Kinsmen Camps Very Popular

The past few weeks have been filled with joy for a large number of boys and girls who have been at one of the various Kinsmen Camps held so far this summer. To date approximately 50 girls have had one week under canvas at the K. of C. Rustico Camp sponsored by the Kinsmen Clubs. This camp went on July 16th with Miss Jean Martin of the Y. M. C. A. staff as camp leader with capable assistants and the girls, returned on Thursday the 23rd.

Two camps for boys have been held so far, the first one at Rustico July 2nd, to 11th, with 33 boys enjoying ten days of wonderful camping. The other group of boys return home today from Holland Cove camp where they have spent two weeks as the Kinsmen's guests. The last group of boys go to camp on Monday with the Y.M.C.A. camp at Holland Cove.

Now that the Kinsmen Camps are all but over the Club is now finalizing plans for two large picnics, the first to be held next Wednesday the 29, for girls and the following Wednesday, Aug. 6th for boys.

These picnics are very popular with the children for it gives them an afternoon at Dalvay with supervised games, swimming and a grand lunch supplied by the Kinsmen.

Rose Window For Kirk of St. James

On Sunday morning at divine service in the Kirk of St. James a beautiful tribute to the memory of the late Dr. and Mrs. Victor L. Goodwill will be unveiled and dedicated by the Minister, the Reverend T. H. B. Somers. The memorial takes the form of a rose window of chaste design set in the spandrel of the Gothic arch over the main doorway of the church. The theme of the window is "Christ the King". The figure of our Lord appears robed in scarlet and turquoise blue; on His head is placed a crown of pure gold. In His left hand rests the terrestrial orb surmounted by the Cross symbolizing His universal dominion through redemption; His right hand, scarred with the nails of the nails, is raised in benediction. Around the central heart of the rose are placed six cusps of crystal in which adoring cherubim offer their worship to the Triumphant Redeemer.

In the lower left and right hand corners of the arch are set quatrefoils bearing the sacred insignia, Alpha and Omega, and in the remaining spaces triangles of jewelled glass in shades of saffron, emerald, gold and violet fill out the theme and create an effect of rare and reverent beauty. Placed thus over the main entrance to the sanctuary the window inspires the worshipper and offers the blessings of Christ's comforting grace to all who pass within the portals of His Church.

Beneath the window on the supporting beam is placed a tablet of brass bearing the following inscription: "To the Glory of God and in Loving Memory of Victor Lyall, 1875-1952, and Florence Reid Goodwill, 1877-1952. The gift of William L. and Edith O. Bailey." The following poem descriptive of the window and the significance of its message was written by Professor William L. Bailey who, with Mrs. Bailey, is now a member of the Kirk congregation and are the donors of the memorial. Mrs. Bailey is a sister of the late Mrs. Goodwill.

Potato Resolution Parentage Still Matter Of Speculation

Officials of the Agriculture Federation and Potato Marketing Board are seeking to "smoke out" the authors of a petition which is being circulated among potato growers in the Province, criticising the Board's activities in strong terms. In a statement from Mr. J. Lincoln Dewar, Federation secretary, in Wednesday's Guardian, it was implied that dealers and assemblers are playing an active part in soliciting signatures to the petition; but a number of dealers contacted by The Guardian have denied this and claim that it emanates from potato growers themselves. The petition, which is in printed form, advocates the cancellation of the existing legislation and the establishment of a permanent potato secretary in the Provincial Department of Agriculture, with an advisory committee consisting of nine growers, one as chairman, and six potato dealers suitably appointed and equitably representative, to arrange for the promotion and welfare of the industry.

The resolution states that no objection would be taken to any group forming a pool or co-operative through which to market their potatoes or any other produce but takes strong objection to any compulsion in regard to growing or marketing of the produce. The resolution claims that the past two years' experience has proven that this Province has no control over the prices of potatoes throughout North America or elsewhere, and no one with sufficient knowledge and judgment to correctly forecast or regulate the market. It states that misleading information given publicly by the Board, directly and indirectly during the past year, together with misjudgment in imposing floor prices and compulsory regulations, have been the cause of serious financial loss to a great many farmers.

The Board, the resolution claims, "is now bankrupt, after depleting the funds available at the inception of the Board, for the protection and promotion of the industry, by some $10,000, and together with this amount, has spent a large revenue assessed the growers and others in the industry during the existence of the Board." It claims that only 2,240, or about 30 per cent of the growers, paid their tax prior to the threat of legal action, and that to fairly enforce the regulations some 4000 growers are now liable for suit. "A vast per cent of the farmers interested in the growing of potatoes," the resolution states, "do not favor the apparent ultimate idea of the promoters of the Board to enforce one desk selling and pooling"; also that it is "contrary to the spirit of the British freedom and law that any small group appointed by small meeting or organizations such as evidenced at the recent meetings held in Summerside with about 65 per cent and Charlottetown with about 45 including a number of dissenting voices should have the power to make laws by decree which can drastically affect the economy of the farmers."

Little Change In Employment Outlook

The National Employment Office has been advised that one of the biggest employers of labour in Labrador, the Drake-Merritt Company, has practically completed recruiting labour for this year. The company will continue to engage a few highly skilled tradesmen from time to time, but there will be no mass recruiting of men in this Province, as was the case one year ago.

The employment outlook remains about as it was a week ago, with a considerable number of men unemployed in King's and Queen's Counties. The local office has jurisdiction over only King's and Queen's Counties. The National Employment Office in Summerside, carries on National Employment Service work in Prince County.

The Charlottetown Office was very busy for the past two weeks supplying strawberry pickers and hullers for the various growers and packers. Although the figures are not complete, it is believed that about 300 pickers and hullers were supplied to growers and packers during the two week period. Two large companies in Queen's County have been packing steadily, and the money disbursed to the many people engaged in the harvest of the berries, and the preparation of them for marketing, has been very welcome.

At the present time, the number of claims being paid at the local office is approximately 375 which is an advance over last year of about 175. The claimants are spread over King's and Queen's Counties from East Point to the County Line near Kensington.

A number of farmers are badly in need of help for haying, and some of the out-of-work people who live in the rural areas are accepting this type of employment. The wind-up of recruiting for the north country, will be a disappointment to a great many men who have been awaiting an opportunity to go to Goose Bay, Baffin Land and other points north.

More than half of Cuba's arable land is devoted to cultivation of sugar cane.
