

Clay Finds Miltenberger Tough But Wins In Twelve

FRANKFURT (AP)—Heavyweight champion Cassius Clay was given surprisingly strong opposition for a few rounds by Karl Miltenberger before he stopped the game, aggressive West German in the 12th round of their world title bout Saturday night.

Clay, a 10-to-1 favorite, dropped the German three times and had him bleeding around both eyes and from the nose before British referee Teddy Waltham stopped the slaughter at 1:30 of the 12th round at Wald Stadium.

The unbeaten 24-year-old champion from Louisville, Ky., floored the European champion in the fifth, eighth and 10th rounds and battered him with both hands in most of the closing rounds.

A sharp right cross spilled Miltenberger just before the bell sounded to end the fifth round. In the eighth, a crisp left hook to the jaw dropped the 28-year-old challenger for the mandatory eight count. In the 10th, a right sent Miltenberger tumbling to the canvas just before the bell sounded.

"It was Clay's sixth title defence and his fourth within 5½ months.

Sleek and fast at 203½ pounds to Miltenberger's 194½, Clay scored consistently with straight rights to the head of the left-handed German.

Miltenberger's south paw stance troubled Clay for a time, especially in the third and fourth rounds when Karl scored heavily with lefts to the head and body. But from the fifth round on it was all Clay.

The champion stabbed away with his darting left jabs and followed with flashing rights to the head.

Still the German kept coming. He moved in and Clay greeted him with his jabs and rights. The crowd of about 40,000 cheered the efforts of the native son, even when his punches obviously were short.

"I imagine he knew it was the end," Clay said afterwards. "He was on the way down when the referee stopped it."

"It was a tough fight. I hit him with a couple of good punches. I had a chance to take him out several times earlier.

"He was hard to get to and he had a pretty good punch. He was sharp. He was a real gentleman, though."

It was the 21st knockout for Clay, whose record is 26-0. Miltenberger had an unbeaten streak of 27 fights snapped. His record now is 49-33. It was the third time he has been stopped in a career of nearly eight years.

"I'm going down to Houston where this wealthy oilman has a fellow name of Cleveland Williams," Clay said. "I hope to meet him in the Astro dome in about two months."

Later Clay said the Williams fight would be Nov. 14. Saturday's fight was scored by referee Waltham had

HUNTERS' CORNER

Weather And Hunting Have Both Changed

As I type this "Corner" September 8th, winter appears to be waiting just around the corner. Gale force wind and pelting rain, cold as ice pellets, makes for a miserable sort of day. Both weather and times have changed. In the old days Exhibition week in September was, almost without exception, warm, balmy weather. It was our "goose week" at the Old Home Lake. As the old goose hunter, Alex Weatherbie used to say, the wild goose goslings have to get fresh water. Later on he stated they learn to get it during rain storms from the slight hollow in their backs at the base of their tails. Those soft, balmy September days appear to have gone forever. In this age a change in the weather, is felt with the passing of August.

Duck hunters are in a disturbed frame of mind. Several old timers have informed this columnist that they do not consider going out on the opening morning, October 1st, at all. Teal are not fit for table use and wild geese are not worth shooting until at least the fifteenth and a wildgoose is not really palatable until November 1st. There is no real sense in shooting game birds before they have reached at least a degree of fatness that shows in a layer under the skin. When the feathers give with a snapping sound when plucked and the skin has the appearance of dried leather the flesh has no flavour.

Last weekend a gunner of my acquaintance spent a couple of days in eastern Kings County. He was on holiday and did a spot of black duck checking. His total score was an approximate 61... sixty at Naufrauge and one loner at Black Pond Sanctuary. A few years ago ducks at Black Pond could be counted in thousands.

My information is that juveniles, with 22 calibre rifles, drove the ducks out of the Sanctuary. I spoke to a Souris duck hunter three years ago about this situation at Black Pond and he only laughed and remarked: "I'm not worrying... it makes good duck shooting for me." I wonder what he is thinking now when there are no black ducks worth the name either on, or off the Sanctuary. He forgot to take into consideration that, if the Sanctuary had been left alone, he would still have some duck shooting in Eastern Kings. Even Sanctuary ducks have the urge to move out of the sanctuary limits and visit other enticing duck habitat in the immediate area. It was akin to killing the goose that laid the golden eggs.

It looks at the moment that our rabbit hunters will have to ease up on their hunting activities and place a daily bag limit on their take. It is the general consensus of opinion that our local rabbit population is down an approximate fifty per cent this year in Queens county and to a slightly lesser degree in Kings. No definite information is available at the moment with regard to Prince County. It has
