RIPLEY'S BELIEVE IT OR NOT

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 ♣	Pass	1 ♠
Dble	Redble	2 ♥	2 ♠
Pass	2 NT	Pass	3 NT

Opening lead—five of hearts.

An interesting example of fine dummy play is furnished in this hand. The deal is a test which, as the saying goes, separates the men from the boys.

South is in three notrump on the bidding sequence shown. He wins the king of hearts with the ace. How should he proceed?

It will be noted that if declarer now takes a spade finesse, East wins and returns a heart, establishing three heart tricks for the defense. Since South then has only eight tricks—four spades, two hearts, and two clubs—he goes down. The defenders wind up taking a spade, three hearts, and a diamond.

If declarer goes after clubs rather than spades, the end result is the same. The defenders score three hearts, a diamond, and a club to bring about South's downfall.

But the bidding should indicate to declarer the correct course of play to make the hand. It is not simply a matter of bad luck that South goes down if he pins his hopes on a successful finesse in either spades or clubs.

He has a much surer method of play to rely on. It is quite clear from the bidding where the balance of strength between the defenders lies. It is dollars to doughnuts that East, for his double, has the ace of diamonds.

Once this is granted, the only question is how to take advantage of the information. And the answer is that South should temporarily ignore both of his long suits in favor of attacking diamonds.

But the initial diamond lead must come from dummy if it is to be effective. Declarer therefore enters dummy with a spade and leads the diamond deuce.

East is then in a helpless position. If he goes up with the ace, declarer has nine tricks — two spades, two hearts, three diamonds, and two clubs.

If East, instead, plays the eight of diamonds, South wins with the queen, establishes his clubs, and winds up with two spades, two hearts, a diamond, and four clubs.
