

Auto Industry, Legislators Part In Back-Slapping Mood

By DAVID QUINTNER
WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Canadian legislators and the auto industry, who have met head-on in two days of public hearings on auto safety, parted in a mutual backslapping mood.

The 18-man Commons committee of justice and legal affairs, obviously impressed after a visit to the Chrysler Corp. auto research centre near Detroit, paid tribute to the manufacturers' efforts on behalf of safety.

In reply, spokesman for the auto makers said such committee enquiries helped spur them to increased experimentation to benefit the driver.

William A. Woodcock, chief engineer for General Motors of Canada, told the committee that auto makers want to co-operate with the governmental study.

R. P. Callaghan, technical manager of Kaiser Jeep of Canada Ltd., said auto makers "would do anything at all to cut down on the appalling loss of life on the highways of Canada."

SUGGESTS CANADIAN AID
John Addison, Liberal member of Parliament for North York, suggested that some of the $10,000,000 donated by auto companies to universities in the United States be directed to Canadian institutions.

"By 1968, under the provisions of the auto trade agreement, Canada will be producing 7.5 per cent of cars manufactured in North America. A similar proportion of that money should go to Canadian universities for research into auto safety."

Spokesman for American Motors of Canada Ltd., Chrysler Corp. and Chrysler Canada Ltd. said such a request "seemed reasonable."

Mr. Woodcock stressed that the driver must be controlled as much as a vehicle in preventing highway accidents.

He said frequent inspection of all vehicles would help eliminate some of the causes of accidents. "What cars suffer in service is a more serious consideration than the placement of federal inspectors at auto plants."

Jean-Charles Cantin, Liberal member for Quebec South, said the tour of research facilities had convinced him "the industry is doing its best to minimize auto accidents."

The Commons committee spent Wednesday and Thursday in sessions with the auto industry. It was the first time the committee held hearings away from Parliament.

Infant Death Being Probed

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—The RCMP said here it probably will be several weeks before results are available from an autopsy on the body of an infant found in a one-gallon tin on a Burin peninsula beach Saturday.

Magistrate Gordon Seabright of Grand Bank, who examined the body after it was brought to him, said he could not tell the sex of the child.

The body was sealed in a container similar to a paint can, which also contained an unidentified fluid, he said. Magistrate Seabright believed the baby had been delivered only a few days before it was placed in the container.

He added that the waterproof can may have been placed on the beach near Pointcrew, or drifted in from a passing vessel or from the French-owned islands of St. Pierre-Miquelon, 12 miles away.

COLORFUL TATTOO TO BE SEEN IN PROVINCE

The three soldiers here are wearing the uniform of the 42nd (Royal Highland) Regiment of Foot, the first battalion of which arrived in New York in 1756. After serving in numerous campaigns and engagements in North America, the 42nd (Royal Highland) Regiment of Foot garrisoned in Nova Scotia. It is from this famous regiment that the Black Watch (Royal Highland) Regiment of Canada derives its name and much of its colorful dress and traditions. The authentic dress and music of that day will be part of the Tattoo, a 2 1/2 hour Canadian armed forces presentation in Summerside in mid-September. The Tattoo has also included in their fall tour Charlottetown on Tuesday, September 19, and Wednesday, September 20 at the Charlottetown Driving Park Coliseum. The Summerside performances are scheduled for the Civic Stadium.

Churches Asked To Use Stanza Of O Canada

TORONTO (CP)—The Interfaith Conference, a centennial group representing 34 denominations, is asking all churches across Canada to integrate a religious stanza of the French and English versions of O Canada in their services next year.

The announcement was made today by a spokesman of the Centennial Commission which sponsors the conference.

The recommended stanzas are the second in the French version, written in 1890 by Judge A. R. Routhier, and the third stanza in the English version, written in 1906 by Sir Stanley Weir.

Both stanzas have religious overtones. They are not identical.

The English stanza: Ruler Supreme, who hearest humble prayer, Hold Canada within thy loving care: Help us to find, O God in thee A lasting, rich reward, As, waiting for the Better Day, We ever stand on guard.

O Canada, glorious and free, O Canada, we stand on guard for thee.
O Canada, we stand on guard for thee.

The French stanza, in translation: Beneath God's gaze, by the great river The Canadian grows hopefully Born of a proud race His cradle was blessed Heaven marked his career In this New World Guided always by his light He will guard the honor of his flag. He will guard the honor of his flag.
