning grass and a nearby electric light pole which caught fire were extinguished by people who arrived at the scene.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Bell, located across the road from the burning barn became very hot from the heat of the fire, but the direction of the wind was favorable and the house was not endangered from direct falling sparks. The origin of the fire is unknown.

Political Future Of Ross Thatcher Top Guessing Game On Parliament Hill

OTTAWA (CP)—Future political role of a 37-year-old Saskatchewan hardware merchant has become the No. 1 guessing game on Parliament Hill.

But Ross Thatcher, who booted the CCF party Friday because of growing differences with his colleagues, is not likely to provide the answer at an early date.

In his statement of resignation, he said he will take an early opportunity to explain to the Commons the reasons for his decision to resign. However it is considered unlikely that he will refer to his future political role.

For the remainder of the present Parliament he proposes to represent the constituency of Moose Jaw-Lake Centre as an Independent. He said he would not apply for membership in any other party.

Recalls Execution Of Mussolini 10 Years Ago

By STAN SWINTON

ROME (AP)—"Are you glad we are to die together?" asked the pretty young woman with sky-blue shawl.

The bald man was too frightened to answer.

It was 4:20 p.m. April 28, 1945, by the low wall encircling the wide lawn of Villa Belmonte, in the north Italian lake area of Messago.

Suddenly a machine-gun snarled, punctuated by measured, carefully-aimed revolver shots.

The bald man fell first. The woman swayed, then sprawled at her lover's feet.

Benito Mussolini was dead. With him passed an era in modern history as violent and bloody as his name, in which Italian fascism was a world force, once as feared as Soviet communism is today.

Ontario Election Is Expected In Next Two Months

TORONTO (CP)—Farquhar Oliver, making it clear that he expects to lead his Ontario Liberal party through an election campaign in the next two months, charged Saturday that Ontario's Progressive Conservative government is spending all the public money it can to stay in power.

"I have known such a government to fall before an avalanche," he told the annual meeting of the Ontario Liberal Association which devoted much of its time to planning for the campaign. "I know of no other government that has done more to earn the criticism of the electorate."

In an address Saturday afternoon, External Affairs Minister Pearson said Canadians must work toward international peace as sturdy, independent and self-reliant people. At the same time, he added, it is necessary to co-operate with other nations of the free world to speak English to avoid delays. Mr. MacInnis dealt with a request for a French-language school at Mailardville, B.C.

on Formosa Saturday was contained in a terse statement which said:

"The Chinese people are friendly to the American people. The Chinese people do not want to have a war with the United States of America. The Chinese government is willing to sit down and negotiate with the United States to discuss the question of relaxing tension in the Far East, especially the question of relaxing tension in the Taiwan (Formosa) area."

In Washington, the U. S. state department, after consultations with President Eisenhower, issued a statement disclosing that Red China to agree to participation in the Chinese Nationalists in any negotiations on Formosa.

The statement called for three-fold action by the Chinese Reds to prove their sincerity: Agreement on an immediate cease-fire in the Formosa strait; the release of 15 imprisoned U. S. airmen and about 40 U. S. civilians; acceptance of a UN invitation to talk over ways to end hostilities in the Formosa area.

In London, the British foreign office expressed interest in the Chou statement but withheld further comment. It was felt London would welcome the statement since it has long sought a peaceful solution of the Formosa question. On Formosa itself, the statement was described in official Chinese Nationalist headquarters as "a neutral, objective and well-timed bit of propaganda." Reception by delegates to the conference was mostly favorable.

Dr. Salk Warmly Welcomed At White House Ceremony

WASHINGTON (AP)—Kings and conquering generals have received the less attention than the White House gave Friday to Dr. Jonas E. Salk Paralytic.

Standing behind the group at the receive from President Eisenhower were Mrs. Salk, in the thanks of a grateful people, spring-like mauve outfit, and the Presidential aides came out of boys in slacks and sports jackets. Later, in his office, Eisenhower gave a fountain pen and pocket to be harder to reach than the knife to each of the Salk boys.

President himself, came into the lobby, crouched down and had a chat with the three Salk young-uns.

Then came the ceremony honoring the developer of the vaccine against polio.

Survival City In Nevada Ready For Atomic Test

By GRAHAM BERRY

SURVIVAL CITY, Nev. (AP)—A brand new survival city, shimmering in the desert sun, was sprung Sunday for its role as the target of an atomic blast twice as potent as those which ravaged Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

Civil defence workers and technicians put finishing touches on homes, a radio station, power plant and trailers on Yucca Flat.

These familiar sights of the average town will be subjected Tuesday to a nuclear explosion equal to the wallop of 40,000 tons of TNT. That's about twice the normal A-bomb energy yield.

More than 5,000 persons are participating in the test to determine how your community would withstand the atomic fury and to learn more about your chances of surviving.

Among 200 civil defence representatives participating are at least two women among 22 CD workers who will be stationed in trenches. Military personnel will crouch in a trench 2,700 yards from the tower. Among them will be 61 Canadian sailors, soldiers and airmen.

This is the closest humans have been stationed for a detonation of such potent yield. Men have been shot on previous tests—4,700 feet from the tower—stand the first row of buildings. They include a two-story brick house, a frame dwelling, one with concrete walls and a one-storey radio broadcasting station made of concrete blocks.

The homes are furnished much like your home. Substituting for people are mannikins. Some are seated, some standing, some in bed. All wear dog tags on heavy wire around their necks.

WIRE MOVIES

In many rooms will be batteries of lights to illuminate the interiors so movie cameras on tripods can film the effects of shock and heat.

The movie cameras are encased in protectors of quarter-inch steel. In a few rooms are microphones to pick up the sounds of splintering glass and creaking walls.

Blat effects will be filmed outdoors by movie cameras atop 10-inch steel castings 10 feet high.

The brick home has a full basement with concrete block walls. In it are two bomb shelters, one of wood and one of corrugated iron.

The radio station, with 200-watt power, will broadcast for eight hours prior to shot time. It will go off the air automatically a few minutes before shot time and, again automatically, will attempt to resume broadcasting shortly after the shot.
